"NO FLIES ON UNCLE JERRY."

Uncle Jerry Rusk the Secretary of Agriculture has been doing some shrewd and very effective work in the line of opening up the European markets to the admission of American cattle. Quite recently a number of American capitalists have been purchasing large herds of Canadian cattle for shipment to England. It is well known that the government of Great Britain places very severe restriction on the importation of American live stock shipped from the United States. At present they can only be landed or killed at three points and that under such harassing restrictions as to make the business unprofitable. Uncle Jerry proposes to have the Canadian cattle, upon which there are no restriction shipped to Great Britain just to give the people of the rural districts a taste of the quality of American beef. When they get thoroughly familiarized with it, Uncle Jerry thinks the battle towards free importation will be half won. He relies on the Federal Meat Inspection Law to do the rest. In the meanwhile under the provisions of this law the secretary had his agents inspect certain shipments of land-certified animals, and after inspection certificates were issued, under authority of the United States, these animals were quietly sent to Paris, Antwerp and Hamburg. The authorities at these ports could not well refuse to receive them on the old plea, that being American they were of course unsound, particularly as Uncle Jerry Rusk, backed by the authorities of 65,000,000 people, affirmed the contrary. So as a matter of course they received them. Paris took in 681 head; Hamburg 1367 and Antwerp 3622 head. This is good for a start, and now Uncle Jerry proposes to lead all the forces of American cattle growers in the United States towards an attack on Great Britain, with every hope of a favorable issue. Whatever foreign trade reciprocity fails to capture Uncle Jerry will corral by strategy. All of which goes to show that farmer Jerry Rusk is not much of a hay seed after all.

USURY LAWS AND DEAR MONEY.

Governor Laughton states incidentally in one of his veto messages, that the prevalent rate of interest on safe investments in the state of Washington is seven per cent per annum. The average rate, on similar investments, is undoubtedly higher in Oregon, and there is no reason that this should be so except one, namely, the unequal discrimination against capital in the construction and application of our assessment laws. If the people think it right to have a law that insures the taxation of all loans secured by mortgages on real estate while all other loans or credits may escape if they can, and they generally can; if the people want a system that taxes real property at twenty-five cents on the dollar, and money and credits, when a man is honest enough to give them in, at their full face, well and good. But they must not, under such a system, expect to get cheap money. If the people must have a law that leaves non-resident capitalists liable to a tax on their investment of from two to four per cent. let them have it by all means, but these same people must not growl because money is scarce and dear and because foreign capital goes elsewhere for investment. This state is simply reaping what she has sown. She has sown mortgage tax and usury laws and she is reaping dear money. She has discriminated against outside capital and outside capital discriminates against her.

A SILLY CALF.

Kalakau was a thirty-third degree Mason. He was also master of one of the Blue lodges, scribe of the chapter and warden of the Templars. (Oregonian, Feb. 18.)
The Prince of Wales was again elected last evening to be worshipful grand master of the English Free Masons. (Oregonian, March 6, '91.)
The oldest son of Prince of Wales is master of Berkshire Masons. Masonry, monarchy, money. Where are your liberties, fellow citizens?
The above is cut from the Reform Journal, a paper published in the interests of the farmers' alliance. It has a mighty big contract on hands when it undertakes to reform everything, masonry included. One secret society trying to reform another out of existence because it is a secret society scarcely commends itself to our judgment. The types never printed anything more silly than the last alliterative paragraph. The sooner the alliance men put a wisp of straw in that calf's mouth the better.

CROP'S-WEATHER. BULLETIN. NO. 2.

For Week Ending Saturday, March 21, 1891.
OREGON WEATHER BUREAU,
CENTRAL OFFICE, PORTLAND, OREGON.

WEATHER.
The temperature has risen, but is slightly below the normal. Showers fell during the week, but not an average amount.

Generally partly cloudy weather prevailed, the sun when shining being quite warm.
An occasionally light frost occurred in Western Oregon. In Eastern Oregon, though, there yet remains plenty in the foot hills and in the mountains. The melting snow generally soaked into the earth, making the soil very wet. In Western Oregon the soil is very wet from February rains and March showers. Strong south and southwest winds prevailed Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

CROPS.
Owing to the wet soil conditions in Western Oregon, melting snow and wet soil in Eastern Oregon, spring seeding has generally been delayed. Some plowing has been done on the higher lands of Western Oregon and in parts of Southern Oregon. While the weather conditions have not been up to the average, yet they have been favorable to the fall and winter sown grain which is invariably reported to be in a most prosperous and promising condition. Considerable growth has been made during the week. In the Willamette valley, especially, the soil is wet which retards spring work. In parts of Western Oregon, peach and apricot trees are in blossom, quince trees showing leaves, berry bushes and shrubs are leaving, other fruit trees have swelling buds. Warmer weather with sunshine is needed throughout the state. The season is slightly later than usual. The prosperous condition of the fall wheat the wet condition of the soil, the backward weather conditions all tend towards a bountiful harvest.

STOCK.
In Wallowa county some stock has been lost, in other stock sections it is rare that less is reported, and on the hand their condition is generally reported to be good. The grass is growing and furnishing good feed.

HEALTH.
In some sections "La grippe" is prevalent, but nothing serious. The general health is first-class.

An Interesting Letter.

WAPINITIA, Or., March 23, 1891.

EDITOR CHRONICLE.—I have been waiting for something to happen so I could send your valuable paper an item from this place and thereby give myself a chance to tell the CHRONICLE that I admire the bold stand it takes in denouncing cranky editors and corrupt politicians, but as nothing has happened of any importance I will have my say anyway. It is a relief to get a chance to pick up a paper once more to that every other item is not about "the mayor or Mr. Moody," and the balance a continual whine. You and your paper certainly deserve much praise and honor in announcing to the public the actions of our joint representations in the last legislature, so that the people of Eastern Oregon may not be deceived any more and will use better judgement next time, and when a man like Bennett runs on a ticket "elect him." The Times-Mountaineer speaks of Hon. J. H. Raley being nominated for congress and republicans need every member of the lower house, etc. Maybe they had better produce some more of their material like they keep in Sherman Co., and elect him, and then give him a railroad position.

Very respectfully yours,
OUGHR.

Is Disease a Punishment?

The following advertisement, published by a prominent western medicine house would indicate that they regard disease as a punishment for sin:
"Do you wish to know the quickest way to cure a severe cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. This can always be done if you choose to, as nature in her kindness to man gives timely warning and plainly tells you in nature's way, that as a punishment for some indiscretion, you are to be afflicted with a cold unless you choose to ward it off by prompt action. The first symptoms of a cold, in most cases, is a dry, loud cough and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by a profuse watery expectoration and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a thin white coating on the tongue. What to do? It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of the cold and in most cases will effectually counteract it, and cure what would have been a severe cold within one or two days time. Try it and be convinced." Fifty cent bottles for sale by Snipes & Kinersley, druggists.

Parnell Will Resign.

LONDON, March 20.—It is definitely stated that Mr. Parnell will resign and offer himself to the electors of Cork, and people are again beginning to turn their eyes toward the situation in Ireland. The McCarthys say they are delighted but do not look it. So many priests are flocking to Sligo that their numbers attract attention, and they are the subject of irreverent remarks. The Parnellites claim to have received encouraging advice as to the prospects of their envoys in America. Both factions are in need of money, but the Parnellites seem to be the easier as to funds for election expenses.

TAXATION.—Rates of taxation in the counties of Eastern Oregon are as follows for 1891: Harney, 19 25-35 mills; Wasco 25; Grant 26 12-35; Wallowa 25; Baker 24; Union 24; Malheur 23 12-35; Umatilla 23 1/2; Gilliam 21 12-35.

OLD OSSAWATOMIE'S BOYS.

How Owen and Jason Brown Disposed of Their Little Fortune.

John Brown, of Harper's Ferry, whose soul goes marching on, has two sons, Owen and Jason, who went into the valley where Pasadena sits, in the sunshine of the California paradise, and there struggled against adversity and fought pitched circumstances in a long and hard contest. A Lewiston gentleman who is just home from Washington met in New York an old friend, an attorney of much note, who settled the estate of one of these sons, who died at near Pasadena. The attorney told the Lewiston gentleman a story whose moral will be found touching, no matter how badly it may be told in this place, and whose theme is heroic along the better line of heroism. This attorney found the affairs of the deceased in good order, but his estate small. He obtained from the surviving son a memento of John Brown, a letter written to one of the sons nearly fifty years ago—a good letter, with one or two bits of honest, manly advice in it.

In process of looking up the affairs the attorney found that the two sons had lived along in a rather pinched way paying for their little place, working hard and patiently, uncomplaining in their toil, and that they finally had saved $300 for a little nest egg against future troubles. Four years ago more, as every one knows, Charleston, S. C. fell in earthquake. There was want and suffering—a misery in some sections paralleled only by the flood at Conemaugh. When those two brothers heard of it, forgetting that South Carolina had embodied the element that had slain a father, and hearing only the cries of want and destitution, they sent their entire little fortune to Charleston, and it was used in allying the miseries of the men and women who, in a certain way, had been responsible for their father's death.

There's the story. You can think it over, especially in the light of its unostentatious giving, and perhaps you may see its moral. The fact that it has been unobscured so long, and that one of the sons has died without seeing a newspaper reference to the incident, is proof enough that it was a gift of pure generosity and nothing else.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Wrongheaded People.

Among the most unpleasant people one is compelled to rub shoulders with on life's highway are the class whose minds take hold of everything, as it were, the wrong end foremost. These are usually as obstinate as perverse, and the false inferences they draw from misapprehended premises they adhere to with as much tenacity as if they were gospel truths. One knows not how to deal with such incorrigibles. Good humored rallying they are as likely as not to mistake for studied insult, kind words for humbug, endeavors to instruct and convince for airs of superiority, and whatever one may do or say with a view of benefiting them they mistake for insidious attempts to get on their blind side. Their field of moral vision is filled with a mist of suspicion which distorts every thing, and it is in vain to reason with them, for you can no more do away with their absurd impressions than you can wipe out graven letters with a sponge. Error, we suppose, is to them what truth is to right headed men and women, and they cling to it because they believe in it. They are objects of commiseration, yet, being unobtainable nuisances, it is prudent to give them a wide berth.

It is really a sad thing to be predisposed by nature to misconceive and misconstrue, but it is equally unpleasant to be misunderstood and misconstrued. We therefore make it a rule to have as little as possible to do with inveterately wrongheaded people.—New York Ledger.

Interesting Experiments with Bottles.

Take an ounce vial and fill it about three-quarters full of water; make a hole in the cork and insert a small tube or a stout piece of straw. The opening must be as small as possible; the tube must reach nearly to the bottom of the vial, and the cork must be pushed in tight, now, if you blow into the tube the air will be compressed in the upper part of the bottle, and when your lips are taken away a little fountain will play from the tube for a few moments. I will now show you how the fountain can be produced in a partial vacuum without compressing the air.

Take a glass jar with the mouth large enough to go over the small vial, and heat the inside over the flame of a lamp or candle. Place the small vial on a plate upon several layers of blotting paper which have been soaked in water for a moment, then take the heated jar and invert it over the vial, pressing it down as tightly as you can upon the blotting paper, and watch the result. When you heated the inside of the jar the air inside was expanded and partly driven out. The blotting paper makes a hermetical joint, and the air contained in the upper part of the vial forces the water up through the tube to the bottom of the jar, and it falls in a little cascade down the sides.—Boston Herald.

Considerate.

In a certain school the teacher always went to her pupils when they needed help, instead of having them come to her. This habit led one day to a rather amusing incident.

Little Tommy Page was being punished by "standing in the floor" while he got his spelling lesson. Finding a hard word he raised his hand, and the teacher at once came to his assistance. A moment later this was repeated, and soon his calls for the teacher became frequent.

But, by and by, Tommy's legs began to get tired and he longed for a seat. A little later he walked boldly up to the teacher's platform and calmly seated himself on its edge.

When asked by the surprised teacher what his strange conduct meant, he replied: "Well, seems to me you're walking too much, and I thought I'd get nearer. I don't want you to get all tired out, same as I am."—Youth's Companion.

Free of Charge.

There was a slide in the Himalaya mountains of India in January which beat the circus out of sight. Over 200 acres of surface, and extending to a depth of several feet, took a tumble of over two miles and built a barrier sixty feet high across a valley. Everybody was invited, and there was no extra charge for reserved seats.—Detroit Free Press.

Quoted Anew.

"Why don't you employ a collector, instead of running about yourself with these bills?" asked De Mascus of his tailor. "Well, you see, I hold to the adage that if you want a thing well done dun it your self."—St. Joseph News.

THE DALLES.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

THE LARGEST WOOL MARKET.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped this year.

THE VINEYARD OF OREGON.

The country near The Dalles produces splendid crops of cereals, and its fruits cannot be excelled. It is the vineyard of Oregon, its grapes equalling California's best, and its other fruits, apples, pears, prunes, cherries etc., are unsurpassed.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of $1,500,000 which can and will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickital valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH

It is the richest city of its size on the coast, and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed! Its climate delightful! Its possibilities incalculable! Its resources unlimited! And on these corner stones she stands.
