WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

FAIR
THE DALLES, June 15, 1891.
Weather forecast till 12 m., Monday: Fair weather followed by light rains. Nearly stationary temperature.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in The Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Minstrels tonight at the Vogt Grand. Mr. H. M. Allen of La Grande is in the city.

Mr. C. P. Heald, of Hood River, gave this office a pleasant call today.

Up to the time of going to press 500 votes have been cast in the two wards.

H. T. Murchie, of Wasco, gave the CHRONICLE office a pleasant call today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hadley and family, of Dufur, are going to spend three or four weeks at Trout Lake, in Washington.

The minstrel parade today was a fine one and there has been a rush for seats all the afternoon. Go and get your seat at once if you desire a good one.

When the polls close tonight it will be found that the honored name of J. B. Condon whom Moody has used to head his ticket has been swapped off on every hand to secure the Moody treasurer.

Mr. M. M. Waterman of Eight Mile received today by express from the east, two very fine pigs of the Ohio Improved Chester White species. They cost him in the neighborhood of $60.

A sufficient number of county alliances having been organized, President L. L. Polk has issued a proclamation appointing Portland as the place and the 8th of July next as the time for organizing a state alliance.

Mr. R. G. Blakeley had a telegram yesterday forenoon from Brownsville informing him of the dangerous illness of his father an old gentleman of 78 years. Mr. Blakeley left for the valley last evening.

The Philadelphia Record says: "They have plenty of cheap money in the Argentine Republic. The hungerers for cheap money should go there. With a $20 piece of coin of the United States they can buy $56 worth of the legal tenders of the South American republic. Go south, gentlemen, and get rich."

The Northwest Reform Journal is in favor of a law to abolish all laws for the collection of debts. The Reform Journal is cute. It proposes to borrow from Uncle Sam on land and farm products, all the money it needs at two per cent interest and then pass a law that shall enable it to till the venerable gentleman to go to the devil for his pay.

Mr. H. B. Hendricks, who is interested in the new coal discoveries on the Deschutes, informs us that he has received backing which will enable him to undertake the development of the mines, in order to test the quality of the mineral deposit. Mr. Hendricks is still hopeful that it may prove to be a valuable coal field. Work will commence about the beginning of the next month.

The Lawn Social given by the M. E. Church people on Saturday night last was a decidedly pleasant one, and was attended by a large number of people. The evening was spent in games and a good quantity of ice cream was consumed considering the cool weather and therefore the social was a success financially, which left nothing to be desired.

We hear it rumored that the railroad men of The Dalles will give a picnic a week from next Sunday. The CHRONICLE does not believe they will choose Sunday for any such occasion. We feel sure they have more respect for the Sabbath than to desecrate it by a picnic which if held any other day would be attended by many of the friends of the railroad boys, who would not go on Sunday.

The bicycle trip to Goldendale yesterday, was alike successful and disastrous to some of the participants. Messrs Ed. Riggs and J. P. Fitzgerald rode on their machines the whole way but on the return trip down the mountain two or three of the bicycles run off with their riders and threw them, bruising them up considerably. One result of the mishap is that the Drum Major has draped one of his optics in mourning.

Mr. E. L. Boynton, of Kingsley, has sent to this office a great curiosity in the form of a new potato which has grown in his cellar to about the size of a bantam's egg, wholly inside an old one, without bursting open the old potato, except just a little where it is nearest to the skin. A large number of smaller ones have developed around the eyes of the old potato, and the whole would seem to indicate that new potatoes can be grown in a cellar without any nourishment except that derived from the atmosphere and the parent potato.

Closing Exercises at St. Mary's.

(Specially Reported for the Chronicle.)

The commencement exercises of St. Mary's Academy on Saturday last afforded a grand proof of what excellent teachers the sisters of the academy are. It would be utterly impossible within any reasonable limits, to attempt to describe the execution of every item of the programme and it is needless to say that the large hall of the academy was filled to overflowing. The stage was tastefully decorated and the motto "The palm is not won without the dust of labor" was done in a very chaste and beautifully simple style, as were indeed, all the other adornments. The opening overture, a duet, executed on four pianos by eight young ladies, playing to the same beat without a mistake, was finely executed, as were also the trios and quartettes which followed in due order. The class recitations were very fine, one of which fixed itself indelibly on my memory. It was entitled "Our Father," and a great number of little children, too many to easily count, took part in it. Each petition of the Lord's prayer was rendered, in connection with a suitable illustration and with fitting inflection and attitude. The whole was touchingly and tenderly pathetic, and was executed by the little folks to perfection. An extremely imposing part of the programme was the rendering of the Cantata, "The Rainbow," with the goddess Light in spotless gauze and golden crown, as "mother of the rainbow," and twenty-one young ladies, each three representing one of the "seven sisters," or colors of the rainbow, and dressed in colors adapted to the words they sang. It was very fine. There were numerous pieces given by a countless number of little ones, and as each piece was recited I could not help saying, "Fine, fine, you sweet little girls; surely your teachers deserve very great praise." And certainly the valedictory by the three young lady graduates, Misses Leah Jeffers, Margaret C. Larsen, and Anna Dufur exhibited talents and training of a very high order. The "Farewell," a solo with vocal accompaniment, was very touching and impressive, and was executed in a manner suggestive of culture and power. And last, but not least, the closing address by the archbishop, delivered in such a fine, pleasing manner, so combined instruction with amusement that as the great crowd moved away, a happy smile lighted up every face, I must not forget the conferring of graduating honors, diplomas, and gold medals, accompanied with wreaths and chaplets, to the three graduates, nor the bestowal of medals on the following pupils: to Cassie Thorburn for Christian doctrine, to Mary Scully and Katie Brogan for diligence, and to Lily Hinton for good conduct. The entire performance was a rare treat to the hundreds who were honored with invitations and reflects the highest credit on the excellent training of the ladies of the academy as well as on the diligence and aptitude of the pupils.

A Creditable Record.

Dr. Jas. Sutherland, who has recently settled in our midst, and opened an office in the Chapman Block, received word on Saturday from Toronto, Canada, that he has succeeded in winning first place and the highest honors over nearly two hundred candidates at the final examination of the college of physicians and surgeons of Ontario, held in that city in April last.

The examination includes oral and written in each subject, and to secure honor it is necessary that a candidate obtain at least seventy-five per cent on the oral and written combined.

Dr. Sutherland won first class honors in the following seven out of nine departments: Medicine, surgery non-operative, medical and surgical anatomy, midwifery non-operative, midwifery operative including diseases of women and children, medical jurisprudence and sanitary science.

As mentioned in our issue of Monday last, Dr. Sutherland won first place also at his primary examination at the same college, being at that time the only one of 254 candidates who obtained honors in every department. Surely such a record ought to insure for the doctor the confidence of the people of our city.

The Camp Meeting.

The services in the tent at the Advent's camp ground were well attended on Sunday. The people were addressed at 11:00 a. m. by Elder Snyder of Seattle, at 2:30 p. m. by Elder Steers of Portland, and at 8:00 p. m. by Elder Anderson of Linn county. There is a goodly number of the people of the Advent faith in attendance; the speakers are instructive and interesting; good order is preserved and the people seem to be enjoying the meetings very much. There were three converts so far and two of them were baptized by Elder Steers Monday, at 9:00 a. m. in Mill Creek. Preaching at 11:00 a. m. by Elder B. F. Bonney of Wamic, at 2:30 by Elder Geo. Pickett of Wallowa, and at 8:00 p. m. by Elder A. G. Dix of Portland. The tent is well seated and comfortably situated in the pines near the head of Union street. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Last Night's Concert.

The Congregational church was crowded last night to witness the Children's Day exercises of the Sabbath school, which were given there. It was a very pleasant occasion and will be long remembered by those who attended. The programme was a very complete one and was carried out without any breaks. The regular church choir was augmented by some of the members of the Sabbath school choir and their rendition of the anthems left nothing to be desired. The singing by the school which was in charge of Mr. Jesse Crandall was really excellent, showing that the school was well drilled and kept in good practice by him. All the little folks did well in their recitations and songs and deserve credit for the excellence of their work. The collection, which goes to missionary Sabbath school work, was an unusually large one.

They Lost their Bottles.

This morning three of Moody's lieutenants each armed with a bottle of whisky made an attack on one of our citizens to induce him to vote the Moody ticket. As they entered his place of business by a side door in a hall-way the three bottles were deposited outside the door. Grasping the hand of the proprietor and giving it a vote-for-Moody shake they quietly beckoned him to the hall-way. Meanwhile the proprietor's wife had come to the door and seeing the bottles, she took in the situation in a moment and picking them up, disappeared like a flash. It was all the work of a moment, but the blank consternation and woe pictured on the faces of the three politicians as they beheld the vacancy created by the absence of their three powerful vote persuaders will linger in the memory of the proprietor until water should cease to seek its level in the boundless sea.

Three new daily newspapers have started in Oregon in the last week.

One, the Portland Morning American, said to have $40,000 behind it, only lasted two days; the other two, less pretentious, but with better staying qualities, are the Heppner Gazette and the Eugene Guard. They are both good exponents of the sections they represent and deserve good local support. The number of daily newspapers in Oregon remains almost the same. About the time someone gets tired of paying for the costly fun and quills, someone else, usually a patient newspaper man, who has saved a few dollars running a weekly, starts a daily edition till his ambition, that way is either satisfied or he gets it on a paying basis, or his back is inadequate. There is no other class more deserving of success or who do more for the state than the newspaper workers all over the commonwealth. They are not all successful, but they can say with truth: "Not in mortals to command success; But we'll do more (Sempronius), we'll deserve it." —Astorian.

Died.

At the residence of his son John W. Gage at Mitchell, Crook county, Or., on the 9th of June. Mr. William Gage, an old pioneer of the Willamette Valley, aged about 70 years. An honest man, a generous friend. Farewell Uncle Billy we will miss thee here, but will meet again on the other shore.

The King's daughters will meet at Mrs. W. S. Myers' tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.
