Special Agent Investigating Cases of the Most Glaring Fraud.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3,-A. B. Hall, special agent of the land office, is investigating several timber land frauds along the northern coast and in several of the lower Oregon counties. Writing of his work to this city he says that an im-mense amount of "timber thieving" is being done in Chehallis, Jefferson and Challam counties. There is in that sec-tion a considerable extent of unsurveyed government land. The thieves do not the adjoining quarter and cut down an immense amount of timber in a short time, put it into booms and tow it to the mill." Object to Taking a Census.

OLYMPIA, June 3 .- A letter was received at the executive department this morning from Acting Commissioner Bell of the department of the interior in which it was stated the United States government objected to the taking of the census of the Colville Indians by Messrs. Gwyder and Keene, the commissioners appointed by the late acting governor, as it would hurt negotiations now pending between the government and the Indians. For this reason the census takers would not be permitted to visit the reservation.

German Crop Prospects Poor.

A MILLIONAIRE'S SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Death Came to Him at His Office in New York City.

Charles Pratt, the millionaire oil mer-chant and philanthropist, who died sudden-ly in his office on Broadway, New York, s short time ago, was probably the wealthiest resident of Brooklyn, his fortune being estimated at $20,000,000. He was a very gen-erous man and gave largely to the Emmanuel Baptist church, which he founded, and to the Adelphi academy, of whose board of trustees he was president. He founded and endowed the Pratt institute, a manual training school for boys and girls, which cost him $1,500,000. His last business act was to sign a check for $5,000 for the aid of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. Mr. Pratt was president of the Pratt

Manufacturing company and vice president of the Standard Oil company. He was born in Wilbraham, Mass., Oct. 2, 1830. His father was a hard work ing cabinet mak er, who had all he could do to bring up his family of York and engaged in the sai Seven years later, after a remarkable meas quently merged into the Standard Oil company. The Pratt institute is one of the great educational enterprises of the country. It combines the best features of the Cooper Union classes, the leading manual training schools, cooking schools, art schools and classes in domestic economy. Mr. Pratt left a widow and eight children-six sons and two daughters.

He was also to act as horseman on the tallyho. Hawlett sent word to his would-be employer and received a message to the effect that the ex-senator would be at the barge office in the morning and settle matters. It was learned later that the Eustis referred to was not the ex-senator, but his nephew. It is understood that he claims the right to bring the man over under the exemption for domestic servants.

The Wellington Coal Boycott.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The Duns-muirs are having some trouble in dis-posing of their coal. The strike in the Wellington mines is practically over, and they can produce as much coal now as ever in the history of the mine. The federated trades have taken a hand in the fight in this city, however, and are boycotting all who use Wellington coal. All of the breweries have ceased using it, and many of the dealers will not handle it. In consequence the Dunsmuirs' yard is piled with coal. The steamer Well-ington is discharging into the yard. Very little of the coal is being carted away, while the Richard III. has only in the stream with 3000 tons of the Well-ington coal on board. SAN FRANCISCO, June 3 .- The Duns-

Trout and Turkey in West Virginia.

Camping along some stream, or occupy ing a rude cabin with a hospitable native. you have but to listen, just at dawn, to hear the early calls of the turkeys, still on their roosts. Then if you are not skillful enough to either steal within gunshot or call some proud gobbler, by well dissembled turkey call, near enough to lay him low, you have no business to be where such sport awaits you. Brook trout and line of gunning the sountry has, except the shooting of wild fowl on their flight from the southern feeding places, and that has come to be but dittle better than fugi-New YORK, Jene 3.-Francis Hawlett, easily next to woodcock in wariness and capriciousness of flight, and being well distributed over the country, wherever marshy or boggy land provides them with a field for sustenance, shooting them is a popular sport. These birds begin their flight northward in March and sometimes earlier, and a bunter with a good gun and, equally important, a good dog finds snipe shooting in April and May a particularly enlivening sport. But all early spring outdoor sports. are so much at the caprice of the weather at that changeable and uncertain time of year that their popularity must necessarily depend more on the ability of the sportsman to withstand discomfort and fre-quently hardship than it does on the extement of the sport itself.

The Priceless Wine of Bremen.

It sounds like the most monstrous exaggeration to say that a wine exists of which a single glass is worth $500,000, yet that is the fabulous value at which the ancient Rudesheimer of Bremen is appraised. Only one large cask of this precious beverage, which dates from 1658, remains. It is never sold, but on presentation of a doctor's cer-tificate the sick of Bremen are allowed a small quantity. Three persons only have small quantity. Three persons only have been honored by gifts of tiny bottles of the rare beverage—Emperor William I, his son Frederick and Prince Bismarck. The wine resembles dark beer in color, while the taste is hard and the aroma peculiar.
