LOCAL BREVITIES.

A. W. Branner of Nansene is in the city.

Mr. Davenport, of the Colfax Commission is in the city visiting friends.

Wool is coming in lively, and the east end is quite brisk with teams.

We noticed the old Brooks and Beres feed yard was chock-a-block with teams, which reminded us of old times.

We found it impossible to make room for the remainder of the county court proceedings, to-day, but shall try and find room to-morrow.

With the prospect of bountiful crops of wheat and good prices as well, the farmers of Oregon have reason to anticipate a year of unusual prosperity.

A monument fifty feet in height marking the center of population as shown by the last census, was erected last Saturday on a farm twenty miles east of Columbus, Ind.

The Keeler Sisters, in connection with their dressmaking establishment are putting in a selection of millinery and as they are experienced in both lines they have done well to locate in The Dalles.

Indians are all over the mountains slaughtering deer, while the law prohibits white men from providing their hungry children with a mess of venison.

Interest in the fabulous "Blue Bucket" gold diggings has again been revived in the southern part of Harney county.

Never before has there been such a marked increase in lambs as there has been in this section this spring.

County Court Proceedings, May Term, 1891.

In the matter of the petition of L. N. Blowers and others for an appropriation for an armory for the use of Company D, Third Regiment Infantry, O. N. G., it is ordered—that the $50 per month now allowed and paid by the county court of Wasco county for armory rent is equally divided between Companies D, A and C, Third Regiment, all of which companies consist of citizens of the county of Wasco; that is, each of the said companies shall be entitled to $16.66, and the county clerk will issue script for said amount of $16.66 in favor of the captains of each of said companies and not otherwise.

MR. TRAIN AS A PIONEER.

His Wonderful Exploit in Catching Salmon in the "Blue Bucket" Portland Oregon.

George Francis Train, who at the Portland a few days since, told a friend some of the incidents of a visit he paid this state many years ago—away back in the '60s. He said he was the first one to discover salmon in the Columbia, and caught 264 in a day, and carried them across the Columbia, wading on the backs of the salmon, which crowded the river; also that he learned the Chinook jargon in fifteen minutes.

It was somewhere about '64, when Mr. Train first came out here, just after a Fenian scare in Canada, it was when he took a run across the line to Victoria, and the long roll of the British drums was heard, and the troops were called out, sentry doubled, and detectives kept a watch over every move he made as long as he was on British territory.

Never before since the Columbia forced its way through the Cascades, had such a spectacle been presented to the Chinook salmon. Mr. Train wore a green broadcloth swallow-tail coat with brass buttons, a tall silk hat, a vest and a ruffled shirt.

A little son of Mr. H. Garner residing near Centerville was in a runaway last week and sustained a fracture of his leg.

Fisherman here note a difference between the run of salmon this year and last. Last year the fish kept near the mouth of the river till about two weeks before the season closed when the run was so great that most of them had to hoist their wheels because of the inability to dispose of the enormous catch.
