GENERAL SHERMAN'S FAMILY.

They Will Accept, Because it is a Token of Love of the Subscribers.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Lieutenant Thackeray says, while Miss Elizabeth Sherman and her sister would accept the $100,000 fund, because it was to be given as a token of the subscribers' love for Sherman, the publication in the New York papers that General Sherman was an improvident man, has caused the family much annoyance.

"At the lowest estimate," remarked Thackeray, "Miss Elizabeth Sherman and her sister and brother Tecumseh, have an income of $300,000 a year. This is sufficient to live comfortably on. Besides, General Sherman left a great mass of war correspondence of historical value. Many publishers recently asked access to them. In this way the estate will be very valuable. Then, too, there will be a good income from the general's memoirs. Miss Elizabeth Sherman and sister are sorry so large a fund as $100,000 should be raised.

The Stand She Will Take in the Arbitration of the Behring Sea Question.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Herald's St. Petersburg special says: Secretary Blaine should make no mistake about the position of Russia in the coming arbitration of the Behring sea question. The Decrease a Surprise.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The decrease in the net earnings of the Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf division, reported yesterday, was unexpected. An Englishman Couldn't see it.

Little Marshall P. Wilder, the famous merrymaker, is perennial, and has a humorous skit for every hour of the day. This is one of his latest, illustrative of an Englishman's appreciation of humor: I have been in England, and I have studied English humor. Its fundamental principles are not related to the American article that raises a cyclone of laughter. An Englishman was dining at a swell hotel out west, and after he finished his regular dinner he asked for sweets. A waiter from the Bowery had gone west for employment, and was waiting on the particular table at which the Englishman sat. "And phwat is sweets, sur?" asked the waiter. "The Englishman finally explained that he meant dessert, pudding, etc. "We 'ave apple and mince pie," said the Bowery man. "Give me mince pie." "What's der matter wid der apple pie?" asked the waiter in a hard, I-don't-care-a-continental tone of voice. Many heard the remark and laughed. An hour later I happened to meet the Englishman, and he asked me if I heard the waiter ask him what was the matter with the apple pie. I said 'Yes.' Then the Englishman naively asked me: "Well, what was the matter with the apple pie?"—New York World.

Many Roman and Greek epicures were very fond of dog's flesh.

Before Christianity was established among the Danes, on every ninth year ninety-nine dogs were sacrificed. In Sweden each ninth day ninety-nine dogs were destroyed. But later on dogs were not thought good enough, and every ninth year ninety-nine human beings were immolated, the sons of the reigning tyrant among the rest, in order that the life of the monarch might be prolonged.

It has been concluded that whatever preservative is to be applied, the timber for piles subjected to the action of sea-worms should first be charred, so as to kill any germs near the surface, open the pores of the wood for the antiseptic, and destroy the nutritive matter upon which the worm lives while beginning its action.

A Scotch writer gives a list of instances which tend to prove that his countrymen are willing to suffer great extremity for learning.

He mentions one young man who, though of fine manners and aristocratic appearance, dined but three times a week, and then upon a hot twopenny pie.

Lord Eldon introduced a bill into the British parliament for restraining the liberty of the press, and one of the honorable members moved as an amendment that all anonymous works should have the name of the author printed on the title page.
