There is apparent danger of a diphtheria epidemic as well as measles in Pendleton, if prompt measures are not taken to prevent the disease from obtaining a foothold. The East Oregonian is inforcause of Beulah Hilton's death, and that Methodist constitution has ended, and it two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Hiiton are ill with a disease pronounced diphtheria by the attending physicians, Drs. Alexander. A little daughter of Henry Thompson has also been attacked.

The gentlemen of the U.S. land office smile this morning as gaily as if the Secretary had completed a set of rules for years ago. In substance it ran as follows, locating the forfeited railroad lands and for it was a swift story and traveled far they had the first claim to all of it. The and wide: they had the first claim to all of it. The reason for this unusual joy is that the checks for last quarters salary which evidently came by slow freight, have arrived and they have now no fears of an individual financial stringency. Money may be the root of all evil but it is root, role branches and foliage of all moders.

Mr. Jenkins was in the habit of getting drunk now and then, for in those days the people drank more or less. One day he had taken a little too nuch, and on the way home he got into a mud hole with it, and when he got himself out he was very much disfigured with the mud that was on his clothes. He came on to-ward home, and when he peared his comfort.

The Bonds Refused.

The individual bond which was prepared and sent to Portland Saturday for the signatures of the stockholders of the water company, was returned unsigned vesterday morning. At the same time, the company demands the retnrn of the contract, and the payment of all water rents collected. It would seem from this that negotiations are at an end and the matter settled unless the Council should consent to accept the warranty deed offered. In conversation with one of the councilmen, he stated that he would

DR. G. C. ESHELMAN-HOMEOPATHIC PHY

Portland capital is going in at North Its Prospects for a Large Manufacturing City.

FOR BUILDING AND BUSINESS PURPOSES.

It would be difficult to find a better illustration of the courage-determination business foresight and rapidity of execution so characteristic of the people of this great northwest, than is found in the life and progress at North Dalles. The entire work is only in its infancy, hardly commenced, short as the time is, however, enough has been done or put underway to convince the most skeptical that the foundaries of the contract that the founders of this enterprise are in earnest and will establish here this coming year a prosperous city. It is only in the days of modern enterprises when men can be found who are prompt in the execution of large undertakings that towns and cities are built up, and people awake to the idea that capital has stepped in and carried out that which nature intended so many of these towns to be, large commercial shipping and manufacturing points.

Geographically situated North Dalles has perhaps no superior on the Columbia river or in the northwest as a shipping point. Quite a party of gentlemen will come from Portland this week to look at land which will not remain longer without railway connections. And while it may be admitted that the water ways do not do away with the necessity for rail-roads to the full and complete develop-ment of this country, yet the increase in the volume of business done on these One of the largest tanneries west of the Mississippi river will be located at North Dalles and at least two other large mighty factor in its general growth and prosperity. But the two go hand in hand providing a means by which the traffic of these inland empires may be heaply handled.

* MACEACHERN & MACLEOD.

Secure the shadow ere the substance fades." And to make a genuine success of it, go to Eastman's Gallery, corner Second and Federal streets.

North Dalles lots are selling fast and are being taken at Portland very freely. This week promises some promising developments.

Mrs. Jos. T. Peters went to California to spend their honeymoon, taking with them the best wishes of the taking with them the best wishes of the bia river for hundreds of miles to become entire community.

J. H. Cross dealer in Hay, Grain, Feed, Poultry & Eggs. Dressed poultry a specialty. Located in Michaelbaugh's building alongside Dunham's Drug Store.

There is considerable talk concerning of the finest agricultural land in that, and the community of the second settled by thrifty farmers.

If you will study the work laid out by the government you will soon be convinced that North Dalles will secure all the frade from the country north for a distance of 125 miles and taking in some of the finest agricultural land in that, and the community.

There is considerable talk concerning a big tannery to be established here. Should it go, Hood River can furnish hemlock bark in any quantities and for one half the price paid in Pennsylvania.

Mr. O. D. Taylor and S. L. Skeel returned from Portland Saturday where very heavy sales of North Dalles property were made to Portland parties. One sale has recently been made for over state.

State.

Over seven million pounds of wool are shipped from The Dalles yearly. There can be no legitimate reason advanced why woolen mills would not be an assured success. Next then to the Boot & Shoe factory, soon to be opened, our people must not be surprised if this new industry is not added to the one at North Dalles and put on a solid financial foundation immediately.

It is now an assured fact that one of the largest tanneries west of the Misshas published in French a book that is said to be an imitation of the modern French novel.

Church Fair.

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their Fair on the 17, 18&19 inst.

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their Fair on the 17, 18&19 inst. engaged, many of them for business and building purposes and those by men who have a keen eye to the immediate pros-pects for advancement. The fact that a trade was consumated last week across the river for over $58,000 adds one more link in its future.

When we say that North Dalles will be a busy center of trade and that it will continue to grow rapidly, we feel confident that we are not overstepping the bounds of probable reason. Towns are built up nowadays as if by magic, and we hardly know where the capital came from, sufficient that it is always ready when opportunities exist. Talking lately at Spokane Falls with a gentleman who lived some miles north of the city and who had not visited the Falls for the link in its future. and who had not visited the Falls for the last three years, he said to me, "I cannot understand this city. I see before me blocks presenting a solid front seven stories high. I cannot see who is to occupy them, where the business is to occupy them, where the business is to come from, surely capital must be wild. These lots that are now worth $50,000 I could have had my choice of at $300 only four years ago." I said to my friend, why did you not buy? Did you not know that the water power of Spokane Falls would build up a city? Did you not know that there was millions of acres of land tributary to it? Could you not take the map of this country and trace out canyons and passes which not take the map of this country and trace out canyons and passes which would compel railroads to center there? "No," he said "I was not a believer in the future of this country. I lacked confidence. I was what is now called a "mossback," the worst enemy this country now has, but if I ever have another opportunity I certainly will improve it." prove it."

I said to him, your opportunities have gone, so far as Spokane is concerned, you must look for new towns where the same conditions exist.

Some of the largest cities in this country are great inland empires and that one, if not two, will be established on the Columbia river is now an absolute certainty. Then if you would secure a home in this new El Dorado, one in which you will be glad to spend your future years, see to it, that before the setting of another sun you have laid the foundation stone.

A Bridge to North Dalles There now seems no doubt but that the great bridge which is to cross the Columbia river between North Dollas and The Dalles will be built by
