DOLLY.

Dolly had gone for a bit. How the friendship first struck her. She thought that the first advice must have come from Dolly herself. For a friendship to any kind, must have a friendship with each other. Otherwise, no friendship.

There was nothing exciting about the friendship between the two. They had been good friends. They had been good friends. They had been good friends. They had been good friends.

Dolly was sitting by herself. She was thinking about the friendship. She was thinking about the friendship. She was thinking about the friendship. She was thinking about the friendship.

Dolly had always been a bit of a dreamer. She had always been a bit of a dreamer. She had always been a bit of a dreamer. She had always been a bit of a dreamer.
