A SHOE FACTORY FOR THE DALLES.

It needs no argument to prove the value of manufacturing industries to the Hastings. growth and prosperity of the city, as everyone will admit that no city can formed, only cost $4,288. The boiler don't you think?" and engine cost something like $1,800, while the machinery, complete in every in itself, with such a character as Stardetail for the manufacture of the shoe, light, to hold the audience; but she surin all its stages from the moment it is rounded herself with a company seldom cut from the hide till it is burnished and seen in musical comedies. ready for the packer, cost only $2,488 exclusive of the freight charges. Such a plant is adapted to give employment to eighty persons, that is, when it is run at urer Lindsley and James Crawford, a eighty persons, that is, when it is run at its fullest capacity, but of course five persons or any other number of employes, each capable of doing every class of work could run the whole factory, if it were thought best to begin on a small scale. In such a case, as less power would be needed it might be rented, thus doing away with the cost of the boiler and engine. The amount of capital required to run the business would, of course, depend largely upon the amount quired to run the business would, of course, depend largely upon the amount of business intended to be done. There is no question as to the readiness with is no question as to the readiness with propriation will be made.—Seattle Press which a market can be found for the products and there seems as little doubt that the business is profitable. The Astorian says: "From a strip of water in front of the city, every year, without any preparatory sowing or cultivation Astorians annually lift $3,000,-000 worth of the most delicious of all fish -the famous Chinook salmon-which is found from St. Petersburg to Cape Good Hope; amid Alpine snows or Arabian sands, and is prized by all the world alike." From a strip of water above The Dalles a few fishermen, after considerable expense in building wheels and leads, foccasionally, under favorable circumstances, take a few tons of fish, whereat these three million dollar chaps, at the mouth of the river get very mad and cry out about the awful havoc and slaughter of the fish wheels.

The government lately awarded contracts for Indian supplies amounting to over $2,000,000 which called for blankets, clothing, woolen and worsted manufactures, calico, hardware, household utensils, agricultural implements, provisions and grain. General Bussey thus sums up the result: "For all manufactured goods the prices were as low or a shade lower than last year; for beef, flour and other agricultural products the prices were somewhat higher."

On Thursday evening of last week B. Isenhoot of Crook county shot Allen Henry of Chico, California in the drug store of Templeton & Son of Prineville. The wound is not dangerous and Henry will recover. What led to the shooting is a matter of conjecture. The men had been at law with each other and were not on friendly terms.

The real dignity of labor is well symbolized and set forth in those single acts at the beginning or end of a great work which represent to the imagination the whole enterprise. The corner stone of a great building is generally laid by some official dignitary who, in an unaccustomed apron and with a trowel which he use clumsily, makes a pretense of doing the actual work of putting the stone in place Crowds stand about to witness the work.

and orations are made and hymns sung The knocking away of the prop which sends a vessel off the ways and into the water is an event of equal consequence and interest, because it represents the noble task of constructing a great ship.

When one of the greatest engineering works of all time was completed-the construction of the Pacific railroad-it was regarded as a great honor to drive the last spike that bound the last rail to the earth; and the spike which served at least temporarily for the work was made of silver.

Emperors, kings and presidents start with their own hands the machinery of great industrial exhibitions, themselves typical in a high degree of the importance of manual labor.

In a certain sense it would be more fitting that these ceremonies, which con centrate into a single instant's act long periods of hard labor, should be performed by one of the real workingmen who are engaged upon the enterprise. It is they who do the work, and they might well claim that the honor of the key ceremony belongs to them.

This was what was done, indeed, when the first blow of the pick was struck in the construction of the buildings for the World's fair of 1893 at Chicago. - Youth's Where Gold Goes To.

A considerable part of all the gold which goes to India never returns. Having been obtained in the west by the sale of exported productions, it is retained in the east as realized profits, wealth stored up, and to a moderate extent for use in the arts, for the rest as a representative of value on the credit of which traders buy and sell with the bills of exchange they issue and the book credits they open, and settle up the differences with the silver money of the country.

But the vast stock of gold accumulated there undergoes no diminution. There is no ebb and flow under the reciprocal case of countries trading together on a common metallic basis. The three millions sterling (or thereabout) of gold bullion which India annually adds to her store are, under the monetary law of that country, just as much lost to the nations of the west, by being withdrawn from the general commerce of the world, as if the money had been lent to a South American republic.

Between the years 1835 and 1889 (April) this depletion amounted in value to £130,292,758. Between that date and the month of September, 1890. a further accumulation, to the value of £5,069,-272. took place, bringing this portion of the gold treasure of India up to a value exceeding £135,250,000. — Blackwood's Magazine.

Ibsen's Curious Figure.

I cannot recollect having ever met a man of more peculiarly striking appearance than Mr. ibsen. He reminded me to a certain extent of those fabulous creatures the gnomes, who play such an important part in Scandinavian mythology, and are vividly described in the old songs of the Edda. He is a man of than medium size, but very heavily set. The upper part of his body is very large in proportion to his lower limbs, but still small in comparison with that immense head, which, with its bushy hair, white as snow, overtowers the compact bodily frame.

A heavy beard of the same color would encircle the face if it was not for the fact that Ibsen keeps his chin shaven, a distinction also enjoyed by the upper lip. I wonder if Mr. Ibsen knows that by wearing his beard in the manner described he shows a very strong chin and a mouth of classic delineation. Irresistible is the charm of his eyes, which are of a deep blue, like the color of the sea on the shores of his beautiful native north land .- Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Glance at London Society. Take the vast London society. It is a stiffnecked dress parade in which one meets one's best friend once a fortnight and strangers in proportion. People never know each other well and are almost suspicious of those they do know. Invitations are sent out from one to two months ahead and people come and go without making a visible impression, and there is none of that merry familiarity which makes American life so enjoy-

A dinner is a set affair, with no general conversation and a total absence of what the French call esprit; in fact, most of the Englishman's pleasures are of the macintosh and umbrella kind. The Londoner is always guarded and suspicious of the stranger, and I don't wonder, considering some of the Ameri-cans he has had shoved upon him. But, after all, there are too many people in London; it is impossible to expect free-dom, familiarity and hospitality among such a multitude.—Cor. Chicago News.

A New York surgeon who has made a specialty of nerve centers says the music of a hand organ is pleasant to at least ninety-nine out of every hundred people falling upon the nerve centers and tym-panum of the ear with soothing effect. He says that when you meet a person that cries out against this sort of music you can safely put him down as a falsi-fier and deceiver.—Detroit Free Press.

An Innocent Question. Clockmaker—Why, my good woman if your clock doesn't go, you must bring me the whole of it; I can do nothing with the pendulum alone.

Woman-Ale prosim! Why the whole clock? The clock is all right; it's only the horrid pendulum as won't work. Wiener Figaro.
