TO BE SURRENDERED.

Word Comes from Paris that the Itata is to be Turned Over to the U. S. on her Arrival in Chili.

Queen Natalia Being Honored in Exile .- The Chilian Insurgents are Not Prospering.

Washington, May 21 .- A Paris dispatch stating that the Itata is to be peaceably surrendered to the United States by the insurgents upon her arrival in Chili was shown to officials of the navy and state department but one and all declined to discuss the matter publicly. Nevertheless it can be stated positively that there has been no negotiations as yet reported between the insurgent agents in France or elsewhere and the government representing the

Chilian Agents Claim the U. S. Naval Department Was Not to Selze the Paris, May 21.-The Chilian agents in this city who represent the congressional or insurgent party, declare that an arrangement was made between the congressional party and the United States authorities by which the insurgent's steamer Itata was not to be seized by force. By the terms of this arrangement, the agents here state that the fugitive craft will be handed over by the Chilian authorities pending the settlement of the question in dispute as to whether or not the Itata violated the neutrality laws.

The Insurgents are Not Winning--En-glish Gold Being Used.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 21 .- From advices received here from Chili and information derived from an Italian actor who arrived here from there it appears that the news published in the United States and Europe about the revolution causes much laughter as many of the socalled insurgent victories are myth.s The actor believes a difficulty will soon arise between Chili and Peru. The latter country, he says, is fostering revolution and large amounts of English gold comes from there for the revolutionists.

THE WALLA WALLA LYNCHING.

Court of Inquiry Convened at Walla

Walla Walla, May 19.—The court of inquiry at Fort Walla Walla resumed its hearing this morning. Some important evidence was obtained during the day; evidence was obtained during the day, and it has brought up some knotty problems. Captain Richards, of the Fourth cavalry, was placed on the stand. He was acting adjutant at the fort at the time of the lynching. He tried very hard to explain satisfactority why they made no roll call the night before the lynching, when Captain Wint's escort was overpowed and compelled to return, and when the call "To arms" was sounded he said it was done to save sounded he said it was done to save time, as there was a delay in finding the trumpeter, and the men had all the time necessary to return to their quarters. He also explained for the same reason why no roll-call was made the night of the lynching.

Captain Richards was in town when the lynching occurred. He was on horseback, and it is believed had he hurried to the post at once the men engaged would have been known by their absence. He says he went to the court thinking he would not be too late to prevent the tragedy. Then he waited to see what violence had been done, and when he got to the fort the men were all in their quarters. He said the officers at the fort had been doing all in their power to ferret out the guilty parties and as a result eight men were in the guard house. He further said Colonel Compton and himself had no idea the lynching would take place. No orders wer given to inspect the gun racks after the shooting. He said that troop H had their pistols out at target practice that afternoon.

The testimony of Prosecuting-Attorney H. S. Blandford is very damaging to Colonel Compton, for if true, it clearly shows a dereliction of duty. After the attempted lynching on the night of the 23d, the officers were warned that the soldiers were coming again next night. One source of information was from a Mason of rank in the garrison, who waited to save Marshal Robinson. Serwaited to save Marshal Robinson. Sergeant George Jaros, who was off on a furlough, also warned Policemen Ames and Morse that they would be murdered if they did not keep away from the jail that night. All this was communicated to Colonel Compton and he said he had no more idea that his soldiers would sack the jail than would the members of the Episcopal church. He asked why the officers did not take the prisoners to a place of safety, and was told the soldiers were in town dressed in citizens' clothes, acting as spies. He replied that clothes, acting as spies. He replied that it was not unusual for his men to go to town, and that under a ruling of the war department he could not call check roll till after 11 o'clock. He was told this would be too late.

THE GREAT EVENT.

All San Francisco Agog Over the Coming Mill Between Jackson and Corbett.

San Francisco, May 19.—Nothing is discussed now in local sporting circles but the big event of Thursday night. Bet-ting is still very slow, but there is every and are simply trying to get the best Schwartz & was reported that Jim Wakley, who is said to have $8000 to $10,000 to back Corbett, had received a telegram from the Dwyers of New York, that betting there was $100 to $60. The Dwyers and Wakely are considered three of the shrewdest betting men of the country, and the Jackson betters considered this telegram a trick to turn the betting. At Corbett's saloon it was announced that there was $10,000 there to be had at $100 to $70, but it is still there. John Don-aldson was in the city late this afteraspended Spring Garden National Bank, as we been arrested a charge of receiving eposits when they knew the bank was in excellent shape and ready to enter the ring. Jim Wakley returned from Corbett's quarters yesterday highly impressed with the Californian's condition and more confident of his chances of winning. Owing to the late hour he postponed his trip to Jackson's quarters until to day.

Italy Feels Her Defeat.

Rome, May 19.—The controversy with the United States, growing out of the New Orleans massacre, is playing an important part in national politics. It furnishes material for opposition and may yet result in the overturn of the present ministry. It is reported that Marquis di Rudini avows that Signor Corte was recalled from New Orleans because the cabinet did not approve of the conduct. because the cabinet did not approve of his conduct. The press sharply attacks the prime minister. The Reforma says his conduct of foreign affairs has been a series of failures. There has been a woeful want of energy in the management of the New Orleans correspondence. In this and other instances the laxness of the government has seriously compromised the prestige of Italy abroad.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 19.—An animated some took place in the commons this afternoon, in which Mr. Tearle, who has already accused the cabinet ministers of making away with large sums of money, reiterated his accusation with increased bitterness. As Tearle is a supporter of the government his determination to drive the ministers out of office has caused consternation in the ministerial ranks. Sir Hector Langevin defended his department, which was particularly attacked in connection with the estimates. Sir John McDonald finally cut off the debate by moving an adjournment.

Love's Fond Hope Blasted. The tender, budlike hopes of a Lewiston youth who has been dreaming the first few winks of love's young dream are crushed, and he sometimes thinks that he never will

He has been keeping a young lady in Raymond up nights a good deal lately, and she has been reciprocating the attachment. The only party to the affair who was not warmly and deeply in earnest was the young lady's father, and for some reason or other he didn't seem to warm up a bit and didn't seem to pay much attention to it one way or the other. The Lewiston young man has been over there a good deal, his disease of the heart keeping him restless at home. Now and then he has hitched up the horse of his father-in-law never-to-be and has taken his girl out to drive in the sober mosnlight, and by a judicious care in getting the sleigh out noise lessly he has finally learned how to evade suspicion and drive with one hand at the same time. A large, mellow night came along and stopped at that town very recently, and the young man was caracoling the old man's horse over the hills gayly. Coming back he committed a great error. He tied the horse with a slip noose. The horse did not die. He was discovered before death had claimed him for his own, but he was almost moribund and the flash that had erstwhile been in his eye had flashed out.

He was a depressed beast.
