Maximum temperature, 77; minimum temperature, 57. The river is falling.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

THE DALLES, June 16, 1891. Weather forecast till 12 m. Wednesday, light rains. Forecasted fair weather. Warmer.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in the Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Sic transit gloria Moody. Max got Vogt's enough to elect him. Mrs. J. M. Vanduyne, of Tygh Ridge, is in the city. This morning the divorce case of Tleman vs. Tieman is being argued by the lawyers.

The Misses F. F. and E. M. Folsom left yesterday for California on their vacation trip. Seufert Brothers will have shipped at the close of the season 1300 boxes of Royal Ann cherries which will net them one dollar per box.

Miss Ida Coffin, who has been in attendance at the Wasco Academy, returned to her home at Arlington yesterday morning. The run of salmon has now begun in earnest and the wheels are doing fairly well.

The state teachers' association, at which Professor W. W. Smith, of this city, will deliver an address, as reported in Saturday's CHRONICLE, will not be held at Eugene, but at Newport.

The poor, crippled, toothless old Times-Mountaineer has shown how little influence it has in shaping the destinies of the city and henceforth none will be so poor as to do it reverence.

Prinz & Nitschke have added an undertaking establishment to their large furniture establishment, and as they do not belong to the undertakers trust they are prepared to give the lowest prices.

An old friend of the editor of the CHRONICLE, Mr. Andy Lytle, of Willow creek, Crook county, is in the city. He reports that the crops in his section were never so promising as they are this year.

The funeral of little Freddie Willig, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Willig will take place from the M. E. Church, tomorrow, the 17th inst at 2 o'clock p. m. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

Nothing was done in the circuit court yesterday. Judge Bradshaw opened court in the morning but the election seems to have so absorbed the attention of both lawyers and clients that there were no attendants.

The CHRONICLE congratulates the Oregonian on the successful issue of its fight with bossism. The same regime that has cursed Portland has for years cursed The Dalles. In both places the people have risen in their might and rebuked it.

The election is a year off yet, but it is believed in a good many parts of this congressional district that if Hon. C. W. Fulton, of this city, were to accept the nomination to congress it would be tendered him by the next republican state convention.—Astorian.

The vote of yesterday substitutes the name of Orion Kinersly for that of Judd Fish as city treasurer. Mr. Fish will resign his office without the shadow of a stain upon his reputation as an honest man and a good citizen. On any other ticket, in any other connection he would have been elected by an overwhelming majority.

It appears that the Pendleton Militia Company is yet in existence. Colonel Houghton declined to allow our soldier boys to doff their uniforms, lay down their muskets, and disband. He instructed the commanding officer, Lieutenant White, to call a meeting for the election of a captain, and to compel attendance if necessary. Accordingly, this evening a meeting will be held at the armory at which a captain will be elected.—East Oregonian.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Monogram cigar store which appears in our columns today. The proprietor Mr. McGill, carries a full line of all kinds of imported, domestic and Key West cigars as well as everything of a fine grade in that line. Drop in and sample his goods.

A very sad accident occurred yesterday afternoon in the death by drowning of the ten year old boy of Mr. Phil Willig, of this city. The boy had been riding on a plank which floated in twelve feet of water, at the foot of Union street, and by some means he fell off and sank to the bottom. The body was recovered shortly after by an Indian who dived five times before he was successful. The citizens made up a purse for the Indian which amounted to something like $25. Freddie Willig was a thoroughly good boy whom his companions and everybody who knew him liked, and his afflicted parents have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

WE ARE THE PEOPLE.

- Mayor, ROBERT MAYS. Treasurer, O. KINERSLY. Recorder, FRANK MENEFEE. Marshal, RALPH GIBONS. Councilman 1st Ward, CHAS. E. HAIGHT. Councilman 2d Ward, PAUL KREFT. Water Commissioner 1st Ward, MAX VOGT. Water Commissioner 2d Ward, H. C. NIELSEN.

Table titled 'The Vote Yesterday was as Follows.' with columns for candidates and vote counts for First and Second wards.

O. N. G. Boys, Attention! HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT INF. OREGON NATIONAL GUARD, THE DALLES, OR., June 16, 1891. SPECIAL ORDER. The staff, non-commissioned staff and band, A and C companies will assemble at their Armory Wednesday, June 17th, at 8:45 p. m., uniformed, armed and equipped for battalion drill.

The Right Kind of Talk. Since the "thirty three" met in the board of trade rooms Tuesday night to carry out the idea of factional control of the city, they have accomplished their ends. Failing to get sufficient endorsement of their "star chamber" methods by petition, they attempted to capture the convention Saturday night, and in this they received a well-merited rebuke. Even after this, the "organ," knowing it to be false, hoisted at the head of its columns Monday morning, what it termed the "Citizens' Ticket," when only one man received a majority at the public primary, and the ticket voted to-day by the faction was headed the same way. To-day, to "snatch success from the jaws of defeat," political strikers commenced at an early hour at nearly every street corner to procure votes by all manner of representations. There being nothing at stake the people were apathetic regarding the election. The water question had been settled and the only object the citizens had was to rescue the municipality from the control of a faction, which has apparently for a long time only looked to personal ends. When the vote is counted to-night it will be seen what they have accomplished.—Times Mountaineer.

How the Cyclone Struck. CLEAR CLOUDY COLD WIND SNOW. Uncle Jemmy Farris. There are some things that can be said about Uncle Jemmy Farris that are well worth relating. The old gentleman is in his eighty-third year yet he is as spry as a kitten. He never had the toothache in his life and never lost a tooth, while last year a new one cut its way in his under jaw and grew by the side of another. It is all one to him, at present, to read with spectacles or without them although for years he could not do without them at all. But perhaps the most remarkable of all is the fact that his hair which used to be quite white is slowly turning black or at least is becoming darker in color. These are facts well known to his family and friends. The old gentleman has a wonderful fund of vitality and bids fair to live for many a year and the CHRONICLE devoutly prays he may.

The following statement from Mr. W. B. Denny, a well known dairyman of New Lexington, Ohio, will be of interest to persons troubled with Rheumatism. He says: "I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for nearly two years, four bottles in all, and there is nothing I have ever used that gave me as much relief from rheumatism. We always keep a bottle of it in the house." For sale by Snipes & Kinersly.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

For God and Home and Native Land. EDITED BY THE DALLES W. C. T. UNION.

"Little drops of whisky, Little sips of beer, Make the mighty Jim Jams, If you persevere." —Exchange.

A BOY OF HIS WORD.

You may sing of the heroes of yore, You may speak of the deeds they have done, Of the foes they have slain by the score, Of the glorious battles they've won; You may seek to eternalize their fame, And it may be with goodly success; But it is not the warrior's name That my heart and my spirit would bless, Though oft at their mention my soul hath been stirred, Yet dearer to me is the boy of his word. You may speak of the great ones of earth, Of princes, of princes, and kings, I doubt not there's something of worth In the bosom of all human things; But dearer to me than the whole Pageantry, splendor and pride, Is the boy with a frank, honest soul, Who never his word hath belied. Yes, prized above all that this earth can afford, Though lowly and poor, is the boy of his word.

The general committee of work for boys in the United States and Canada have issued an appeal to the benevolent people of America for practical sympathy and aid in the work of saving the street-boys in the cities. This work has been in operation now three years and a half. Over 13,000 boys have been gathered into the rooms. The work is among the most neglected class. The rooms are in charge of a superintendent and are supplied with attractive games and interesting books, and admission is free to all the boys of the city. There are classes in carpentry, wood-carving, clay-modeling, etc. The saving of boys who have been brought before the police courts, is the especial object of the society. The superintendents visit the courts daily in pursuance of that object and where it is possible take charge of the boys and furnish them employment. This committee is composed of prominent men from different parts of the United States and Canada. They are desirous of establishing similar agencies in as many localities as possible.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs, of Brooklyn, not known as a temperance fanatic, says: "Every dollar gained in the Congo run trade ought to burn in the hand of the man who gains it as if it were part of the blazing asphalt that makes the pavement of the infernal regions.—National Temperance Advocate.

How to Decline a treat. The following conversation was heard between two collegians, who were discussing a class dinner. "Of course," said one (with a consequential touch of self complacency and patronage which students call 'fresh,' and which only length of days can cure), "if a fellow hasn't wit enough to know when to stop, he'd better be careful at first. Some heads are built weak, you know." "Careful in what?" interpolated I, and both laughed. "Why, drinking of course," said the speaker. "A fellow has to take his seasoning sooner or later. Some stand it. Some can not. Some can not, at least for a while."

He was, as I have intimated, a freshman. His friend, a bearded senior, the only son of a rich man, slapped him good-humoredly on the shoulder: "When was your age, old fellow, my father said to me, 'If I had my life to live over, I would never take a glass of wine or smoke a cigar.' I answered, 'It would be foolish not to profit by what such a sensible man says.' I have never tasted wine or touched tobacco, and I am glad of it—gladder every day I live. I might have been 'built' with a strong head—and then, again I might not."

"What do you say when you are offered a treat?" "I say, 'No, thank you, I never take it.' Generally that settles the matter quietly." "And if they poke fun at you?" "I let them 'poke,' and then stand ready to put them to bed when their heads give out."

Their respect for the comfort of mothers be it said—many "fellow" strong enough to maintain this stand, and sensible enough to see that the risks are not worth taking. It is the fool who meddles with fire-arms, the coward who carries a loaded revolver.—Home Maker.

Child-Killers of Today. Trap for boys; that's just what they are. Five cent novels; detective stories! Here is a list of more than forty, every one of which is a piece of literary damnation. Talk about saloons! They are not the first dangers that menace our boys. Fathers, mothers! Do you know what your children are reading? Don't flatter yourselves because John and Clarence are fond of reading that they are safe. This very fondness may be the worst thing possible. Encourage a love for books; but see to it that the books are good ones. Bathing is an excellent practice, but it should be in clear, clean water, not in sewer products nor in ink. Some forms of reading may be viciousness itself. What shall we say of those who write and print this form of vice? In olden times enemies of childhood were pictured as enormous size—Polyphemus creatures who dined on men and women and ate babies for tea. Such fanciful shapes have no terrors now. The electric light and telephone and other wonders have driven such objects out of the imagination even. The enemy of childhood today, the nineteenth century fiend, is no misshapen creature. His feet are not cloven, to the eye; he wears a tall hat; dresses in the height of fashion, nay, lives in a brown stone front; but he is a child-killer all the same.—Light.

The following additional interpretations of the initials W. C. T. U., have come from a loyal friend. She says, "While we work Wakefully, Courageously, Truthfully, Untiringly, Watchfully, Cautiously, Thoughtfully and Unceasingly, may we also work Willingly, Conscientiously, Triumphantly and Universally." Bishop Utter's definition is "Working, Cheering, Teaching, Uplifting."
