Aims of Clubs Explained at Meeting

The ideals, purposes, accomplishments and aspirations of the several civic, commercial and altruistic organizations of men of the city were set forth in three-minute speeches by their presidents at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Portland Women's Research club, held Monday in the ballroom of the Hotel Multnomah, Mrs. Ervin G. Leiby presiding.

John T. Douglal, president of the members' forum of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke of that organization. Marshall N. Dana brought the message of truth in advertising as exemplified by the Portland Ad club, reminding the women that since 90 per cent of the purchasing power of the country is in the hands of the women, they were entitled to know of the efforts of this organization.

Judge George Stapleton, president of the Progressive Business Men's club, set forth some of the things which this organization has accomplished, aided and supported, of a social, civic, educational and legislative nature.

Idealism as set forth in the tenets of the Kiwanis club was explained by L. P. Hewitt.

The Rotary movement, both national and local, was described by Dr. J. W. Hill. H. G. Beckwith, president of the Portland Realty Board, told of the efforts of this organization, which is national in scope, to standardize the real estate business as a safeguard to both dealer and client. J. P. Jaeger, president of the 100 Per Cent club, explained that loyalty and reciprocity are the keynote of that organization.

A. C. Newell, president of the Oregon Civic League, explained that this is the only organization of its kind that admits both men and women to its membership and full deliberations. Lloyd Bates, president of the Lions club, spoke of that organization and some of the fine civic accomplishments of the City club were set forth by the president, E. T. Mischo.

SINGING IS FEATURE
An innovation in the musical program was the Orpheus Male Chorus, directed by William Mansell Wilder. This organization gave three beautiful selections. Miss Nina Dressel sang two delightful numbers. The American Legion frolic at the Auditorium was announced by Pat H. Allen.

At the business session following the luncheon the chairman of the legislative committee, Mrs. G. L. Buland, presented the matter of amending the jury bill, which in regard to jury duty and it was voted to petition the legislature to make this amendment to the present law, which now provides that women's service be optional.

An entertaining program, including musical selections and short talks, was presented to the Women of Rotary at the regular monthly meeting Monday night at the Hotel Multnomah. James Ross, chairman for December. Final plans for the club's Christmas welfare work were discussed. Ten poor families will share the kindness of the Women of Rotary during the holidays.

At the luncheon Monday Hopkin Jenkins, principal of Jefferson high school, gave an interesting talk on the present situation as he was privileged to observe it while touring the continent last summer. Four members of the Columbia Ladies' Concert orchestra played during the luncheon. Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson sang several pleasing numbers. A report description of the Shriner's recent trip to Hawaii was given by Mrs. Arthur Johnston, one of those who made the tour.

The regular meeting of the Oak Grove-Milwaukie Social Service club was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Davenport Thursday afternoon. After the business meeting a program, consisting of Christmas carols by the club chorus, a report of Oregon will be shown. The state convention recently held at Eugene will be discussed.

FASHION'S REALM

Paris, Dec. 18.—The most remarkable thing seen today is a mere halmet of satin shirring, set far over the eyes. It is relieved from grotesqueness only by a soft ridge of puffy satin stretching along the back of the chapeau and thrusting itself above the ears.

Paris, Dec. 19.—The newest evening cape shown today is founded on the floor barrel idea, and if you are very tall and slender, it is a real distinction. If you are not you wear it with a difference. It is a plain creation with a voluminous straight edge with rabling the neck to help it. It is encircled with strands of rabbit fur which gives the effect of luscious plush parcel wrapped about with cord.

New York, Dec. 19.—One of the most fascinating breakfast gowns shown here today is of broad satin in pale blue. It is a V-necked robe with the three-quarter length sleeves, easy to slip over the head. Neck and sleeves are outlined with light gray fur.

New York, Dec. 19.—Among today's up to date accessories are half belts, which add to the proper note of glory to a gown without confining too closely the folds which should hang with grace. Some of the latest in a favorite background for the intricate patterns which are picked out with shining beads.

Hipp Bill Peppy; Trained Dogs Are Star Performers

The usual peppy variety of vaudeville and picture entertainment rule at the Hippodrome this week. Paul Kilest and his company of talented comedians top the bill with a variety of harmonious blends entitled "The Land of Dreams." Kleist whistles with volume and his whistling impersonations are fine.

Williams and Healy are two Welsh miners in their comedy act, which is a riot. Williams sings to some extent while his partner is a capable whistler. The act is a new order of things. It includes a number of songs, including "Trio's number. They hop, skip and two-step through an enjoyable 15 minutes. The West Point cadets have nothing on the trio for snappy marching.

Julie Busse has a number of canine intellectual acts who do some smart tricks. Some of the humorists in the bill do show up so well after the dogs do a couple of impersonations that are exceedingly clever. The dogs are well trained and it is something new in the way of an animal act.

The Marlay girls, Rean and Ollie, have a great little act. Cilie and Rean are good to look at. They sing and entertain at a lively fashion and use the saxophone merrily.

Doris May, vivacious little film queen, is featured in "Up and At 'Em," a snappy movie. The bill will continue throughout the week.

quor." by Mr. Sarah Law, was held. Tanette Jallof will appear in two of the plays to be presented by the B'nai B'rith Girls' Dramatic club at the B'nai B'rith building December 27. She will take the part of "The Slave With Two Faces," and "The Dissatisfied One in the play called "Hunger."

The Portland Woman's New Thought club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in room 2 of Central library. Mrs. Maxton of the club will lead in a discussion of Emerson's "Gifts." All interested will be welcome.

The Llewellyn Parent-Teacher association will meet Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Eugene Furze of Oregon will be shown. The state convention recently held at Eugene will be discussed.

DRESS

Slim Lines With a Circular Flare Typify the Spring Mode

One of the newest silhouettes sponsored by Paris shows a long, slender blouse draped close to the figure and a sheath-like underskirt over which is mounted a long, circular-cut tunic. A favored detail is the all-over tracing of soutache braid embroidery toning with the rust colored wool rug of the frock. A choice of collars is offered in this interesting model, the shawl collar being quite as successful as the one illustrated.

DAVID F. JUDKINS
The Dalles, Dec. 19.—David F. Judkins, for many years a resident of Portland, but who lived six years at the home of his daughter in Wapinitia, died Saturday night. His body was brought in Monday and will be held until April before burial because of the illness of surviving relatives. Judkins was 75 years old.

Members of Nydia temple who can assist with the packing of the Christmas bags for the Shrine will meet in the Pittcock building, Stark street entrance, Friday at 9 a. m. Each member is asked to bring thimbles and scissors.

It is so Easy to Make These Delicious JELLIES

Granberry Sauce de Luxe
Take 1 1/2 lbs. ripe cranberries, pinch or crush berries with the fingers so that they "pop" or open up, if too hard or green to open in this manner, slit part way open with knife. Use ripest berries for best flavor. Dissolve 4 level cups (2 1/2 lbs.) sugar in 2 cups water, then add broken berries. Bring slowly to a boil and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir 1 minute. Skim and pour quickly.

Mint Jelly
Measure 2 1/2 cups (3/4 lb.) water, add 1 teaspoon sugar, table coloring and stir until dissolved. Add strained juice and lemon and 1/2 level cup sugar and bring to a boil. At once add 1 bottle (scant cup) Certo, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full boil for 1/2 minute. Remove from fire and add 1 teaspoon Spearmint extract. Let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

A friend

stopped the gas man, exclaiming: "Look at my Househeating bill!"
It was for $13.49 for Oct. 25 to Nov. 23.

"Well, what of it?" quoth the gasman, "mine is twenty-something."

"That's just it," said the visitor, "think of it, only $13.49 this cold weather, and the reason I heat my house so cheaply is that I used Cabot's Quilt, instead of Building Paper, on my walls."

The friend was John Kerr, 977 Raleigh. Last year his total bills were only $109.69. He has a Gasco furnace. See the full line displayed at the Gas Salesrooms, Alder near Fifth.

FRATERNAL

Peninsula chapter, Order of De Molay, initiated its first group Wednesday evening with a class of 10 candidates. The ritualistic work was creditably done. The chapter now has its supply of robes and uniforms. Both were put on at Wednesday's meeting.

Liberty assembly, United Artisans, will give a card party and dance at the East Side Woodman hall, Sixth and Alder streets, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock. Program will consist of cards from 8:15 to 9:45 o'clock. Four prizes will be given, also door prize. Cadets will drill. The

BURGESS' BEDTIME STORIES

Unc' Billy Has a Hard Fall
By Thornton W. Burgess
More frequently than you would dream things are not really what they seem.

THE hunters at the foot of the pine tree in which Unc' Billy Possum was hiding were excited, quite as much excited as the dog who had driven Unc' Billy up that tree. They were having a good time, were those hunters. They didn't stop to think that the one they were hunting must be having a terrible time. They were sure that it was Bobby Coon who was up in that tree, for it was Bobby they had come out to hunt.

They kept flashing a light up in the tree, but the branches were thick and no one did they get a glimpse of Unc' Billy Possum. Had they been able to see him, they probably would have shot him. Finally it was decided that one of them should climb that tree. It wasn't a hard tree to climb. Unc' Billy could hear that hunter scrambling up and drawing nearer and nearer. He crept out as far as he could on a branch and clung there.

Now, this is just what that hunter expected and so as he climbed he carefully looked over each branch as he came to it. When he reached the branch on which Unc' Billy was he saw him at once. But it was dark and he couldn't see clearly. He still supposed that Unc' Billy was Bobby Coon.

"Here he is," yelled the hunter. "He isn't a very big fellow, so I'll shake him off and we'll let the dog kill him."

So the hunters down below gathered in a circle, with the dog in their midst, and the hunter in the tree began to shake the branch. Unc' Billy clung with all four feet. The hunter shook harder. Unc' Billy clung more tightly. Up and down up and down went that branch. Unc' Billy had backed so far out on it that there wasn't much to hang on to. It was a terrible situation. In front of him was that hunter in the tree and down below were those other hunters and that dreadful dog. They all seemed to be enjoying it. Yes, sir, they did. But Unc' Billy was too frightened to even think. He hadn't the least bit of hope.

The hunter picked Unc' Billy by the tail and held him up branch he flew and down, down, down! He struck the tips of two or three lower branches, but couldn't catch hold of them. He heard a joyous yell from the hunters, and then he struck the ground. He struck the ground with a dreadful thump. Unc' Billy lay still. The dog rushed forward and grabbed him by the loose skin on the back of his neck and shook him. Then one of the hunters grabbed the dog and pulled him away. You see, Unc' Billy hadn't moved.

"He's dead!" cried one of the hunters. "That fall must have killed him. He isn't a Coon at all; he's a Possum, as sure as I live!"

The hunter picked up Unc' Billy by the tail and held him up, while the other hunters gathered around to look at him. They were in great glee. "He was a hunter," as they looked at Unc' Billy hanging there, lifeless. "At once they began to make plans for a Possum dinner. Then they set out to hunt, for they saw that Bobby Coon and they followed, one of them carrying poor Unc' Billy by the tail. They thought he was dead. But he wasn't.
