

THE UNKISSED KISS.

I have kissed the girl a plenty,
And from one year old to twenty, Kissed her better far than honey, I can taste their sweetness yet.

CAPTURING A BRIDE.

One Way Savages Have of Choosing a Wife have called a mild manner.

JUST HOW MAN WILL FLY

NOT BY FLAPPING ARTIFICIAL WINGS, BUT BY SOARING.

He Will Succeed Yet, Says an Investigator, and His Voyaging Will Be on the Aeroplane Principle—Australia Has Come Near to Solving the Problem.

Man will yet learn how to fly. Professor Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, so declared in an address delivered before the National Academy of Sciences. This ought to give much encouragement to thinkers who hope that mankind will some day secure domain in the element of birds, just as it has already done, thanks to the evolution of submarine boats and diving gear, in that of fishes.

The Dalles Chronicle

is here and has come to stay. It hopes to win its way to public favor by energy, industry and merit; and to this end we ask that you give it a fair trial, and if satisfied with its course a generous support.

The Daily

four pages of six columns each, will be issued every evening, except Sunday, and will be delivered in the city, or sent by mail for the moderate sum of fifty cents a month.

Its Objects

will be to advertise the resources of the city, and adjacent country, to assist in developing our industries, in extending and opening up new channels for our trade, in securing an open river, and in helping THE DALLES to take her proper position as the Leading City of Eastern Oregon.

The paper, both daily and weekly, will be independent in politics, and in its criticism of political matters, as in its handling of local affairs, it will be

JUST, FAIR AND IMPARTIAL.

We will endeavor to give all the local news, and we ask that your criticism of our object and course, be formed from the contents of the paper, and not from rash assertions of outside parties.

THE WEEKLY,

sent to any address for $1.50 per year.
It will contain from four to six eight column pages, and we shall endeavor to make it the equal of the best. Ask your Postmaster for a copy, or address.

THE DALLES.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

THE LARGEST WOOL MARKET.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of $1,500,000 which can and will be more than doubled in the near future.

ITS WEALTH

It is the richest city of its size on the coast, and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

The First Post Diluvian Family.

An English divine has prepared a startling table of the figures, perusal of which will make one thankful that he is living in the latter part of the Nineteenth century instead of in the day, immediately following the landing of the ark. He shows that if one of Noah's boys had lived to be 500 years old, having his first child at thirty and his last at four hundred and seventy, and allowing for but one addition to his family every three years, and supposing them all to live to the ripe old age of 450, he could gather around him at least 147 sons and daughters.

With a reasonable degree of prolific bearing his grandchildren would number between 10,000 and 12,000; the great and the great-great grandchildren taken with the others enumerated above would swell the figures to something like 50,000; this, too, if monogamy alone were practised. If polygamy were the rule, as it probably was at that time, the figures would be still more startling.—St. Louis Republic.

Methods of Sea Doctors.

It is related that a lieutenant in command of one of her majesty's gunboats deemed the responsibility of the charge of a medicine chest too much for him.
Immediately she was off soundings the gallant officer mustered all hands and divided the contents of the chest equally, so that each had "his whack and his mair." There are two other naval yarns in this connection well worth mentioning.

A man-of-war doctor whose name is unfortunately lost to posterity had a simple method of locating a man's ailment and alleviating it (save the mark!) by drastic and infallible remedies. He would tie a piece of tape around the waist of the complaining mariner, and command him to declare whether his pain existed above or below the tape. If above an emetic, if below a dose of salts followed as a matter of course.—Fall Mail Gazette.

How the Tea Plant Started.

As you drink a cup of tea do you ever think how tea came to grow? Tell your next visitor the story. A Persian prince, on his way to meet his betrothed, vowed that he would not sleep until he saw her. After traveling seven days, he stopped to rest under a shade tree, and there, being no longer able to resist the temptation, he fell into a sound sleep.
When he awakened he was so sorry that he cut off his eyelids and threw them on the ground. From them grew the tea plant. It is rather unfortunate that the story stops here, because it would be interesting to know what the lady thought of a sweetheart without eyelids, and whether it would be possible for them to grow again.—New York Sun.

Sat Upon by an Ostrich.

A gentleman had a theory that any creature, however savage, could be subdued—"quelled," as he said, by the human eye. One day he tried to quell one of his own ostriches, with the result that he was presently found in a very pitiable predicament, lying flat on the ground, while the subject of his experiment jumped up and down on him, occasionally varying the treatment by sitting upon him. Doubtless it was safer to lie down than to stand up to be kicked, but to be sat upon as if one were an egg must have been indeed humiliating.—London Spectator.

A Circulating Ring.

Alice—I met Minnie Renee today and she showed me the engagement ring that Horace Fledgely gave her.
Gwendolin—Is it a pretty one?
Alice—You remember the one he gave you and me?
Gwendolin—Let me think. Oh, yes!
Alice—It's the same ring.—Jewelers' Circular.

Dr. J. R. Etter, of Crawfordsville, Ind., has invented an electric typewriter, by means of which the operator can transmit his manuscript hundreds of miles. The principle employed is different, it is stated, from that used by the writing telegraph. All the characters of the ordinary typewriter are used.

The crocodile's lower jaw is not sock-eted in the skull, as is the case with other animals, but the skull is socketed in the jaw, so that the animal can lift the upper part of its head as upon a hinge, and so capture whatever prey may be at hand without going to the trouble of getting upon its legs.

If vaseline or butter be applied to the skin immediately after a blow of any kind there will be no discoloration.
But to be affected it must be used immediately after the accident. The bruised feeling may be relieved by witch hazel.

Milagro Gorje, the little prima donna who is enchanting Madrid, is only ten years old. She is thin, white and sickly, but her voice is wonderfully fine, and she is a clever emotional actress.

A Wonderful Sense of Smell.

The buzzard's wonderful sense of smell is a curious subject that has often been discussed, the discussion of the matter having resulted in a general uniformity of opinion among scientists that they locate their food by their sense of smell alone. C. L. Hopkins, the noted biologist, says that he has noticed that in Florida they never leave the roots where the night is spent, especially on damp, foggy mornings, until the moisture has been dried by the sun. They then move slowly across the wind until a "scent" is struck, when they move more slowly "up the wind" until the carrion is located. Sometimes they will drift down the wind past their prey, until they have struck the scent, which they follow up until they have found the object of their search, sometimes in the densest thickets. Mr.
Hopkins says that he has upon several occasions killed wild hogs in the thickets, and after dressing them and taking what meat he wished would see twenty or more buzzards coming down with the wind. On one occasion they had discovered some animal remains he had covered up, and on another had found a dead snake which he had buried.—St. Louis Republic.

The Old and New Way of Scouring Wool.

Our ancestors scoured their wool in tubs, much as our wives and daughters scour our clothes today. In the hand washing of wool, a tub was filled with the suds, in which one or two men with long poles stirred the wool until clean, when they lifted it upon a traveling apron, which carried it between a pair of rollers which squeezed out the water.
The same principle is applied in the automatic scouring now in vogue.
Great forks or rakes seize the wool as it is carried by rollers from a feeding apron into the iron tanks, and by alternating motions of their teeth give it a thorough scouring. Thus cleansed, the wool is delivered by rollers to the drying machines, where hot air and great fans are now utilized to extract all the moisture without tearing the fiber.—S.
N. D. North in Popular Science Monthly.

A Learned Jewess.

Eve Cohen Bacharach was born in Prague in the latter part of the Sixteenth century. The mother, who was a "woman of great knowledge," carefully educated the daughter, and together they took great delight in studying rabbinical literature. The most abstruse works written by the learned men among her people were thoroughly appreciated by the youthful pupil. Later in life her explanations of the "festival and penitential prayers" were listened to with rare pleasure. She was, it is recorded, in "Arabic translations and paraphrases on the Bible quite at home." "No less marked was her proficiency in Hebrew, which she read and wrote with ease and elegance."

Will Eat in Heaven.

We cannot discuss the subject of heaven with editors who show by their statements that they have never studied the question of the resurrection. Our bodies will be material after the resurrection. This is an article of faith.
Heaven is a material place. The object of the resurrection is to reward the body for its partnership in the good done by the soul in the flesh. It shall have bodily enjoyments after the resurrection.
Will eating and drinking be one of them? We think so. Why not?—Western Watchman.

A Candid Confession.

He—Life with me has been a failure.
She—You must have had and wasted some opportunity.
He—No, I have spent half my life raising whiskers to conceal my youth, and the other half dyeing them to conceal my age.—Munsey's Weekly.
