

Oregon Members Of Sigma Delta Chi Stand High

University of Oregon, Eugene, Nov. 22.—George Howard Godfrey, student in the school of journalism and staff member of the Oregon Daily Emerald, returned to the campus Tuesday night, after a trip to Manhattan, Kan., where he attended the annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, as a representative of the Oregon chapter. Godfrey reports that the Oregon chapter stands well with the national fraternity on account of the excellence of its campus publications. Lemon PUNCH, the Oregon Emerald, Oregon Exchange, Old Oregon, the Oregonian and the Sunday Emerald all came in for their share of praise, according to the delegate.

Hopkins Announces Self as Candidate For Aberdeen Mayor

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 22.—A. G. Hopkins, who has held the office of constable for several years, is a candidate for mayor in opposition to Mayor E. E. Bailey, who was renominated for a second term at the recent city primary.

Hopkins is past 70 years of age. He has been a strong advocate of prohibition. He was nominated at a caucus held the night of the primary election by the Good Government party. His filing paper was refused by the city clerk on the written opinion of the city attorney, who held that not sufficient publicity had been given the caucus in order to conform to the primary law.

Hopkins took his case to the superior court, the judge of which upheld the opinion of the city attorney. Hopkins is now waging a campaign for a ticket, hoping to win in that way.

School Authorities Sanction Peon Pants

Albany, Or., Nov. 22.—High school authorities here have agreed to sanction the wearing of peon trousers by boys during school hours, provided all decorative buttons and loud colors are removed and that the trousers are worn sans the mesh. This action followed a student body vote of 107 to 100 against the wearing of this garb. In view of the fact that only half the student body voted and that the division of opinion was nearly equally divided, the compromise was voted. Three high school boys had attempted to wear the novelty trousers a week ago, with the result that classrooms were temporarily disrupted.

Guard Saves Boat Blown Onto Beach

Astoria, Nov. 22.—After many hours of hard work on the part of the Point Adams coast guard crew, a five-ton troll boat belonging to Hattie Takkala, Astoria fisherman, which was blown onto Clatsop spit by a strong east wind, was salvaged successfully. Takkala had anchored his craft in the Columbia river near the spit while he searched for stove wood. The wind was so strong that the anchor of the craft dragged and it was thrown high and dry on the beach. The craft saved by the coast guard men is valued at $200.

Taxidermist Faces Bevy of Charges

Hoquiam, Wash., Nov. 22.—A. E. Peoples, local taxidermist, is being held in jail to lieu of $170 bail as a result of his arrest Tuesday following the discovery of a 20-gallon still, several gallons of moonshine, a large quantity of corn mash, elk hides, elk teeth and beaver hides in his home in Kane avenue. He is held on charges of liquor possession, liquor manufacturing and possession of beaver hides and elk hides.

Venire Exhausted In Murder Trial

Bend, Nov. 22.—With one special venire exhausted, selection of a jury to try Ed Halvorson, charged with the murder of Willard Garrett, halted at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, being renewed at 7 o'clock in the evening. The defense twice waived its right to preemptory challenge.
