which we made in January last proved only too true. Heavy rains and result-ing floods in Sacramento and other counties of California drowned out the roots in many hopyards, and the result shows a falling off in these counties of over 4000 bales from the previous crop. At that time we also expressed a fear that the Pacific coast hop vines might suffer during the 1890 season from diseases prevalent in other countries, and we have now to record the appearance in Act.---Other Matters. SALEM, Jan. 28.—The senate today passed the Australian ballot law with several amendments. The bill now goes to the house for concurrence. The house today passed Welch's bill to authorize the Astoria, Seashore and Eastern railroad to bridge Young's bay and Lewis and Clark rivers other such portions of vines as showed mould were not picked. If it had not been for this fact, Oregon would have shown a crop of 30,000 bales. We believe for 1891 the acreage will again show a 5 per cent. increase and that growers must expect the reappearance of the aphis, and they will be prepared to properly resist its attacks as can best be done. The total stock remaining on the General Miles Regards the Indian Dim-eulty as Settled.done. The total stock remaining on thePacific coast, January 1, 1891, was 9,834bales. This is 3,000 bales less than thepacific coast stock on January 1, 1890.Nothing can be stated in the way of es-timates this early regarding the 1891crop. The high prices ruling during thepresent season will encourage some in-crease of acreage, and cultivation will becarefully proceeded with, but to whatextent the aphis will damage the cropduring August and September next can-not be predicted, nor can the crop be esnot be predicted, nor can the crop be es-timated in advance of its actual picking. In former seasons the aphis was un-known, and an estimate could be made with reasonable accuracy; but the Pacific coast will no longer enjoy immunity the vote for state officors. The commit-tee states that it is unable to determine from the disease and pest incident to hop cuture that previously existed.

the Mammoth mine up to 10 o'clock this morning. It is estimated that the remains of at least seventeen more victims of yesterday's explosion are still in the pit. It is thought that all will be out in a few hours.

Nobody slept at Mammoth last night. In every home and in every little mining hamlet there was mourning.

Fifty coffins arrived from Pittsburg this morning and another half a hundred will reach here tonight.

An additional order for twenty-five nore was sent this morning.

The cause of the explosion is not yet determined. The coroner is on the ground and a thorough investigation will be made.

Roll call of all men is in progress and by this the exact number of missing will be well known.

The rescuing party is working with energy and the wreck in the shaft is being fast cleared up.

Officials of the Frick company said this morning: "It may never be known how or why the explosion occurred. An accumulation of fire damp was probably the cause, but it was never known to exist in any quantity before, in fact it may be said that the Mammoth mine has been free from damp. There is a theory that a pocket of natural gas was reached and that the operation of ventilating fans now prevents any accumulation of it."

There has been found up to 2 o'clock this afternoon 110 bodies and of this number, fifty-three have been identified.
