Table with columns: Pacific Coast Time, BAR., HUM., REL. HUM., D. of WIND, REL. WIND, STATE OF WEATHER.

Maximum temperature, 46; minimum temperature, 20. Total precipitation from July up to date, 4.25; average precipitation from July to date, 15.07; average deficiency from July 1st to date, 11.82.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

THE DALLES, Feb. 19, 1891. Weather forecast till 12 m., Friday; rain or snow. Nearly stationary temperature.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The lovely weather still continues. A smart shower of rain fell last night. The Dalles is the healthiest place in Oregon today.

The Senates has adopted a resolution to adjourn sine die Friday night at 12 o'clock.

The directors of the new farmers' trading association who are putting in the new store in this city are in session here today.

It looks as if the slogan in Eastern Oregon might be—"No democrat need apply."

It is correctly reported that some one is to be found a K-napping some of these days.

Mr. Smith French returned from Salem yesterday. He reports that the compromise water bill is in a fair way to become a law.

The Portland Speed Association will raise $28000 in purses for this year's races, $8000 for the spring meeting and $20,000 for the fall races.

Open rivers are successfully blocked, not only by a single senator but even by a senator's clerk. The senate has got the abstraction business down fine.

The Oregon legislature will adjourn at the close of the week. But lovers of the sensational are consoled with the thought that congress holds on till the 15th of March.

The Diamond mill was compelled to shut down yesterday morning on account of the engine becoming disabled. It will start up tomorrow morning if nothing further prevents.

The flags on the state house has been at half mast on six different occasions during the session, out of respect to the memory of the historian, Geo. Brancroft, Senator Eastham, King Kalakoo, Secretary Windom, Admiral Porter, and General Sherman.

The Spokane Review make the following good suggestion: Cleveland probably heard that Penoyer favored free coinage. Therefore, he opposed it. Now place Cleveland at the head of the ticket and Penoyer at the tail and you have it. The voters will be caught "both comin' and a gwine." Astonishing how astute these politicians are.

The argument upon the demerit in the case of Mayor Moody against nine citizens, was concluded in the circuit court last evening and taken under advisement by Judge Webster. This is the case wherein the mayor claims his reputation has been damaged to the extent of $50,000 by reason of certain charges preferred against him by the defendants before the city council.

Old winter had but a few more days to put in an appearance until Tuesday of this week came along, and then it looked for a time as if spring had ceased striving to gain a victory over her unusually disagreeable associate. It snowed nearly all day on Tuesday, but the fall was so gentle, and the day so warm, that the "beautiful" in this valley melted as rapidly as it came down, and everybody was pleased.—Prineville News.

On the first page of the CHRONICLE appears the advertisement of Mays & Crowe. This firm succeeds to the business of the late firm of Abrams & Stewart and will continue in the same location, but with added facilities. They are making many additions to their already large stock and will have as complete an establishment as exists in Eastern Oregon. Both the partners are well known and universally respected citizens and will soon take rank among our leading merchants.

A prominent physician and old army surgeon in eastern Iowa, was called away from home for a few days; during his absence one of the children contracted a severe cold and his wife bought a bottle of Chamberlin's Cough Remedy for it. They were so much pleased that they afterwards used several bottles at various times. He said, from experience with it, he regarded it as the most reliable preparation in use for colds and that it came the nearest being a specific of any medicine he had ever seen. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly.

It seems that the people who are engineering the scheme for a new morning daily, in Portland have executed some very sharp practice. The Oregonian has the exclusive morning franchise from the Associated Press for Portland and no other paper can by any possibility get it, without the consent of the big daily. The manipulators of the soon-to-be-born-daily got the franchise for Albina, without any trouble and now that Albina has been consolidated with Portland the new paper comes in with all the rights of a full-fledged Portlander. We venture that a full lawsuit will grow out of it but it was a bright idea all the same.

Rev. Thos. Atchison of Dufur is in the city.

Mr. A. C. Stanford, of Wauic, was in the city today. Next Sunday will be George Washington's birthday.

We learn that Mr. Thauborn, of Kingsley, is lying very ill.

The bill requiring barber shops to close on Sundays has passed the senate. It is believed that the cleverest Indian fighter in the nation today is reservation whiskey.

The scheme to publish in the newspapers the laws passed by the legislature has failed.

We understand the supply department of the U. P. has ordered a large increase of supplies sent to The Dalles shops. If there is any meaning in it, what is it?

The governor of California has signed a bill offering $2,500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of the old gentleman and his wife at Napa, a few days ago.

A little friend of ours writes the following: "I will tell you a story of a man who had red, white and blue whiskers; first, when he was twenty-one he had red whiskers, then when he was fifty he had white whiskers, and as he grew older they got thin, and the wind blew through them. See how that worked? That is red, white and blue."

THE PUSHING DALLES.

She is All Right and Will Rapidly Come to the Front.

J. H. Cradlebaugh, editor of The Dalles CHRONICLE, arrived this morning from Salem, where he has been trying to secure legislation for the portage railway. He goes home tonight. He was met at a downtown hotel by a representative of the Telegram and said: "We cannot hope for much assistance from the Oregon or Washington legislatures in regard to a portage railway or opening of the Columbia. I believe we will be compelled to wait for the general government. The completion of the locks at the Cascades will be all right for that obstruction. At Celilo and The Dalles we must have inclines built, and then try to secure the right of way over the Union Pacific for trucking privileges."

"A year ago this winter we lost a great number of sheep, 156,000 pelts having been sold at The Dalles, yet, for all that, we have the greatest wool-producing section on the coast. We will ship this year 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 pounds of wool, even if the cold weather did kill so many sheep last winter. As for coal, we think we have it in paying quantities, and I hear that the president of the Lehigh Valley railroad and the Lehigh Coal Company is coming here to see about the construction of a railroad from The Dalles about 120 miles southeasterly to the coal mines. This will open up vast fields suitable for the production of large quantities of excellent grain, which are not cultivated now because too remote from a railroad. With wheat selling at only 50 cents, the farmers will not haul it any greater distance than they can go and return the same day."

"Business is good at The Dalles and we have a lively town. Come up here or send an agent and we will try and get up a good list of subscribers for you, as we are delighted with the Telegram, now that it is an independent paper furnishing live news. We are grateful for our efforts in behalf of an open river."

The Dalles People Happy.

East Oregonian. The Dalles people had a jubilee Friday night over the passage of Watkins' portage railway bill. Bands played, streets were ablaze with colored lights, speeches were made, and the people were happy. A public meeting was attended by six-hundred people. On motion of E. B. Dufur it was declared that "the people of The Dalles, in mass meeting assembled, unanimously request our representatives in the legislature to use all honorable means to secure the passage of Senator Raley's bill, that Eastern Oregon may be free." If Senator Raley's bill passes, Pendleton will celebrate the event as becomes a people delivered from bondage. We thank The Dalles people for thinking of us at such an auspicious time. Their declaration will have its effect, and we are grateful for it.

Died at a Ripe Old Age.

Mrs. Mary B. Coram died last night at the residence of her daughter Mrs. Nancy B. Sanford at Wauic. The venerable old lady came to this state from Missouri sixteen years ago, and was well up in years when she concluded to renew her youth by coming to Eastern Oregon. Had she lived until the 9th day of May next she would have reached the age of 90 years. She was loved and respected by all who knew her. Her husband has been dead for some years, but he fought in the war up to the time of his death, his good wife enjoyed a pension from the government on account of his war services.

Gone to the Pen.

William Ryan has retired from all active interest in the outside world and will remain recuperated for one year in the classic shades of the penitentiary at Salem. His retirement was not entirely voluntary as Deputy Sheriff J. H. Phirman acted as escort. Mr. Ryan's crime was larceny from a dwelling.

If you don't want to be left, go at once with the crowd to Eastman's while fine work is being given away at cost—what it costs you.

A Pleasant Social.

Nearly a hundred of the numbers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church and their friends met at the residence of Hon. J. L. Story and were the guests of his charming daughters last night. The evening was passed in an exceedingly pleasant manner. The following programme was had:

The exercises were begun by a piano solo by Miss Iva Brooks and Mrs. W. D. Palmer which was very well executed. Following this came a select reading by Miss Ada Woods, which was excellently done. Next on the programme was a song, "Ah, Could I Teach the Nightingale," by Misses Grace Crandall and May Williams, which was so well rendered that the fair singers were awarded a vigorous encore. Whittier's "Slave Ship," a recitation by Mr. Winterton Curtis, was next had and was given with much dramatic force and fire. A cornet solo, "Grand Fantasia of Bright Visions," by Mr. J. P. Benton, with Miss Brooks as accompanist, was most acceptably given. The real gem of the evening was Miss Ruth Cooper's recitation of "Aunt Tabitha's Way," and showed that the modest little lady had true dramatic talent. A group of stately, "Napoleon crossing the Delaware," or something of that sort closed the programme and the balance of the evening was passed in games with a nice lunch at its close.

An Important Decision.

An important point of law which will be of interest to the people of counties who are contemplating the building of county county bridges, was decided by Judge Deady, in the case of the Pacific Bridge Company vs. Clackamas county. The court held that that the mention of the "Board of the county commissioners" in section 4141 of the compilation of 1887, relating to the letting of contracts for the building of county bridges, is null and void, because there is no such tribunal known to the constitution or laws of Oregon as a board of county commissioners, and the legislature might as well have said "the board of missions."—Oregonian.

The Latest Out.

A new addition has been laid out, called Bellvue Addition to The Dalles. It is situated about two and one-half miles southwest of this city on the bluff. Just where it is we are unable to learn, but rumor has it that some $4,000 worth of lots have been sold by a couple of adventurers who have their office elsewhere. As near as we can learn, it will require a cable road or balloon to reach the embryo city.

Ladies, Beware of the Dog.

If a dog's bark is often worse than his bite, so, too, are the "kisses" which he bestows on his human friends. A distinguished Viennese medical authority has just announced the rapid spread in Austria-Hungary of a new disease having its origin in the osculations offered by small lapdogs to their mistresses. These pets, by kissing their fair owners' faces, impart a disease germ known as the cisticercus, which eventually finds its way to the liver and other organs. The mortality in Vienna and elsewhere from this cause among ladies of high social position is reported to be very great. People indiscreetly fond of dogs should bear in mind that there is a limit they should put to their pets' endearment if they would avoid all risk of becoming inoculated with disease germs only less terrible than those of hydrophobia.—Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

manent endowment. He consulted with President Seth Low, D. W. McWilliams, Truman J. Backus, A. E. Orr, Gen. C. T. Christensen and a number of others on Saturday at the Hamilton club, and the offer was formally made, provided that the $100,000 is raised by July 1, 1891. Mr. Wood, John Chaplin and Thomas E. Stillman were made an advisory board. The proposed building will be five stories high and will contain classrooms, work-rooms, parlors, baths, library, roof garden and dormitories. It is hoped to have the building ready by May 1, 1892, when the lease of the present quarters expires.—New York Commercial Advertiser.
