WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

THE DALLES, June 26, 1891. Weather forecast till 12 m., Saturday; fair. Slightly warmer.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in The Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Ex-Governor Moody went to Salem today.

James Brown of Mosier, paid this office a pleasant visit today.

Master Ralph Scott left on this morning's train for a visit to Salem.

Governor Pennoyer has been selected to address the Tammany Society of New York on the Fourth of July.

The wool crop in eastern Oregon is 1,000,000 pounds this year in excess of any former year, and is of superior quality.

The Klickitat Leader says that over in his country the faces of the farmers have so shortened since the late rains that barbers have reduced the price of shaving to fifteen cents.

The militia boys are getting ready to go to The Dalles to attend the encampment at that place. No better place, in our opinion, could have been selected, than The Dalles, and our boys seem to be happy over the trip.

The U. P. Railway company will run special trains during the time of the encampment from this city to a point on the road nearest the camp. The fare will be about 25 cents for the round trip.

A bicycle collision took place last evening on Fourth street between the machines of J. P. FitzGerald and Willie Grunow that resulted in a sprained hip on the part of Mr. FitzGerald and a broken leg for Mr. Grunow.

The pious editor of the Washington Independent thus devoutly exclaims, "Thank God for camp meetings and the good they have done for the world spiritually, and the rain that always comes when they are being held."

The prolific character of quail may be gathered from the fact that the writer has a female quail in his possession that laid yesterday, the last of 33 eggs since the commencement of the present season and does not seem to have any intention of crying quits.

"Two weeks ago," says the Klickitat Leader, "the chronic growler was around telling that the country would not yield eight bushels to the acre. Now he is wiped off the face of the earth and every other man you meet has the finest field of grain he ever saw, that will yield from twenty bushels to the acre up to well as far as his imagination and conscience will let him go.

All the rails and ties for the portage road at the Cascades are on the ground or to arrive this week. Work is being pushed on the bridge work and inclines as fast as possible, under the present state of the river. Mr. Farley, superintendent of construction, is in the east, purchasing the rolling stock and everything indicates that all will be in readiness to move the coming crop.

A telegram came to this city this morning to the friends of Mr. John Farris, late of Wapinitia but now of Yakima City, informing them that his wife had suddenly died at that place last night. No further particulars are given, but her death must have been very sudden as letters were received from Mr. Farris a few days ago and there was no allusion to her being ill. Mrs. Farris was the daughter-in-law of Mr. James Farris of this city. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her loss. She was an excellent, affectionate, tender, loving wife and mother, and her bereaved husband and children have the heartfelt sympathy of all who know them.

Miss Vernona Jarbeau is a wonderfully versatile little woman. She can sing a more or less naughty chansonette with Parisian chic, dance the Spanish cachuca with the grace of a Madrid flower girl, render Ardit's "Il Bacio" in his native Italian with a wealth of florid coloring; play a hoydenish gum-chewing American school-girl to the life, and imitate a French opera bouffe struggling with an English pastoral ditty with imitable skill. The skit in which Miss Jarbeau and the company of very clever people she has got together which appear at the Vogt Grand, Monday next is simply a vehicle for the introduction of the specialties of the star and her support. There is no pretense of a plot to "Starlight," but endless opportunities are naturally made for the introduction of rollicking fun, music of the varied character indicated above and dances of almost every nation and period, from the stately gavotte to the breakdown of the plantation, or the lively jig of the mirth-loving Irishman. There is a snap and go to the piece from the beginning and Miss Jarbeau and her clever people are at full tension while the curtain is up.

Mr. C. J. Bright of Wasco gave this office a pleasant call today.

Mr. S. R. Husbands, W. T. McClure and Amos Root of Mosier, are in the city.

We are informed that Mr. Connelly from Crook county sold his clip of wool yesterday for 17 3/4 cents a pound.

Tom Sullivan, who works in Payette's blacksmith shop, at the East End, while shoeing a vicious horse this morning, was kicked in the face by the animal, thereby losing five of his front teeth.

Supplemental articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the county clerk today of the Eastern Oregon Co-operative Association giving power to that institution to increase its capital stock from $4,000 to $20,000.

A bicycle carelessly left in front of one of the show windows of Mr. Solomon's store, yesterday, was brushed by the dress of a passing lady, when the handle struck one of the large panes of glass and smashed it to pieces; $8.25 settled the bill. What, with broken windows and sprained hip joints, and broken legs, it was an unlucky day for bicycles, yesterday.

The friends of Mr. Jack Anderson will be sorry to hear of the bad luck which befell him, as related by the Klickitat Leader:

Mr. Anderson, from Oregon, who passed through this county last week with 10,000 head of fine mutton sheep for the Sound market met with quite a misfortune at the head of Bowman creek. There was a small canyon ahead of the band which the herders did not see, and when the front sheep came to it the rear ones pushed them ahead until there was a bridge formed with the struggling and dying leaders. The rest of the band passed over and when the herders arrived they found 360 dead and dying sheep.

N. B. Ingalls, purser on the Lurline told a story the other day to W. T. McClure of Mosier, in order to illustrate the difference between Eastern and Western Oregon, which is well worth relating. About two years ago an old lady of Mr. Ingalls' acquaintance got on his boat at the Cascades on her way to the valley. Ingalls hailed her with "Hello! Mrs. Blank where are you going?" "Going down to wash my clothes," she replied. "We have no water in Eastern Oregon." About three weeks later Mrs. Blank was again a passenger on board the Lurline coming back. Ingalls again accosted her with "Hello! Are you going back?" "Yes," replied the old lady, "I have got my washing done and am going back east of the mountains to dry my clothes."

When the future biographer of Graham the restaurant man shall write his history he will note with marked emphasis that he was a man of very excellent taste. Graham has fitted up a miniature camping ground in one of his show windows that is well worth seeing. There is a veritable grass plot on which two tents are pitched. Midway between the two tents there is (or rather was when we saw it) a detachment of the "Graham Opera Guards," on dress parade. Graham said the general and 500 soldiers were in the tents, resting, after a long march. The camp grounds are tastefully laid out and ornamented with flowers, specimens of mineral ore from the Cracker creek mines, and from the tin mines of Dufur, samples of Seattle and Fossil coal, Eastern Oregon coal, Dalles diamonds, petrified wood from Chenoworth creek, a large specimen of "Old man in the ground," bull frogs from the Mill creek preserves, "a new arrival" from Kansas, in the form of a bronze complexioned squirrel, enjoying a royal feast on nuts stolen (it is presumed) from the soldiers, flags, bunting, and stacks of commissary supplies in the back-ground. During the encampment, which will last till after the Fourth, no hunting will be allowed on the grounds and trespassers are duly warned to "keep off the grass."

It is hardly necessary to add that back of this camp ground Graham is running a restaurant where soldiers and civilians alike can be supplied, at all hours, with the best the market affords.

Hon. Joseph E. Atwater, of this city, died at his residence yesterday evening, after a lingering illness extending over many weeks. Mr. Atwater was born in Nova Scotia 54 years ago last month. When a mere boy he removed to the United States. He was educated at the Lawrence University, Wisconsin, and after leaving college, engaged in the newspaper business at Jefferson, Wisconsin, in partnership with G. W. Peck of the Milwaukee Sun. During the late war of the rebellion he entered the army, a member of the First Wisconsin cavalry and served with distinction for two years. He entered as first lieutenant and was mustered out with the commission of captain. At the close of the war he commenced the study of law at La Crosse, Wisconsin, which he subsequently made his life profession. He took up his residence in The Dalles in the spring of 1877 and has since made this city his home. He was a man of fine intellectual and legal ability and of generous and kindly impulses. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Third street, at two o'clock next Sunday afternoon. According to an arrangement entered into between himself and the Hon. W. Lair Hill, it falls to the lot of the latter to pronounce a eulogy over the remains. Judge Hill has been telegraphed for and is expected to arrive in this city tomorrow.

A Whole Lot of Comfort.

The boys who are going into the encampment beginning Sunday are going to have a picnic. The tents are all put up, mattresses have been filled with straw and blankets served out for the beds, kitchens have been built and a number of good cooks are ready to go to work serving the meals. The best of everything in the market, including strawberries and cream, will be on the groaning tables and nothing will be wanting to make the six days' outing as comfortable as possible. Surely Oregon is a kind state. The boys will have their fare paid to The Dalles and home again, good beds and cooks provided and in addition to that each soldier will be paid $1.50 per day during the time. Hurrah, for our webfoot state, Colonel Houghton, and the Oregon National Guard!

Mr. Taylor Hill, of Crook county, brother of Hon. Lair Hill, is in the city. Probably 200,000 pounds of wool changed hands yesterday, at prices ranging from 17 to 17 3/4 cents.

A man named Miller, who for some time ran a restaurant at Arlington, shot himself twice in the forehead, at that place, yesterday, inflicting wounds that have doubtless, by this time proved fatal, as the man was dying at 2:30 o'clock this morning, when our informant passed through the town. Undoubtedly family troubles were the cause of the act, as his wife had him arrested a few ago, and it is said he threatened to take his life unless she would be reconciled to make up with him. The man has a grown family of children, none of whom, it is said, would go to see him dying.

The Portland Exposition, which opens Sept. 17th, promises to completely overshadow all its predecessors. If the splendid lithograph which Superintendent Mitchell has sent out to the press, gives us any idea of the scope and merit of the Exposition this year, all doubts of its success are pushed aside. The lithograph received is one of the handsomest and most effective advertisements we have ever seen outside of a newspaper.

The East Portland Express says that a cat fish apologist says that perhaps if it was not for the tough hide and horns of the cat-fish the salmon would eat them up. Salmon eat nothing for some time after entering the river. The stomach of a salmon is as void of food, when it comes into a cannery, as the purse of a publisher is of money on a Saturday night after paying off his printers.

Agent Luckey was over from Warm Springs Wednesday. He says the crickets are still working on the Indians' crops on the reservation, and there is scarcely any grain or gardens left. The only things which the markets will not eat are peas and beets. The Indians have killed millions of crickets, but there are still millions of them left.—Prineville Review.
