must try again. Its dollars to doughnuts, now that California has a world's fair fund of $300,000 at her disposal, that we may look to see her borrow the thunder of Oregon's reputation for producing the best deciduous fruits in the world, in order to uphold her own declining reputation in that particular line. Ah well; we have no use for easily earned reputation. we have no use for easily earned reputa-tion, and of our more enterprising neigh-bors are inclined to fill up their exhibi-tion cars with Oregon fruits, labeled "The Uuparalleled products of the Gold-en State," let them do it. Let us en-courage enterprise in others, even though we may not practice it ourselves.—Dem-

The foolkiller is guilty of an excess of mercy in sparing the editors, preachers and politicans who are in the habit of speaking of the president as the "ruler of this great nation." This nation is not subject to the one-man power.

RECIPROCITY.

The reciprocity clause in the McKinly tariff act is undoubtedly popular among the manufactures of the United States. It is expected to greatly increase our export trade' with those nations which may embrace its provisions.

The late announcement of a reciprocity agreement between this country and the government of Brazil has thoroughly roused the English manufactures, at Manchester, who declare that the measure will inevitably result in cutting off a large part of their trade, unless they are given similar advantages. Under the reciprocity clause, the president is empowered to decide whether the tariff laws of any foreign nation are unfriendly or the reverse. If he decides them to be unfriendly, in that case, the law imposes a duty on articles of commerce, which may be on the general free list, when for material is about $15, the floor being The Dalles that Receives the Associated they come from a country whose tariff of earth. Top Dressing Grass Lands.

A trial was made of spreading nanure upon the ground late in the fall, also of leaving it in small heaps on the land in the fall and spreading it early in the spring. A third trial was made of hauling the manure and spreading the last Journal and published in the Chronicle, nations the United States will have an advantage over all European countries. The manure was spread as evenly as possible and bush harrowed. The best result was from the land on which the manure was spread the last of April. "How many toes has a cat?" > my land was planted two years to fodder corn. The spring following the same quantity of manure as used in top dressing was spread and plowed under and the land laid down to grass. With the grass seed was sown a sufficient quantity of oats to smother the weeds the first season. The result was that the crop of oats and grass the first year was of more value than the best crop of grass realized from top dressing. It continued to be of much better quality and quantity in the four succeeding years.

Another experiment for producing grass was made upon land broken up in August. The manure was spread upon the sod, thoroughly harrowed under and the land laid down to grass. The result from the land planted two years to fod-der corn and then laid down to grass. These experiments, which have been connure applied to the surface of the earth.

Enduring Pence Posts.

Charring the ends, of posts that are to be set in the ground is often recommend ed, but when the time and trouble required in doing it are considered it is doubtful if it will pay. As a general thing heartwood and the wood from mature trees, neither very young nor very old, will last longer than wood from trees of either extreme. In heavy clay soils always wet or moist posts will endure longer than in gravelly and lighter ones that are alternately wet and dry. Usn-ally trees grown on dry uplands, if of the properage, are worth more as fuel or timber than such as are grown in a dense forest or low, rich land.

The New Carnation, Paul Engelheart. The new carnation, Paul Engelheart, is without question the best border carnation of the clove section yet introduced. The color is the same as in the old crimson clove, but the flowers are almost twice the size, and, if possible, more fragrant than those of that good old garden plant. The great advantage claimed for Paul Engelheart is that the stems are stout and well able to support the large flowers and this is so even when cultivated under glass.—Garden and Forest.

Bees do not make honey, but gather it from the flowers. The better way to start in the bee business is to begin in a small way and gradually grow into it. Every apiarist should aim to keep his his extractor, and receptacles neat and clean. Hasty thinks 3 pounds or less of honey will make 1 pound of wax; Simmins less than 64 pounds; tradition, 20 pounds. "Don't we stick to that 20 from mere habit?" asks Dr. Miller in Gleanings. "I do. Has there been a single experiment of late years to confirm it?" The parent colony is the colony from which a swarm has issued.

THE DALLES.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rick gricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

THE LARGEST WOOL MARKET.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped this year.

THE VINEYARD OF OREGON.

The country near The Dalles produces splendid crops of cereals, and its fruits cannot be excelled. It is the vineyard of Oregon, its grapes equalling California's best, and its other fruits, apples, pears, prunes, cherries etc., are unsurpassed.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of $1,500,000 which can and will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickital valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH

It is the richest city of its size on the coast, and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop, more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed! Its climate delightful! Its possibilities incalculable! Its resources unlimited! And on these corner stones she stands.
