WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

THE DALLES, May 13, 1891. Weather forecast till 12 m., Thursday; light rain. Cooler.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in The Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The new era of prosperity of The Dalles dawned today. Freight teams are in from Mitchell today.

Dr. Doane is back from a trip to Goldendale.

Gibbons, Macallister & Co., today received a car load of buggies from the east.

Mrs. J. S. Wenzler, of La Grande, who has been visiting her parents here for a few weeks returned home today.

The ladies' aid society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. W. D. Palmer at 7:30 this evening.

A marriage license was granted today to Mr. C. L. Williams of Silver Lake, to wed Miss Whonato E. Winkelman.

The Saltmarsh Stock Yard company fed three car loads of beef cattle and shipped them to Portland this morning.

Large crowds of people keep gathering today at the front of Washington street to see the work begun on the new boat.

It is expected that by the middle of July 15,000 workmen will be employed on the Columbian Exposition buildings.

L. Davenport, of Mosier, is in the city. He says the outlook for an abundant harvest and a bountiful fruit crop was never better.

The every varying colors of the hills across the river is a never ending source of joy to the lovers of the beautiful who live in The Dalles.

The weather has been cloudy and cool for the past two days, with threatenings of rain, an accompaniment that is much needed by our farmers.

Paul Mohr has a long interview published in the Spokane Review in regard to his portage road on the Washington.

Mr. Chas. Lauer has had a fountain put in his vegetable room for the purpose of keeping fresh the more delicate kinds of table vegetables.

Every member of the committee on the celebration on July 4th are urgently requested to meet at the board of trade rooms at 9 o'clock Thursday evening.

Eugene has been selected as the place for the annual encampment of the 2d regiment of the Oregon National Guard.

The contractor and a force of men have arrived and work on the new boat has begun. The death knell to the tyranny of oppression of the people of this section of the country has been struck and the future of The Dalles and its tributaries is bright.

The postmaster of The Dalles has heretofore been lenient with delinquent boxholders, but as the rent for all boxes rented must be accounted for by the P. M., on the tenth day of each quarter, all boxes will be declared vacant if the rent is not paid promptly hereafter.

The Dalles Chronicle is desirous of knowing why the work on the Cascades portage railway is not begun. The inquiry is natural and timely. If we cannot have the road from The Dalles to Celilo, we at least can build that at the Cascades. The people of The Dalles and tributary country expect this to be done in time to help move their crops next harvest, and they should not be disappointed.—Telegram.

We saw some strawberries in market this morning for the first time this season which were ripened here. These luxuries are late in making their appearance owing to the late cool spring. Our markets will be overstocked with them soon, as the prospects for a wonderful supply was never better.

The New York World furnishes the information that the expenses of the presidential train, oriental in its luxury, for the thirty-five days over which the trip is to extend, and along the 9000 miles of rail that are to be traveled, would consume at a modest estimate, every penny of the president's annual salary of $50,000.

A neighbor truthfully remarks that a town always prospers best when the people are all united to help each other. There is the greatest possible strength in union of sentiment and union of action. If there are any circumstances in the world where reciprocity is valuable it is at home. The merchant is dependent upon the farmer. The farmer upon the merchant and mechanic. There is no such thing as success without harmony of feeling and action, and where these exist the most there is the greatest prosperity.

A SONG OF SPRING.

"Sing a song of Spring!" cried the merry March wind loud, As it swept o'er hill and valley from the dark breast of the cloud; But the wild-flowers and the violets were still too sound asleep Under the snow's warm blanket, close-folded, soft and deep.

"Sing a song of Spring!" cried the pleasant April rain, With a thousand sparkling touches upon the window-pane. Then the flowers that waited in the ground woke dreamily and stirred; From root to root, from seed to seed, crept swift the hopeful word.

"Sing a song of Spring!" cried the sunshine of the May; And into bloom the whole world burst in one delirious day! The patient apple-trees blushed bright in clouds of rosy red, And the dear birds sang with rapture in the blue sky overhead.

And not a single flower small that April's rain-drops woke, And not a single little bird that into music broke, But did rejoice to live and grow and strive to do its best.— Faithful and dutiful and brave through every trial's test.

I wonder if we children all are ready as the flowers To do what God appoints for us through all his days and hours; To praise him in our duties done, with cheerful joy, because The smallest of those duties belongs to his great laws.

O Violets, who never fret, nor say, "I won't!" "I will!" Who only live to do your best his wishes to fulfill, Teach us your sweet obedience, and we may grow to be Happy, like you, and patient as the steadfast apple-tree!

The Oregon State Convention of the Womans' Christian Temperance Union will convene in Portland on May 23d and continue until Tuesday evening the 26th.

The Pacific coast conference will open Wednesday, May 27th, continuing three days, closing Friday evening the 29th.

Some of our national officers and representative workers from various parts of the coast will be present. Mrs. C. B. Buell and Miss Esther Pugh, of Chicago, and Col. Bain will address the meetings and take part in the discussions. It is hoped that all friends of temperance who can, will attend and that grand results will follow this meeting.

The great power of Sam Jones for righteousness is his plain phrases—his bold speech, his positive, ungloried assault upon the ways and means of unrighteousness. Our youth should be wisely strengthened, educated by plainness of speech in the home. If it were so we would hear of fewer suicides, less of the "one more unfortunate gone to her rest."

In San Francisco on Sunday evening, Dr. Geo. H. Moore addressed a large audience on the subject of temperance. He gave statistics which were as overwhelming as true and very interesting. Mr. Tallan supplemented his remarks, calling attention that in a district of six blocks square, there were five churches, three schools and 111 saloons. In walking from his home to the church, a distance of three blocks, he was obliged to pass twenty-one drinking houses. It is wonderful that he is eloquent on the subject of temperance when he sees what a strife the church must make to get any headway against the monster in our midst. Every one should join the army and fight with boldness.

Saloons in Portland Oregon. In this city, according to the latest statistics, there are three hundred and twelve licensed saloons, also fifty hotels most of which have "bar attachments," all of these are licensed to sell liquors in less quantities than one quart. Of wholesale liquor houses, there are twenty-four. It is probable within bounds to say that the average yearly sales in the saloons will amount to $7,000 per year—some of them are known to exceed $100,000 per annum. Say that one-half of the hotels dispense liquors; that would give three hundred and thirty-seven places where the vile stuff is sold at retail, thus making $2,359,000 so spent. The average sales of the wholesale houses will amount, no doubt, to $100,000 each—$2,400,000 more. Then add to this the "family liquors" sold by numerous grocery stores, easily amounting to from $500,000 to $700,000, together with the sums derived from sales at restaurants, drug stores, breweries, etc., and it is believed that the enormous sum of $8,000,000 per annum would be reached for that which is of no earthly use to any one—for that which degrades every one connected with it, both buyer and seller, and is rapidly carrying the power of our people to that state wherein they will be without God, and without hope in the world. Now, I am not a pessimist, by any manner of means; God reigns, and is certain to win the world to himself ultimately; but in view of the prodigious efforts the devil is putting forth, and the lukewarmness on the part of professing Christians, it is very evident to even an ordinary observer that we are not anywhere near the millennium. In talking over this matter with a well-known business man the other day, one who has opportunity for being well posted, he declared that it was his firm conviction that fully eighty per cent. of all the business men in this city, were drinking men to a greater or less degree. Another gentleman, once a prominent educator, now in the real estate business, said to me, in reference to those who frequented a "gin palace" recently established without stint of money, near his office, that he was surprised beyond measure to see those who visited this particular resort from one to ten times a day, former pupils—sons of Christian parents, even professing Christians themselves, many of them, went regularly to this "gilded door of damnation," because it was "eminently respectable!"—Geo. H. Himes in the Pacific.

Inspecting the Road.

The board of railroad commissioners left Portland Monday morning for an inspecting tour of the Union Pacific and its branch lines in Oregon. The board intended to have started last week, but were delayed by the presidential party. The managers could not accommodate the inspection until the party was over this line. General Manager McNeil accompanied the commission. The entire month will be spent on this road, and every bridge will be examined.

Removed Railroad Building.

A rumor in Pendleton has it that a railroad is projected from the Fossil coal mines to Arlington to connect with the main line and the Heppner branch of the Union Pacific, and also from Heppner to the Butter Creek coal mines, thence to Camas prairie and to the Greenhorn mining section. Whether there is anything "in it," remains for the future to prove.—East Oregonian.

Mr. Buckley of the firm of Kerr & Buckley, of Grass Valley, made this office a very pleasant call to-day: The firm is one of the largest sheep owners in this region, their lamb increase, after suffering a heavy loss by the cool weather during the lambing season was 3500. In footing up losses in old sheep for the last twelve months they found that it only amounted to 4 per cent which is very remarkable for that branch of industry. In their wool clip they find that the fleece is much greater and of better staple than formerly. As their flock now stands, there probably is not a superior band of blooded sheep in all Eastern Oregon.

The Dalles Portage railway surveyors made a beginning of the survey for the portage road this morning. The starting point of survey commences at the D. J. Cooper place, connecting with the Norton Fossil road on ten mile, and will take the Celilo pass for its route, will cross the DesChutes above the Miller bridge, thence to its upper terminal point. This portage company means business and will push things at an early day.

The Columbia river is the natural channel of the commerce of the great region drained by it. Even railroads are beholden to the river for the avenues it has opened for them through the mountains. Cheaper rates for much of the freight of the country can be had by the river than by any line of railway, now or hereafter. The country should avail itself of this advantage, and the time has come for such expectations of the future.—Oregon Express.

Post office inspector J. O. Culver is in the city and inspected the office here and found everything satisfactory under the management of the officials.

Messrs. Hans Lage, J. B. Rand and Mrs. S. Copples, of Hood River, paid the CHRONICLE office a visit today.

Baby is sick.—The woeful expression of a Des Moines teamster's countenance showed his deep anxiety was not entirely without cause, when he inquired of a druggist of the same city what was best to give a baby for a cold? It was not necessary for him to say more, his countenance showed that the pet of the family, if not the idol of his life was in distress. "We give our baby Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," was the druggist's answer. "I don't like to give the baby such strong medicine," said the teamster. You know John Oleson, of the Waters-Talbot Printing Co., don't you? inquired the druggist. "His baby, when eighteen months old, got hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and drank the whole of it. Of course it made the baby vomit very freely but did not injure it in the least, and what is more, it cured the baby's cold. The teamster already knew the value of the Remedy, having used it himself, and was now satisfied that there was no danger in giving it even to a baby. For sale by Snipes & Kinersley.
