LOCAL BREVITIES.

How to get there: Keep going.
This is the last week of the legislature.
The sun rose today at 6:58 and sets at 5:30.

Mrs. E. M. Wilson has gone on a visit to Walla Walla.

On this day, the 16 inst., 1862 General Grant took Fort Donaldson.

Dr. Edgington, of Wasco, paid the CHRONICLE office a visit today.

The flags have been at half-mast in this city since Saturday in honor of the Nation's distinguished dead.

Mrs. Jerome Thomas accompanied by her husband, of Olex are in the city visiting her parents, Mr. & Mrs. G. F. Beers.

The new time schedule of the Union Pacific, that was expected to go into operation yesterday, has been cancelled for the present.

The revival meeting at the M. E. church, is creating a considerable interest, and the outlook for a large number of conversions is very encouraging.

There is a good deal of stir at the East End. The new blacksmith shop is being fitted up, and the new building opposite is nearing completion and will be occupied in a short time.

The Sunday Welcome suggests the name of D. C. Ireland of Astoria as president of the O. P. A., vice Samuels retired by circumstances over which he had no control.

The case of Snipes vs. the O. R. & N. Co. is still on trial in the circuit court and will occupy most of the day. With a banker against a corporation how can the jurors "get even" on both?

The freight traffic by rail is very light for the past few days. The railroad employees are talking of shutting up shop and go fishing as all they find to do is to swap yarns.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Phirman has gone to Salem, having in custody John McDonald and James Brooks, who are sentenced to the penitentiary for one year each for larceny in a dwelling.

On Wednesday night the Society of Christian Endeavor of the Congregational church will hold a social at the residence of Mr. J. L. Story. There will be an excellent musical and literary programme.

Thos. Welch and Wm. H. Shelly, both of Ireland were admitted to citizenship today, also Daniel Thomas a native of Germany was admitted to citizenship last Saturday by the circuit court of this district.

The sample shoes of the Boston Shoe and Leather company on exhibition in one of the windows of the CHRONICLE office are attracting much attention and favorable mention. The efforts of the factory are not entirely bootless either, but we have none of the aforesaid boots.

With a railroad to the coal mines and a branch to the glaciers of Mt. Hood, The Dalles can snub the weather regulator with impunity. Without the branch to Mt. Hood, we shall hope the aforesaid regulator will turn the very coldest shoulder he has to us next summer.

Sheep men every where report their flocks in fine condition. Good weather for sheepmen, rain for the farmers, forfeited lands for settlers, and better transportation facilities for all the people of Eastern Oregon ought to be lonesome. We shall have so little to growl at that the oldest settlers will be homesick.

Harmon Lodge, No. 501, I. O. G. T., last Saturday night installed the following officers: W. C. T., William Michell; W. V. T., Miss Ettie Story; W. C. D., Parish; W. S., Clyde Bonney; W. A. S., Lyman Lee; W. F. S., William Michell, Jr.; W. T., Miss Clara Story; W. M., R. C. Fleck; W. D. M., Miss Lettie Johnston; W. I. S., Miss Nellie Michell; W. O. S., Ernst Jensen.

Snow has piled up to the depth of two feet in the mountains between Ochoco and Bridge creek. These mountains are the great reservoir for a good portion of Crook county and when there is plenty of snow there, the streams throughout the county are well supplied with water the following summer. If nature will stack up two feet more of snow in these mountains there need be no fear of a drought next season.—Ochoco Review.

Henry Klindt, Saturday brought a wagon load of fresh vegetables grown this winter in town. There was an abundance of spinach and young onions galore. The latter were as big as a pigeon egg, and the turnips fresh from the field will measure two or three inches in diameter. St. Valentine day is early even in this neighborhood, for spring garden truck, but it got here just the same.

S. P. Shutt of the Arlington Advocate paid us a visit today.

Mr. Harry Morris, of Portland, came up to this city yesterday.

Miss Clara Grimes returned home to Albina, having made a pleasant among friends of this city.

Otto Thurse was declared insane by the county court today and was taken to Salem on the train this afternoon by Dr. Rinehart.

Mr. Brenner, of the Prineville-Dalles stage line, was in town last week. He was suffering from an attack of whooping-cough. Mr. Brenner says if he had his life to live over again he would have this malady when a youth.—Ochoco Review.

The Water Bill.

A strenuous effort is being made at Salem on the part of a few of our citizens to defeat the passage of the bill known as the Dalles City Water Bill. The main features of the bill are to amend the old law as that the water commissioners shall have exclusive control of the water works, that is shall be independent of the city council, the city shall pay the commissioners all funds heretofore received by it belonging to the "water fund" and that the commission shall have the power to and shall keep loaned at the highest rate of interest all monies belonging to the "water fund" not immediately needed for payment of expenses, interest or bonds. The bill was endorsed by the city council, the board of trade and all the honest taxpayers. If passed the city will save from $3,000 to $5,000 in interest annually; the work of perfecting the water plant will be carried on with less delay and the work will be exclusively under the control of men chosen because of their peculiar fitness for that work. Any attempt to defeat this bill we believe originates in selfishness. We understand that the latest attempt to kill the bill is the introduction of a bill placing the water fund in the hands of the mayor and city treasurer. We do not believe that this scheme, if such a bill has been introduced, is suggested in good faith or with the expectation that it will become a law. We know it will not meet the approval of the tax-payers of the city. It looks much like a trick and we earnestly hope it will not be suffered to interfere with the bill introduced by Senator Watkins.

Annual Meeting of the S. B. Stockholders Dufur, Oregon.
DUFUR, Or., Feb. 8, 1891.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the S. B. Medicine manufacturing company of Dufur, Or., being called by the president Dr. L. Vanderpool and all the stockholders being present the meeting was formally called to order. The president then called for the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

On motion of Acting Secretary L. Vanderpool, Mr. A. J. Brigham was appointed secretary pro tem. The reading of the minutes of the last meeting were then read; considered and adopted.

After considerable discussion Dr. L. Vanderpool was renominated and elected president of the company and A. J. Brigham vice president for the ensuing year.

On motion of T. H. Johnston W. L. Vanderpool was elected secretary for the company for the year ending on the first Monday of Feb., 1892.

The election of directors being the next thing in order, the names of certain stockholders were mentioned, when was quite an extended discussion upon the various plans of work, resulting in the unanimous verdict that no known company had reached such grand results and become so generally known and received such widespread approbation and credit, as the S. B. Medicine company, under the wise, prudent and economical administration of the company's affairs during the year of 1890. And it was unanimously agreed that no better names could be mentioned to conduct the company's works for the year to come than those of T. H. Johnston, W. L. Vanderpool and A. J. Brigham.

When the vote was taken resulting in the election of the above named gentlemen who were then sworn, as the directors of the company for one year. After attending to some matters of minor importance, and considerable jubilation over the successes of the company during its brief history. The meeting adjourned to meet on the first Monday in February, 1892. REPORTER.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

Mrs. Johnson, a lady of about 35 or 40 years of age who was turned out of doors as she claims, by a relative and came to The Dalles the first of last week, has disappeared and so far no one seems to be able to obtain any information with regard to her whereabouts. Friends have looked all over this city but are unable to find her, and any person who may know where she is will confer a favor by sending the same to this office. Back of all this is a long story of her abuse which some time may be made public. Mrs. Johnson is a high-minded and deserving woman and it is hoped that she can be found and justice done her.

Samuels and the "West Shore."

The Portland Sunday Welcome has this to say in regard to Mr. Samuels retirement from the West Shore:

The stockholders of the West Shore, considering that L. Samuels was not worth $400 a month, have deposed him as a manager, and will conduct the periodical on a more economical basis—doing away with the pictures, retrenching in salaries paid literary contributors, doing without a high-priced man grown tired of rustling, etc. Gentlemen, we don't like to throw cold water on any enterprise, and especially on one that benefits the entire state, but we fear you will tire of being assessed to keep the periodical in question on its feet. The people are not here to support a first-class pictorial paper. Samuels has worked every town and corporation from Helena to breakfast, rather the Pacific ocean, and with your contributions to stock steps down from his managerial pedestal a well-to-do man and leaves in your hands a well-sucked orange.

On Hand.

A prominent physician and old army surgeon in eastern Iowa, was called away from home for a few days; during his absence one of the children contracted a severe cold and his wife bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for it. Woman's Rights in Roumania.

The woman's rights movement in Roumania has received a new impetus from the recent election of a woman to the mayoralty of Branesco. Meetings of women are being held all over the country with a view to organizing a woman's league for the purpose of booming women for city offices. The aims of the league will be followed in observance of the fact that, while women are legally eligible to all local offices in Roumania, public opinion and the constitution are against admitting them to parliament and granting them the ballot.

The league will, therefore, be an association of women who will merely plan and execute the best means of influencing their husbands and brothers to support other women for municipal elective offices. The headquarters of the league will be in Bucharest, where the women have been inspired to strong efforts for "emancipation" by the achievements and fame of their queen, Carmen Sylva.

The female mayor, whose political success has stirred this agitation, is Mrs. Anna Jonescu, 45 years old, and the mother of three children. She has been a woman's rights agitator for some time, and, unfortunately, has gathered about her a great crowd of strong minded Roumanian women, who are now tormenting her with loud and numerous demands for all the offices at her disposal. In fact, their cries for spoils have been so persistent that they have reached the ears of the minister of the interior and have imperilled the whole cause of woman's rights in Roumania, for the minister has said that unless this office seeking and attendant evils cease he will not only refuse to confirm Mrs. Jonescu's election, but will discourage by all lawful means similar candidacies in the future.—London Letter.

Common Sense About Thermometers.

There is something exasperating to a sensible person in seeing a useful scientific instrument like a thermometer dressed up in frivolous fashion, and mounted in such a variety of preposterous ways on plush easels, tin or bronze plates, in every conceivable manner that will make an ostentatious show. The simpler manner in which such an instrument can be mounted the better. The ugly black tin case that surrounds the ordinary thermometer is no addition to it. The best way to buy thermometers is by the dozen or half dozen unmounted. Each instrument consists merely of the plate containing the degrees and the mounted tubes. By keeping a half dozen together and noticing the uniformity or want of uniformity of their register defective ones may be rejected.

Purchased in this way trustworthy instruments do not cost over ten cents apiece. Once in a while in testing them a defective one will be found, but it is rare. It is an excellent plan to keep one of these thermometers in every room, hanging it on the edge of the door frame, where it is not exposed to a special current of cold or hot air, is not likely to be hit and injured, and does not obtrude itself upon your gaze, but keeps in its place like an obedient servant. It would be an excellent plan to have a place for a thermometer sunk in the wood of the door frame at this place.—New York Tribune.

Disease in Carpets.

A war on ordinary sweeping should be inaugurated; for, of all dangerous habits, none is worse than that of flinging that combination of everything which we call dust into the air to be breathed. Brooms should be abolished. Hard floors, with rugs to be lifted and shaken out of doors, with a complement of work with the scrubbing brush, will drive out our present system of carpets and brooms. No one can tell what is or is not in the dust on his floor. A carpet in the course of six months is permeated with organic waste brought in from the streets or breathed off or sloughed off from our bodies. These dangers are even worse in city houses, and the soil of a large city cannot become otherwise than permeated with danger. A city well cannot possibly be assuredly safe.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How Women Expose Themselves.

Rose Terry Cooke says: "If you want to be happy keep warm." Women are often troubled with neuralgia, say the doctors. No wonder. They sit all the morning by a hot register and then tie the five or six inch strip of bonnet over their back hair, a bit of lace flim over their bangs, put on kid boots, with silk or thread stockings underneath, and dawdle along the pavement with bitter winds of winter smiting their temples, their delicate ears, their throats, and the bases of what should be their brain. Their outward nerves shrink and quiver under this barbarous exposure. But no matter; their chests are well covered with fur cloaks and saques, but cold feet, the numb ears, the reddened temples, the exposed neck will have their own story to tell.—Washington Star.

Indoor Ball.

Our children are getting lots of amusement these cold winter days from the game of "wool ball," and perhaps other children may find it good fun. The children are seated around a perfectly smooth topped table. A little raw wool is formed into a light ball and placed in the center of the table. The children then commence to blow toward it, each one trying to drive it from him and off the table, if possible, and the child who allows it to pass his right side and fall on the floor is excused from the table, and stands in a line by the wall. Each one who allows the ball to pass by and fall on the floor retires in line. The longer the ball is kept on the table, everyone blowing as hard as possible, the more amusing the game becomes.—Lewiston Journal.

The paralytic condition of the widow of John B. Gough is pathetic. In the pride of her vigorous womanhood she stood bravely at her husband's side when but for such support he would have fallen to rise no more. As the Gough estate is to be sold soon Mrs. Gough will be obliged to quit her pretty home, Hillside, near Worcester.
