WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

THE DALLES, June 30, 1891. FAIR. Weather forecast till 12 m. Wednesday; fair. Slightly cooler.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in The Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Last Sunday all the saloons in Spokane were closed.

Mr. Hampton Kelly, of Wapinitia, is in the city.

Dr. J. J. Steiner has returned to the city to remain here for the present.

We regret to learn that Mr. Solomon is still unable to leave his bed. He is with his family in Portland.

Fifty head of stock cattle, from yearlings up, changed hands the other day, near this city, at $20 a head.

Mrs. C. W. Dietzel, who has been visiting her parents east, for the past three months, returned home yesterday.

The Warm Springs Indian Brass Band will discourse music to the people of Prineville at their celebration on the Fourth.

Charley Hall shot a seal yesterday near his fish wheel, which dressed 500 pounds. He is trying out the oil that is in it today.

State lecturer William Holder organized a new grange on Three Mile Creek last Saturday evening with twenty-six charter members.

Deufert Bros. made their first shipment of peaches to Portland yesterday, consisting of ninety baskets of Alexandrias. They are first class.

We regret to be compelled to announce our inability to find room today for the address of Judge Hill at the funeral of Mr. Atwater. We hope to insert it without fail tomorrow.

It took ten tons of strawberries to feed the 700 patients of the Oregon asylum this season. No one, it is hoped, grudges these poor people plenty of cream into the bargain.

Next Saturday will be July 4; 44 states in the Union; 444 members of congress; 4,444 fires; 44,444 orators; 444,444 picnics; 4,444,444 in procession; 44,444,444 people cheering for the flag.

Decorations of the stores and dwellings at least, the business part of the city is now in order and we have no doubt will be attended to by our citizens in a manner worthy of themselves and of the occasion.

Last year the cannery put up 31,175 cans of salmon, holding four dozen to the can, and this year a trifle less than 4000 cans. Practically, there are no salmon canneries. The cannery is working fifty men.

Mr. H. Arnold brought into this office this morning a sample of the Blue Stem variety of wheat, grown on Chenoweth creek, on summer-fallowed land, sowed in the spring. It is fully four and one-half feet in height, and equals the best spring wheat we have seen this season.

Census bulletin just issued from the department having to deal with mines, mining, treats of sandstone. From this bulletin it is learned that the value of the output of Oregon's two sandstone quarries in 1890 was $8424. The production was 50,000 cubic feet. Oregon had no place in the tenth census, but in the present one she occupies thirty-second place, New Hampshire, Tennessee, Idaho and five other states being behind her. Ohio leads the list.

Conductor Seely met with an accident last night that will certainly lay him up several weeks. It was on the east side of night passenger between the passenger depot and the Umatilla house in this city. The baggage car, it appears, had been sent out without any steps on it, and Mr. Seely forgetting the fact stepped out to look forward when he missed his footing and fell to the ground. His left arm and shoulder were badly bruised, one tooth was knocked down his throat and his face cut and eye blackened. Drs. Logan and Duane were called in and the man made as easy as possible and he was taken to Portland this morning.

Louis Klinger of Dufur told the writer the following story of a dog of the "Sooner" variety that he once owned. This particular dog had a large, bushy tail, and one day while Louis was chopping wood the dog laid his tail across one of the sticks and Louis chopped it off close.

Instead of raising a howl as Louis supposed the dog would do, the intelligent animal wagged the stump, winked at Louis, as much as to say, "See if I don't get even with you," picked up the piece of tail in his mouth while the blood was still spurting from it and the stump, and trotting off to the newly painted porch of Louis' house, smeared it all over with blood, so that it took Louis all the afternoon to wash it off.

THE THIRD REGIMENT.

Programme for the Day, and Notes by the Way.

CAMP CHENOWETH, June 30, 1891. The first series of games in the Regimental baseball tournament will be played this afternoon at three p. m.

The first heats in the 100 yard dash for members under 35 years of age, and the first heats in the 440 yard race will also be run after dress parade, from 7:30 to 8:30, this evening.

By order of the committee.

T. A. Houghton, Col., chairman.

G. T. Thompson, Lt. Col.

J. A. Booth, 1st Lt. and Sig. Officer.

R. H. Norton, 1st Lt. and Eng. sec.

Companies F of Baker City, H of Condon, K of La Grande, D of Hood River, B of Weston, E of Fossil, and C of The Dalles, are entered for the challenge plate.

The handsome captain of F Co. confidently expects to take it home with him, but there are six other captains equally confident that they will have it, and someone is going to be disappointed. The competition will take place towards the end of the week, and will be exciting and interesting.

There are 19 entries for the 100 yard dash, for those under 35 years of age; 4 for 100 yard dash over 35 years of age; eight for 100 yard dash for commissioned officers; 20 for 440 yard race and 20 for best individual soldier. Mrs. Houghton, wife of the popular colonel will deliver the prizes to the winners at dress parade Saturday evening.

Major Lucas had difficulty in getting a suitable mount, and the boys of H and E companies hearing of this, raised a purse and had the majors horse shipped to him by express from Arlington.

The Third will be the banner regiment of the O. N. G., in point of attendance, orderly bearing, and discipline. This is the opinion of an officer of high rank, who has already seen the battalion at drill.

The conduct of the boys in camp, has been most exemplary and there has been no use for the guard house. Although nearly 150 men were given passes last night, all were back before their time expired.

Lieut. Col. Thompson, Capt. Hollister, Surgeon; and Lieut. Norton, engineer, have formed a joint mess and entertained Adjutant General Schoefner at luncheon yesterday.

Three non-commissioned officers from Vancouver barracks arrived this morning, as drill instructors; Major Burke, of the 14th Infantry is expected here tonight, having been detailed by the War department as official inspector.

Capt. Lewis and family, Mrs. Patterson, wife of the regimental quartermaster, Mrs. Houghton, and Miss Gillian are among the visitors yesterday.

Mr. Joseph Fitzgerald the ever popular, resumed his old position as drum major, this morning, and the band boys are correspondingly happy.

H. Athelstun Morley of Portland, is the guest of Lieutenant Norton, for the week. Signal Sergeant Patterson has been appointed Orderly by the Colonel.

The band will play during the exercises, between 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock this evening.

Of the 48 men composing company K from La Grande only eight reported for duty this morning. The rest were suffering from diarrhoea, superinduced, it is supposed, from the change of drinking the water.

The most interesting ceremonies during the day are, Guard-Mount, at 9 a. m.; Battalion Drill, at 1:30 p. m., and dress parade, at 7 p. m. The "latch string hangs out, and officers and men will be pleased to have their friends, and the public visit them.

A few days ago Joe Warner of Nansene took down to Portland two car loads of beef cattle and four coyotes. The cattle market was dull and Mr. Warner was obliged to sell them at a slight loss, but what he lost on the cattle he made up on the coyotes. It appears coyote scalps are worth $5 a head in Multnomah county; so Joe hired a man for $5 to kill the four coyotes and take the scalps to the courthouse where the man got $20 for them and Joe pocketed $15 clear profit. Of course the man was able to swear that the coyotes were killed in Multnomah county.

The list of officers published yesterday was incomplete, in that it left out the name of one of The Dalles' most energetic young men, for which we are duly sorry, but not to blame, as the name did not appear on the roster. We allude to Lieutenant J. S. Booth, who is signal officer of the regiment.

The Eight Mile Zo-ological gardens contain the following curiosities. A chicken with three legs and three wings. White rats, imported from Central Africa, a male and female coyote from Tygh Ridge, a pair of owls from Central America, a spotted crow from Australia and rare breeds of domestic fowl embracing full grown hens that weigh only a pound to roosters that tip the beam at 14.

Eighty Years Old. Yesterday Mr. Peter Rath, father of Mrs. Stadelman on the Mission Farm celebrated the anniversary of his eightieth birthday. Mr. Rath is enjoying good health for one of such age, and his many friends wish that he may celebrate this festive day for many years to come.

Real Estate Transactions.

Dufur Brothers to Josiah Burlingame, block 2 in second addition to the town of Dufur. Consideration, $175.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

For God and Home and Native Land.

EDITED BY THE DALLES W. C. T. UNION.

ONWARD AND SUNWARD.

Others shall sing the song, Others shall right the wrong, Finish what I begin, And all I fall of win.

What matter I or they? Mine or another's day, So the right word is said, And life the sweeter made.

Hail to the coming singers! Hail to the brave light-bringers! Forward I reach and share, All that they sing and dare.

I feel the earth move onward, I join the great march onward, And take by faith, while living, My freehold of thanksgiving.

—J. G. Whittier.

At the meeting of the World's W. C. T. Union, held in Washington City Sunday afternoon, Mrs. M. B. Platt spoke on the Maker of the work done by the State department, at the request of the brewers and malsters, as to the best means of introducing their products in South and Central America. The United States consuls obtained the information, and it was printed in book form for distribution. Mrs. Platt spoke to a large meeting as follows:

"For years the temperance people have besieged congress with petitions for an inquiry into the liquor traffic, which was never granted. The liquor men do not want the traffic investigated, they know that if the light of public investigation be turned on their business, it would expose such festering corruption, such depths of informing such demoralization of homes, and degradations of mankind as would arouse a cyclone of indignation. But government drops its hat gracefully to the liquor traffic and makes her officers drummers for the beer trade."

Intemperance people want their homes protected and the streets made safe for children when they go out of the home.

"The Story is Old."

BY W. B. MERCHANT.

"All that can be said on the temperance question has been said a million times over. There is no need to take a temperance paper."

"The woman who made the above statement is a wife and a mother. How one's thoughts will circle round and spread out, like ripples from a center of agitation, from that old adage, 'There is nothing new under the sun.'"

Do politicians ever tire of these magical words, "tariff vs. free trade." Every four years, or oftener, the changes are rung, the old ground plowed, the seed sown, the harvest often depending upon the amount of cultivation. Does any one say the story has lost its grip?

There is a theme much older than this. The preacher tells of creation, of the fall, and of redemption. Thousands listen, think, and shudder at the thought of the world without Christianity; O, pity the few who say, "The story is old,—let it die!"

Almost as long ago as creation the story of human love was told; did this woman say to her would-be husband, "That story has been told a million times, don't tell it to me?"

The circle widens and comprehends all nature. Every season brings forth the earth's products, fruits, grains, etc., and all flesh; every day the appetite reiterates the ancient demand. Nevertheless, we must not say anything upon the temperance question, because it has been said before. Will the tempter hold his peace the while? An old picture comes to mind of a church, "Closed while the pastor takes a vacation." The arch fiend says, "I never take a vacation!"

Don't say anything about temperance to that woman's boy! He may learn to tipple of his father, what matter if he tipple harder? Don't say anything if he join the midnight carousal; bad blood is sometimes engendered there; he may reach a felon's cell, but keep your lips closed; unchecked temptation sometimes ends on the gallows, and the victim! But let us go back. This woman has daughters, too; they may be beautiful, genteel, educated (although these things are old and ought not to be repeated.) Don't tell them of wine-bibbing husbands, it's too frivolous. Can you follow the wave and tell who the victim might be, eye has been? Oh, the story is old, but now is the time to thunder it into that mother's ears.

Too late? It would not save her boy, it would not save her girl from a life of double anguish? They are not worth saying? It would only be another form of the old story. Poor mother! But, thank God, the sun will continue to melt the ice and thaw the frozen ground, the seed will sprout and grow, the dripping water will still wear the rock.

As to the idea put forth by some that in the case of prohibition the state ought to compensate saloon-keepers and distillers for loss of property, the matter is deserving of candid consideration. No good cause can be aided by wrong doing. But let this fact be noted; the state has no right to prohibit a business at all, except on the ground that it is intrinsically a bad business, and one fraught with damage to society. The fundamental justification for meddling summarily with this liquor business is, that it is a business found to be so essentially and continuously, always and everywhere injurious to society and ruinous to otherwise happy homes, as to prove itself to be an incomputable damage to the commonwealth, amounting to a horrible nuisance and a curse. It will be time enough for the prohibited nuisance to demand compensation for its abatement when some compensation shall begin to be made for the merciless misery and loss it has already occasioned. The liquor business is so essentially injurious, its prosecution is in fact, even if not yet so denominated in law, a crime.

Attention.

Fourth of July Committee extends a pressing invitation to all to take part in the procession of the plug uglies which will start at 1 p. m. headed by the brass band from Mr. Lochhead's feed yard at the east end of the city.
