DIED IN JAIL.

An English Clergyman's Love for Liquor Causes His Downfall.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Gloucester is excited over a clerical scandal. Last evening Henry Rudge, the senior curate of Newent, near that city, who was well connected and had been highly connected, died in jail. His downfall has been rapid. A short time ago he began drinking, and it was soon learned by the parish trustees that he was using a large amount of parochial funds. Through the influence of friends, who restored the money, the matter was hushed up, and it was hoped that the minister's failings would be controlled, but after a brief period of uprightnes he again fell from grace, and it became necessary for the parishioners to dismiss him. A week ago Rudge was forced to leave his house for non-payment of rent. Overcome by despair and shame he attempted to commit suicide, but was prevented from carrying out his purpose and was sent to jail for the offense of trying to end his life. It is believed he obtained poison through some friend while in jail and was thus enabled to finally complete the work of self-destruction, as an autopsy shows signs of poison. Very few of the curate's parishioners had an idea of the disgrace into which he had fallen; the prevailing idea that he was suffering from nervous prostration. The revelations following the suicide have caused a profound sensation.

REFUSED TO HOLD HIM.

Minneapolis Authorities Release a Pick-pocket Wanted at Portland.

St. Paul, Sept. 7.—John Foley, a somewhat noted character, commonly known as "The Goat," was released from imprisonment at Minneapolis today upon the understanding that he would leave the city. Foley is a pick-pocket. His favorite plan of operation is among women at funerals and other solemn occasions, where the people's minds are on the ceremony. He was arrested at the exposition by Detective Hoy. The authorities at Portland, Or., wanted Foley held until an officer could arrive from that city. The county attorney thought it would require too long a time for an officer to come from the coast, and that the prisoner would have been able to get out a writ of habeas corpus in the meantime. Foley was arrested on general principles at Portland about a year ago. He broke jail and came east. About four years ago he stole a pocket-book from Mrs. John Fleethaine's pocket, while that lady was attending a funeral in East Minneapolis. He was arrested at the time but managed to escape conviction.

ACCIDENT OR CRIME.

A Wealthy Ranch Owner Gives His Friends Poison to Drink.

HARTINGTON, Neb., Sept. 7.—Andrew Olsen, a well-known farmer of this vicinity, died last night from the effects of a dose of poison taken in a drink of alcohol. Marth Knulson, neighbor to the deceased, lies at the point of death, and Hans Seager, another friend, is slowly recovering from the effect of poison. Dennis Flaberty, a wealthy ranchowner with previously a good reputation, has been arrested, charged with poisoning them. Last week he met them and after a brief friendly conversation offered them to drink from a flask of alcohol which he drew from his pocket. He asserts he had two flasks, one containing alcohol and one poison. The men who drank asserts he had but one flask, that the liquor therein was of a milky hue, and he remarked it was not clear as alcohol should be.

A Desperate Woman's Deed.

ATLANTA, Sept. 7.—Justice Moss, of Everest, yesterday held Mrs. John Bradley without bail for the murder of the infant of her cousin, Miss Curley. The child was the illegitimate offspring of Mrs. Bradley's son, Charles. The condition of Miss Curley, and the general knowledge that young Bradley was the cause of her trouble, threatened to break his marriage engagement with Julia Garvey, whereupon Mrs. Bradley poisoned the child and drove the Curley girl, who is simple-minded, away. She, however, returned to visit the grave of her child, and the story came out.

The Texas Train Robbers.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 7.—Reports received at Galveston last night concerning the story of a battle between the authorities and the perpetrators of the train robbery on the Southern Pacific railway Tuesday, lack confirmation. Dispatches tonight from Del Rio report that a part of the train-robber gang is being trailed into the fastnesses of the Santa Rosa mountains, while the rest have taken up the Rio Grand, crossing and recrossing to obliterate their tracks. Several mail bags, with piles of half-burned letters, have been found on the Santa Rosa trail.

Disastrous Storm in Ohio.

ALLIANCE, Sept. 7.—The most destructive electrical and rain storm ever witnessed here passed over this section of the state Saturday evening. No less than twelve houses and barns were struck, resulting in total destruction, aggregating a loss of from $50,000 to $75,000. The electrical display was bewildering in its intensity. It is also reported that a number of wires were lost, but owing to imperfect telegraphic facilities, nothing definite can be gotten.

A Ship's Crew Stricken Down With Scurvy and no Medicines on Board—Two Dead.

Drowned in a Mysterious Manner—Balmaceda Upholds Minister Egan—Other Brief News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The bark Royal Tar, from Australia, anchored in quarantine yesterday morning, reporting fever and scurvy on board, and the captain and first mate both dead. Dr. Lawler, quarantine officer, sent the sailors to the Marine hospital. On his return to shore, he stated they were in a fearful condition, caused by foulness of the ship, shortness of provisions and medicines. The Royal Tar left Australia June 5th, with Captain T. A. Franklin, two mates, eleven seamen and a boy. Very soon after starting most abominable stench arose from the hold, and in a few days all on board became ill. June 15th, Captain Franklin was down with typhoid fever. Then it was found the medicine chest had not been filled, and nothing could be done for him. The last day of August the captain died and was buried. Then the first mate fell ill with the fever and died. Second Mate McCall took command, and succeeded in getting through without further deaths though all on board were ill with fever. In July all stores gave out except tea and flour, and on this the crew had to live. No antiscorbutics were on board, and the men suffered fearfully. Ten days ago the German bark Hydra gave them a little meat and quinine. The appearance of the men is frightful. Some are toothless, others pitted and scarred with gangrene. It is believed the lives of all will be saved by care and rest.

FATAL PLEASURE TRIP.

A Man and Woman Drowned in a Mysterious Manner.

ATLANTA, Sept. 7.—Jefferson D. Stuart, a married man with four children, and Mrs. Jane Kennedy, a married woman with two children, went out for a boat ride on Ponde de Leon lake after 8 o'clock last night. They had with them, in another boat, two companions, Gignilliat and Miss Ida Harmon. The lake is away out of town and is in a lonely spot. The two couples took separate boats and there in the dark were having a pleasant time. Suddenly Gignilliat heard a scream, and looking around beheld no trace of the other boat. It had disappeared with its occupants as completely as if it had never existed. Miss Harmon fainted, and it was with difficulty that Gignilliat saved himself from the fate of his companions. Reaching shore and laying his unconscious companion upon the grass, he rushed off and gave the alarm. About 10 o'clock 200 men had gathered from the city with drags and grappling irons. For four hours they dragged before success rewarded them. The man was first fished up, then the woman. The watch in the man's pocket had stopped at 8:05. Stuart had visited Mrs. Kennedy's house early in the evening and suggested the trip. His wife is on a visit to Tennessee, while the woman's husband is in Douglas county.

MATTERS IN CHILL.

President Balmaceda Upholds United States Minister Egan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The Examiner's Santiago correspondent, under date of August 8, reports an interview with Balmaceda, then president of Chili, in which the latter claimed foreign speculators had more to do with the disruption of the government than was generally known, and that a great deal of money had been advanced the insurgents by foreign capitalists. He refused to state whether or not United States Minister Egan had expressed an opinion as to whether the United States government favored the Balmacedan government or the insurgents, but said the United States minister was a very conservative man, and had chosen to remain silent as to his own sympathy in the matter. Balmaceda expressed the opinion that the chastisement which he said Egan had received from the American press was not merited, and that the insurgents were trying to "down" the latter simply from spite. The interview was brief, as the correspondent says the president refused to discuss army or state affairs.

Desperate Fight Between Convicts.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 7.—In the penitentiary at Frankfort Sunday morning Eli Lucas and William Bell Meyer, both long-term convicts, fought. Lucas was literally cut to pieces, and will die. Meyer was beaten until he was unconscious. William Johnson, another convict who interferred, had his skull cracked.

Extensive Car Shops Burned.

PORT HURON, Mich., Sept. 7.—The large car shops of the Chicago & Grand Trunk railway were partially burned yesterday afternoon. Eleven cars were destroyed, besides a large quantity of lumber and the carpenter shops. Loss, $100,000. Two hundred men are thrown out of employment.

AT SEA IN A DOBY.

Two Young Men Sail From Rockaway Beach in a Seven-Foot Boat.

New York, Sept. 7.—Yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock two young men sailed from Rockaway beach in a dory, bound for Boston. Harry Tumback, the captain, sat in the stern just before starting, while Robert Valkenberg, the mate and crew, went forward and christened the craft Little Rover. Then they sailed. Two hours later they had made about half a mile. Their boat is seven feet long and two feet six inches in width. It has a square stern, is flat bottomed, has a centre-board, and carries a mainsail and jib. With its two occupants it draws about six inches, while its gunwales are about eight inches above water. The sides are made of a single board about three-quarters of an inch thick. The mainsail is five feet high and about three feet wide. In this cigar box two men expect to reach Boston in about nine days. They expect to capsize frequently, and so they carry a reel and a long line. When they go overboard they will swim ashore and draw the boat after them, bail her out and proceed. Both voyagers are robust young fellows, who have made a record as life savers at Rockaway and Asbury Park. They will trust to their swimming powers rather than to the boat to save them. They will pass up East River through the sound and around Cape Cod, keeping as near shore as possible. They carry canvas to shelter them at night. It is said they are sailing for a purse or wager.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Young Doctor Shoots Miss Ison of Baker City, at Bloomington, Ill.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 7.—Dr. Chas. E. Ballard, of Haybrook, Ill., and Miss Bertha Ison of Baker City, Oregon, and daughter of the late Judge Ison of that place, was found dead this morning. Dr. Ballard, a young physician came to this city and ever since then has been importuning Miss Ison, who came here with her mother to attend college, to marry him. She thought much of him but begged him to postpone the event until after her education was completed. This morning he appeared at the house and had an interview with Miss Ison in the parlor. While talking with her he pulled out a revolver and shot her twice, once through the head and once through the heart, producing instant death. The doctor then shot himself five times dying in a few minutes.

OREGON'S TOBACCO INTERESTS.

Figures Relating to the Industry in This State.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Special Agent Hyde, of the census, has made up the figures of the tobacco industry in Oregon. The plant is grown in fourteen counties, Linn being the banner county in the product. The number of planters is fifty-nine; crop, 3325 pounds; value, $666; average yield per acre, 277 pounds. In comparison with other states in which tobacco is grown to a cheaper or less extent. Oregon stands third in average value per acre, twenty-ninth in the number of planters, thirty-third in the average yield per acre, and thirty-fifth in acreage in the production and in the value of the product.

A Snake Story.

A man named Bayle down in Modoc county, California, a short time since killed a rattlesnake five feet long and twelve inches in circumference and having forty-four rattles and a button and the Ashland Record man avows that he has the rattles on exhibition in his office. That reminds the CHRONICLE man of a rattle snake story he heard the other day from the lips of a pioneer lady of this county, in whose truthfulness and sincerity he has the utmost confidence, otherwise he should be disposed to take 'em cum grano salis. In the summer of '53 a party of surveyors at Stony Butte in Lane county, on the farm of Mitchell Wilkins, one of the Oregon commissioners, we believe, to the world's fair came upon a den of rattle snakes and in the space of about three hours they killed 980 snakes of all sizes from the infant on its mother's knee, and young rattlers just cutting their eye teeth, so to speak, up to the old battle scarred veterans of two or three feet long. One man, a farmer of the neighborhood named Jesse Hasket, who had engaged in the killing match, died a few days afterwards, from the effects, as his physician alleged, of inhaling the deadly fumes of the snake poison. Our informant was then a school girl of the neighborhood, and is now the honored wife of Mr. J. H. Mosier of Mosier in this county.

Murdered and Thrown in the River.

EUREKA, Cal., Sept. 7.—The body of Ludwig Stein, an old German, was found in Mad river yesterday. A handkerchief with a lot of stones was tied around his neck. An autopsy showed the man was dead before the body was put in the water, and the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from an unknown cause. Stein had trouble with his son-in-law, Adolph Fisher, lately.

The exports of cotton goods from New York for the first seven months of the current year amounted to $7,327,349 as against $4,577,552 for the same period last year.
