The Chronicle is the Only Paper in the Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Digests.

A NEWSPAPER A BLESSING OR A CURSE.

There are those who claim that every community, looking at the matter in a practical and judicious light, would be pleased with the paper. A paper that would stand by its own merit or fall by its own weight, that would encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people among whom it circulates, and that would not circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that would speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support, is a paper that, it may be said, would possess a good name in the community. Such a paper, if it received no financial support, would be a true blessing. But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse.

In the absence of a newspaper, the people of a community would be left without the means of obtaining accurate and reliable information. They would be at the mercy of those who would spread false and malicious rumors, and who would endeavor to create discord and dissension among the people. The absence of a newspaper would mean the loss of a valuable asset, and the community would be the loser.

But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse. The people of a community, if they wish to have a good name, should support a newspaper that will encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people. They should not support a newspaper that will circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that will speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in the Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Digests.

A NEWSPAPER A BLESSING OR A CURSE.

There are those who claim that every community, looking at the matter in a practical and judicious light, would be pleased with the paper. A paper that would stand by its own merit or fall by its own weight, that would encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people among whom it circulates, and that would not circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that would speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support, is a paper that, it may be said, would possess a good name in the community. Such a paper, if it received no financial support, would be a true blessing. But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse.

In the absence of a newspaper, the people of a community would be left without the means of obtaining accurate and reliable information. They would be at the mercy of those who would spread false and malicious rumors, and who would endeavor to create discord and dissension among the people. The absence of a newspaper would mean the loss of a valuable asset, and the community would be the loser.

But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse. The people of a community, if they wish to have a good name, should support a newspaper that will encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people. They should not support a newspaper that will circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that will speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in the Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Digests.

A NEWSPAPER A BLESSING OR A CURSE.

There are those who claim that every community, looking at the matter in a practical and judicious light, would be pleased with the paper. A paper that would stand by its own merit or fall by its own weight, that would encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people among whom it circulates, and that would not circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that would speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support, is a paper that, it may be said, would possess a good name in the community. Such a paper, if it received no financial support, would be a true blessing. But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse.

In the absence of a newspaper, the people of a community would be left without the means of obtaining accurate and reliable information. They would be at the mercy of those who would spread false and malicious rumors, and who would endeavor to create discord and dissension among the people. The absence of a newspaper would mean the loss of a valuable asset, and the community would be the loser.

But, if the financial support would be necessary to maintain a good name, the paper would be a real curse. The people of a community, if they wish to have a good name, should support a newspaper that will encourage and support everything that will prove beneficial and promote the welfare of the people. They should not support a newspaper that will circulate only for the sake of being circulated, but that will speak the truth when it is necessary to do so, no matter what may be the source of its support.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in the Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Digests.