

CORVALLIS SET FOR OPENING OF BIG HORT. SHOW

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Nov. 23.—N. R. Moore, mayor of Corvallis and news editor of the Gazette-Times, will deliver the address of welcome to the members of the State Horticultural society and the Western Nutgrowers' association at their annual convention this evening. Responses will be made by B. W. Johnson, president of the society and apple king of Benton county, and by Ferd Groner of Forest Grove, president of the association.

The advantages and facilities of the port of Portland for handling the horticultural products of Oregon and the Columbia river basin will be discussed by W. B. Dodson, manager of the Portland Chamber of Commerce. James T. Jardine, director of the experiment station, will tell what the station is doing to aid in the development of the horticulture of Oregon.

"Pruning" and "Soils" were the general subjects today. Cleve Curran of Benton county, A. E. Reuter of Washington county, S. B. Hall of Multnomah county, Edward Calton of Jackson county, R. W. Hogg of Polk county, Ferd Groner of Washington county, H. G. Andrea of Multnomah county and Harry Rosenberg of Jackson county spoke, and a discussion was led by Clayton L. Long, extension specialist in horticulture at O. A. C.

The college "hort" show will be officially opened this evening by W. S. Brown, professor of horticulture. Thinning and drying and pest control will be taken up at the sessions Friday. "Marketing" is the general subject for Saturday morning.

Irrigation Plans To Tap Snake Is Given at Burbank

Pasco, Wash., Nov. 23.—About thirty members of the Pasco Chamber of Commerce went to Burbank Monday night to attend a meeting of the Commercial club at that place. Talks were made by C. M. O'Brien, C. F. Stinson, B. E. Horrigan, V. B. Cox and A. F. Wehe of Pasco.

An irrigation scheme approved by engineers in the employ of the Burbank people was explained by one of the engineers. The plan contemplates taking water from the Snake river by means of a wing dam at Strawberry island, several miles above Pasco, by which about 12,000 acres on the Franklin county side and 10,000 acres on the Walla Walla county side may be irrigated. Locks would be provided to permit boats to navigate the river, costing about $700,000, which expense, it is believed, would be taken care of by the war department. For the balance of the expense a bond issue of about $600,000 is proposed.

The power plant would be located at the point where the power plant of Franklin county irrigation district No. 1 stands, and would supply power considerably in excess of that needed for irrigation purposes, available for Pasco, the Burbank community and Kennewick and providing electric energy much cheaper than at present. This project is virtually the Five Mile dam project cut down to within the reach of the communities interested.

Elks in Charge of Saleman's Burial

The Dalles, Nov. 23.—Ernest Jacobsen, salesman for the J. K. Gill company, who was found dead at the wheel of his car Tuesday near Crown Point on the Columbia river highway, will be buried in The Dalles. The local lodge of Elks will be in charge of the service. Jacobsen was well known all over the Eastern Oregon country. For many years he was engaged in business in The Dalles, coming here soon after his immigration from Germany. His widow and children reside on a ranch near Mosier in this county. A sister in The Dalles also survives.

LEAPS INTO RIVER FROM RAIL BRIDGE

Mill City, Nov. 23.—Residents of Mill City were startled at the noon hour Wednesday by the spectacle of a man hurtling through the air from the Southern Pacific bridge over the Santiam river into the swift current, where he struggled and disappeared. Searching parties are working with drags and hooks over the river in an attempt to find the body.

Witnesses say the man climbed to the edge of the bridge and plunged 50 feet to the current, where he apparently decided that life was better than the cold water and swam for a short distance in a vain effort to free himself from the current.

Salesman Charged With Theft of Auto

Baker, Nov. 23.—A. R. Bush, traveling salesman of this city, was arrested Saturday in La Grande by C. L. Lienallen, state traffic officer, and charged with the larceny of an auto. According to Bush's story, he was asked to ride by a man driving the car and was later asked to drive. The driver vacated and Bush is awaiting action on his case.

Wasco Veterans Paid $82,000 in Last Six Months

The Dalles, Nov. 23.—Wasco county veterans, who took advantage of the state aid loans, have been paid $82,000 in the last six months, according to a statement made public Wednesday by Francis V. Galloway, county attorney for the state commission, and $100,000 will have been disbursed here by the end of the year, he forecasted.

Thirty men have received the loans and eight more cases have been adjudicated, and the funds are due at any time. About 100 ex-service men are expected ultimately to avail themselves of the loan privileges in this county, Galloway said. The money has been used in the construction of new homes, the purchase of more lands and stock and the settlement of old mortgages, it was added. Seventy per cent of the veterans of the county took the bonus option under the act.
