

HARDING TOO LAX ON PROHIB LAW, SAYS DRY LEADER

The Harding administration has failed completely in its duty to properly enforce the national prohibition law and the president himself has shown by his cabinet appointments that he is not in earnest in his enforcement of the Volstead act, says the opinion of Virgil Hinshaw, national chairman of the Prohibition party, who addressed a large gathering at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon.

"Since the present administration has been in office there has been a marked laxity in the fight against the liquor traffic," Hinshaw said. "The appointments of Daugherty, Mellon and Weeks to the Harding cabinet serve as proof that the president is not doing his utmost to enforce the statute. Each of the three men is an avowed 'wet' and has done nothing to aid enforcement of the law."

PREDICTS DRY WORLD

Hinshaw, who was formerly an attorney in Portland, is optimistic in his view of the prohibition question. He believes that the efforts of the national committee will reach other countries and that before 1929 the entire world will be dry. He bases his belief on recent events in other countries, where several moves already have been started toward the advent of dry laws.

According to Hinshaw, the great difficulty in enacting world-wide dry laws will be encountered in Western Europe. He believes that the recent defeat of the Central powers in the war and the overthrow of monarchical governments as proof that the peoples of these countries will eventually take a hand in the dry fight and bring about the placing of the lid on manufacture of intoxicants in foreign lands.

WESTERN EUROPE WETTEST

While in Europe last year Hinshaw said he addressed several meetings in Austria and Germany, where, he predicts, prohibition will be in force in a few years. At one of these meetings 4000 persons, the entire audience, greeted his remarks with applause and unanimously voted in behalf of a dry law. In Bielefeld, Germany, a city of 78,000 inhabitants, 15,066 persons went to the polls to vote on the dry question and of that number 12,528 favored the abolition of intoxicating liquor.

"Western Europe will prove a stumbling block in the path of dry advocates, but England and France will soon come to realize the prohibition will prove a great help to them," Hinshaw said.

"In the United States the Prohibition party is increasing in power. The recent elections, although they showed little visible change in the attitude of the voters, demonstrated clearly that light wines and beer will not return. The decisive victories of the dries in California and Ohio tend to show that the bone-dry movement is popular with the people. Up until the November elections Ohio and California had no bone-dry laws and the Volstead act was not rigidly enforced. Now conditions will be met for the drier side."

SEEK BETTER ENFORCEMENT

"We are opposed to any modification of the present national prohibition law, but seek better enforcement of the statute. There is plenty of room for more action toward the suppression of the traffic.

"More competent men should be enlisted in the fight against liquor and more funds should be appropriated for the enforcement of the law. In Oregon there are not enough agents. The government should take it upon itself to see that there is a large enough force at work against any possible infraction of our dry statute.

"Full sentences rather than fines are favored for better results in cases where violators are convicted. The average fine is but a small portion of the amount of money earned through illicit liquor traffic and fails to discourage bootleggers. Second and third offenders should be given penitentiary sentences. The jails are the places for bootleggers and moonshiners."

Hinshaw is of the opinion that the home-brewing fad is gradually dying out in the country. For some time there was much brewing in the homes, he says, but this is steadily decreasing.

D. M. GROSHONG

D. M. Groshong, 74, who crossed the plains in 1853 with his parents to Milwaukee, died near Willoughby Tuesday. In 1854 his parents located on a donation land claim 3 miles east of Marquette. He married Harriet L. Webb, May 16, 1872. His wife, two sons, four brothers and a sister survive.

Chairman Answers Criticism Aimed at Community Chest

Objection to the Chest because it aids in the support of one baby home, among its 50 institutions, has been made by America First Lodge 926, further designation of this organization being unknown. This group has issued a circular letter to many citizens opposing the Chest generally because of this single objection.

"The position of this lodge is untenable," said Chairman E. C. Sammons, "because the Chest is a merger only of drives and not of institutions. If we could reach this lodge, we could point out the error it has fallen into.

"But we do not want the general public to be misled. If anyone has any particular objection to one institution, all that is necessary is to designate what institutions one wants to help or to specify what one agency the subscriber does not want to help and these instructions will be carried out faithfully.

"The Chest is a merger of drives. It substitutes one drive for the recurring, overlapping drives of former years and replaces the old wasteful method of caring for the city's unfortunate. It is all wrong to say that because one has a prejudice against one institution, he should not give to the support of any other. Capable business men and leaders of the community who make up the Chest board of directors have investigated all the agencies helped by the Chest and believe them all worthy of support."

Transcontinental Freight Rates Cut 50 Per Cent, Jan. 12

Reductions in transcontinental freight rates, ranging as high as 50 per cent, on shipments of tallow, radio amplifying sets, wrought iron and steel compressed cylinders, from Pacific coast points to Eastern territory, were announced by the Southern Pacific company Saturday, to become effective January 12.

On inedible vegetable tallow, the present rate of 75 cents per 100 pounds from Pacific coast points to Chicago and points west, will be reduced to 65 cents.

The new rates on carload shipments of radio amplifying sets will range from $3.68 per 100 pounds to Chicago to $2.44 to Colorado points. Less than carload rates will range from $6.10 to Chicago to $4.96 to Colorado points.

On less than carload shipments of wrought iron and steel compressed-air cylinders moving from Pacific coast points to Eastern destinations, the new tariff rate will range from $2.03 to New York to $2.63 to Kansas City. The carload rates will range from $1.80 to New York to $1.42 to Kansas City.
