SPREAD - EAGLEISM GONE TO SEED.

The finest sample of unadulterated spread-eagleism the country has been treated to for many a day is the published speech of Hon. Patrick H. Whinstone, delivered at Tacoma last Thursday at the opening of the industrial exposition of that city. Here is a feather from this eagle's wing: "The story of the wars which we have waged, of the hardships we have endured and the courage we have displayed has been told in many languages and in many lands. But to my mind the crowning glory of the republic lies in the fact that no American has ever raised his arm against a fellow countryman, save in defense of the Union; a Union whose flag and honor for the hundred years that stretch from Bunker Hill to Appomattox is without a stain." This is very pretty and might contain a good deal of truth were it not for the little disturbance which began at Fort Sumpter and did not end till a good many arms, that had been raised against fellow countrymen, for no other purpose than to destroy the Union, had been leveled in the dust. Mr. Whinstone's liver, however, seems to have been in such fine condition that he forgot all about the civil war and it is no wonder therefore, that he adds: "This is a theme upon which a man can think and talk for all ages and all time." Then the calamity orators came across the colonel's vision and he gave vent to this thrilling specimen of optimistic oratory that ought to utterly paralyze Peffer and sink Sockless Jerry into the obscurity from which he sprang: "No class of men anywhere in the United States is oppressed by authority of law. I here and now pronounce the declaration, by whosever made or wherever made, that this government is oppressing any class of citizens, as a libel on the nation. Since Abraham Lincoln put aside the pen with which he signed the proclamation of emancipation no man, no matter what calling he follows, no matter what faith he professes, no matter what complexion the sun has burned upon him, no man within the limits of the stars and stripes has been oppressed by American law." It is very evident Mr. Winston never had his family cow put in the pound and it is still more evident, as the Spokane Review suggests that Sockless Jerry sits on one end of the teeter board of extravagant utterance while Colonel Winston has climbed astride the other.

FACTS OF THE FIRE.

How much our evening contemporary knows about what took place at the commencement of the fire may be gathered from the fact that he says: "We can get a dozen men to say that at the East End, at the beginning of the fire, the water soon gave out. Sunday night at the Peter's fire, from some cause, the water was not sufficient on two occasions for the hose to throw a stream." If the gentleman refers to the cistern at the intersection of Second and Madison, we beg to inform him that "at the beginning of the fire" the water did not soon give out. It did not give out at all, for the simple reason that there was nothing to pump it with. The pump gave out because of the criminal carelessness of the man whose business it was to see that it was kept in good repair. At the Peter's fire the water gave out, not because the main was not full, not because there was not sufficient water, but because of the criminal carelessness of the same official who allowed the pipe that conducts the water from the main to the cistern to become so filled up with rust that when taken out, as it was after the fire, it was found that the aperture was scarcely large enough to admit a lead pencil. Our contemporary knows this if he knows anything, and he knows too why he has never been manly enough to tell the truth about it.

The vast destruction of property in this city on September 2d is not strictly attributable to any one cause. After it had crossed Third street, it is doubtful if all the waters of the ocean, with only one fire engine, would have been able to stop it. The wind was, for a time, at least, blowing a hurricane, as is evidenced by the fact that cinders were carried seven and a half miles from the city and some say, nearly twice that distance. Viewing the matter impartially, and with no disposition to criticize the management of the fire department, we have always felt that that the first great evil lay in the fact that the engine was so far from the place where the fire started, that by the time it got there and commenced to play, no one stream of water was fit to stay the progress of the flames, for this delay we may well excuse the fire department. We presume they could not well have made the distance sooner; but what excuse can be offered for the fact that when the hand pump was attached to the cistern, at the intersection of Madison and Second, it was found that the pump would not work by reason of a broken suction. As it was, the machine was absolutely useless. Had it been in a condition to work the fire need never have crossed Second street on the north, and might, in that case, with the wind at the time blowing from the north, be confined within much narrower limits.

Our evening contemporary, after having published false and misleading statements on the water question for nearly two years and having thus deceived certain exchanges, as the Albina Courier, the Roseburg Plaindealer, the La Grande Gazette and others, which have never had a chance to hear the other side, and know nothing about the controversy except what they have learned from the Times-Mountaineer, now amuses his leisure moments by republishing his own falsehoods as they have been printed in these exchanges. It is new style of arguing in a circle.

GENERAL PERSONAL MENTION.

George E. Loring, ex-minister to Portugal, who has been critically ill at his home in Salem, will recover.

Colonel Canto, the leader of the victorious Chilean insurgents, is a fighter who never tires of fighting or thinks of giving up because he may be occasionally floored.

William Waldorf Astor, the New York millionaire, will establish his residence permanently in England. He will never return to this country, it is added, except on a visit, and precisely as an Englishman would.

The Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks will preach at the opening service at Appleton chapel, Harvard university, this fall. It will probably be his last service in his official capacity as one of the preachers of the university.

Muller Ury has just painted a beautiful portrait of Mrs. Theodore Havemeyer. Ury, it will be remembered, is the young Swiss artist who painted the successful portrait of Mr. Depey which was exhibited in New York last winter.

The Duke of Norfolk has been on a visit to the famous shrine of Glastonbury, in hope of benefiting his crippled son, on whose behalf he has prayed, probably, at every well-known holy spot in Europe. The duke is, next to the marquis of Bute, the wealthiest of the Catholic peers in England, and his visit to Glastonbury has been followed by a report, which is probably well founded, that the ruins of the grand old abbey are to be purchased and made habitable for the settlement of monks of the Benedictine order. Three-fourths of the visitors to Glastonbury are Americans.

Michael Davitt has been living in Oakland, Cal., for a few months, and he is going to return to Ireland to his life work. In an interview yesterday he said: "Ireland is on the brink of her freedom. Home rule is only a matter of a few years."

Hon. S. C. Pomeroy occupied the seat in the United States senate vacated by Jefferson Davis in 1860. He found in the desk the manuscript of the last address made by the senate by the future president of the Southern Confederacy, and retained it as a memento.

General William H. F. Lee is a bigger man than his father, the late Confederate leader, but he has sense enough to know that he has neither inherited his sire's fame as an orator nor his honors as a soldier. The result is that he is a sensible, satisfied and plodding congressman.

Some German friends of General Franz Sigel are considering a plan to raise a fund for the old soldier by popular subscription. The general has been very unfortunate during the past few years, and at present he is living on a pension of $100 per month, which was awarded him by congress, a few months ago.

M. H. DeYoung, the California editor started his first newspaper in San Francisco in 1865 on a capital of $20—and that loaned him by a more prosperous acquaintance. Bret Harte was at that time a clerk in the mint and did his first writing for Mr. DeYoung's paper, never asking for pay for his contributions. Within a few weeks after the paper was started its advertising receipts were $1000 a month.

The modesty of The Dalles which prevented her people from asking for aid is not commendable. Here is a great rich city anxious to send assistance to their suffering neighbors. It was the duty of The Dalles to say that she needed Portland's generosity.—Sunday Welcome.

The pole Lima bean has not yet been superseded by the bush Lima, though the latter is more easily grown. Instead of using poles to each hill, as is the custom, brush will answer, and wire that is stretched along the rows (several strands being used) will also provide support, if poles are difficult to obtain.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

The students are arriving in large numbers for the beginning of the Normal at Mannouth.

Marion Harris, of Oakland, Or., who was crushed in a horse-power on the 1st inst., making amputation of the leg necessary, has since died from the effects.

The corner stone of the new Masonic temple was laid Friday at Hillsboro with imposing ceremonies. The royal craft is doing considerable building throughout the jurisdiction this year.

The cars of the Oregonian Railway Company commenced running to Springfield Tuesday. The telegraph line has not yet been strung, nor the depot completed, but work is being pushed on the same.

The State Agricultural college at Corvallis will open for the fall term next Friday. Many important additions have been made to this institution of learning since the closing of the school last spring, and it now stands second to none as an agricultural college.

A most frightful accident occurred Tuesday morning at Pleasant valley saw-mill, fifteen miles from Baker City. Dirigo Wokireich, an Italian, fell against the gang saw and his right arm was torn in shreds from the finger tips to the shoulder. The man's sufferings were something terrible, and he begged those near to kill him and put him out of his misery.

Mr. Jerry Deasy and William Burnam, miners of the Greenhorn country, arrived in Long Creek Friday, being en route to the mines of Fox valley. Both are miners of years' experience, Mr. Burnam having followed the business for the last forty years, and having worked in every mining district on the Pacific coast. Mr. Burnam was the original locator of the Monumental mine in Greenhorn, which is today the most valuable mining property in that entire district.

Mr. Sam Baisley, one of the owners of the White Swan mine, the recently discovered rich strike near the Virtue, will leave for Portland next Saturday for the purpose of purchasing a mill plant, and inside of the next two weeks the stamps will be dropping.

Stock Holders Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wasco Warehouse company will be held at the office of French & Co., The Dalles, Oregon, on Wednesday September 30th, 1891, at 3:30 p. m., for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may come before it.

The Dalles, Oregon, Aug. 29th, 1891.
G. J. FARLEY,
Secretary Wasco Warehouse Co.

Notice.

All persons are hereby warned not to purchase or negotiate for a certain promissory note bearing date about June 5, 1890, given by Max Vogt & Co. to Pat Donlan, for $1188, payable one year after the date of said note with interest thereon at 8 per cent. per annum, as said note is claimed by said Donlan to have been lost or stolen.

The Dalles, Or., Aug. 27, 1891.
MAX VOGT & CO.

An Old Adage.

There is an old adage: "What every body says must be true." Henry Cook, of New Knoxville, Ohio, in a recent letter says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has taken well here. Everybody likes it on account of the immediate relief it gives." There is nothing like it to loosen and relieve a severe cold.

For sale by Snipes & Kinersly, druggists. dw

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Notwithstanding the fire we still have a half million (500 thousand) feet of ROUGH AND DRESSED LUMBER Suitable for buildings of all kinds; also our PLANING MILL is the only one now in the vicinity and ready to turn out mill work of every description.

dw-3 Jos. T. PETERS.

They Speak From Experience.

"We know from experience in the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that it will prevent croup," says Messrs. Gadberr & Worley, Percy, Iowa. They also add that the remedy has given great satisfaction in this vicinity, and that they believe it to be the best in the market for throat and lung diseases. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly druggists.

NOTICE.

R. E. French has for sale a number of improved ranches and unimproved lands in the Grass Valley neighborhood in Sherman county. They will be sold very cheap and on reasonable terms. Mr. French can locate settlers on some good unsettled claims in the same neighborhood. His address is Grass Valley, Sherman county, Oregon.

Notice.

The CHRONICLE will be pleased to publish, free of charge, a list of all property that persons may have lost during the fire and cannot find or may have in possession and cannot find the owner. In all cases where convenient, goods may be left at this office.

Notice.

City taxes for 1891 are now due. Dalles City tax assessment is now in my hand and will be held in my office for sixty days. Sixty days from date, July 18, 1891, city taxes will be delinquent.
