THE MOSIER DISTRICT.

There is no part of Wasco county that seldom or ever has a word said for it in the public prints that, without bating a line we have ever written apout the Hood R.ver valley, in everything that goes to make a country of great possibilities for desire to purchase anything in general fruit raising, we believe to be second to none in Eastern Oregon. We refer to the Mosier district. Territorially it is smaller than Hood River while it fully equals it in quality, soil and climate. From the fact that it is measurably a terra incognita, many fine patches of land, admirably adapted to fruit raising still remain unsettled, and improved farms, where they can be purchased at all, are held at lower rates than in the sister precinct of Hood River. The ground too, is more hilly and broken but like Monday, June 29, the Hood River valley it is covered with scattering pines, oaks and underbrush with here and there patches of open prairie.

Two years ago the duties of the writer called him within a little enclosure where stood the rude cabin of a new settler surrounded by a garden fence that enclosed a clearing of about a couple of acres. After the first friendly salutations had been exchanged with the owner the question forced iaself to our lips, "How do you expect to make a living here?" The answer came promptly, "Come and see." A few steps, and the gentleman New pointed us to a sight we shall never forget. He had set out the previous year about a hundred fruit trees which he had purchased from the Mission gardens | Handsome Girls, Beautifully Costumed! in this city. The little things were yet slender as willows, and they were not higher than from three to four feet, and yet they were bending under the weight of great, luscious, ripening peaches that General Varney himself pronounced to be superior to those raised from the same stock on the older trees of the Mission Reserved Seats at Snipes & Kinersly's. Garden . The owner gazing on them with pardonable pride said, "I have only allowed to remain on these trees all the J. M. HUNTINGTON & CO fruit I dare to. I have lived in and am familiar with the best fruit raising districts of California and I believe Mosier is equal to the best of them. If this was in California it would be worth one to two hundred dollars an acre without an ax on it." Poor fellow! He did not live to realize the bright hopes then before his vision. The hand of death was upon him, though he knew it not, and in a few short months he sank quietly into a consumptive's grave.

Perhaps the finest orchard of its size in Mosier is that of Amos Root. He has six acres of fruit bearing trees, although a larger area of young trees has already been set out. From these six acres he land expects to ship or have for sale 2000 boxes of peaches, 100 bushels of apples, two tons of dried prunes and "some green prunes."

These figures are taken from his own lips. If any one, in any country, can make a better showing than this from six acres of ground situated on a hill side without a drop of irrigation we should like to hear from him. His peaches two years ago brought him an average of 76 cents a box. Two thousand boxes at 76 cents each is $1520. The 100 bushels of apples and two tons of dried Leading Fire Insurance Companies. prunes and "some green prunes" cannot fall far short of bringing the income from this-six acre patch up to $2000. And yet there are thousands of acres of land around Mosier, that with the same management, care and cultivation will do equally as well.

Purity in Politics.

An exchange says: "Political reform should begin at home." Very timely advice. A cry goes up from all over the country for national reform when rottenness prevails in town, county and state politics. By all means, begin the work at home.—Heppner Record.

That's just what the people of The Dalles did at last election-not only began the work but carried it out.

A certain little girl, who is just learning to read short words, takes great interest in the big letters she sees in the newspapers. The other evening, after she had kept her mamma busy reading the advertisements in the newspapers to her, she knelt down to say her prayers. "Dear Lord," she lisped, "make me pure," then she hesitated, and went on, with added forvor, a moment later, "make me absolutely pure, like baking powder.
