SUPPORT THE NEW BOATS.

A few days more and the relief that the people of this section have prayed for during so many years will be an accomplished fact. The river will be opened to Portland and freights will be reduced to a rate that will put thousands of dollars annually in the pockets of producers and consumers alike. The men who have put their money into The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Co.'s stock have not done so with the expectation of reaping any direct benefit from the investment. They will be perfectly satisfied if the traffic will secure them from direct loss, and they are more than entitled to this exemption. But this lies with the people; and every man, woman and child who has a dollar to invest in freight between this city and Portland ought to make a conscience of seeing that the new company gets it. If not—if by any adverse fortune or by the opposition of the Union Pacific company we should be reduced to the condition we have been in during the past, the people themselves, who would reap the benefit of the opposition, will be to blame. The farmers will undoubtedly stay with the new company, but they should mark every merchant or business man in this city or elsewhere who does not support it.

The story told of the parting of Secretaries Blaine and Rusk a few months ago, when the latter was about to leave with the president for California, is especially relevant now. The two men are warm personal friends. "Jere," said the secretary of state, "there is one thing I want to ask of you, and that is that you will take good care of my reciprocity." "Yes, certainly," was the apt reply; "I will do that all right. And now, there is one thing I want to ask of you—look after my hog." No treaty negotiated or negotiable under the reciprocity clause of the McKinley bill can compare in the importance of its bearing on American agriculture and trade to the removal of the invidious restrictions upon the importation of American swine meat. In establishing a system of inspection which had the effect to remove the restriction Secretary Rusk did more than the state department could possibly have done to enlarge the market for American products.

A democratic exchange, referring to a plank in the platform of the democratic party in Pennsylvania, intimates that the commandment "thou shalt not steal" was a plank in an old democratic platform, in the time of Moses.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

R. C. Templeton, a well-known resident of Umatilla county has been adjudged insane and sent to the insane asylum.

An unknown man was found dead up on the South Fork of the Nehalem above the falls. The body was found in the water in a badly decomposed condition, and there was nothing about him to identify him. He had pack straps on his back, and it is supposed that he was a prospector.

John Claypool has sold his land at the crossing of the O. P., survey on Deachutes to a capitalist of Philadelphia, who, it is said, is connected with the O. P. Co. When capitalists begin buying land along the proposed line of this road, it creates a hope that the road may yet be built.—Ochoco Review.

The first annual session of the Tillamook county fair, which was held at Tillamook last week, was a success. The farmers throughout the country lacked enterprise in not getting in a larger supply of farm products, and it was left to R. R. Hayes to carry off all the premiums for the best exhibit of vegetables.

Andrew McCalley, a well-known citizen of Walla Walla, died Tuesday morning after a short illness. He was born in Scotland in 1835 and in 1853 came to America, settling in Illinois. In 1859 he came to the Pacific Coast, settling in the Willamette valley, afterwards moving to the Walla Walla valley where he has lived for the past thirty years.

An old bachelor was rescued from a fire recently. He had been helped out of the smoking ruins of his lodging house with difficulty. The smell of smoke was yet on him when he heard a bystander remark that six cats and a canary bird had perished in the flames. "Then that fire was not wholly in vain," said the bachelor.

A German entered a Portland store yesterday morning, and after making a few purchases remarked that "it was fine weather we are having now." Yes, said the proprietor, but we had quite an earthquake last night. "Yes, yes, dot ish goot for the farmers," and departed.

The first stage ever arriving in Greenhorn City, the summit of Greenhorn mountain, 9000 feet above the level of the sea, was that which conveyed Messrs. Clarno, Stewart and Abrahams, of Portland, to Oregon's great silver camp the fore part of last week. Its arrival was an event of some importance to the miners of that section and was received by loud cheering and enthusiasm.

Uncle Tom Whitworth, a familiar person in the Echo neighborhood, had been to Pendleton "taking in the circus, and started to walk to his home on Sunday, a distance of twenty miles. Later in the day he was picked up by two men, lying by the roadside, near the Isaac place, about two miles from the railroad, his body a mass of wounds and bruises. Upon being taken to the hospital it was thought he might have been struck by an engine, but Uncle Tom stoutly maintained that he had been struck by two men. His condition is serious.

Bay State Republicans.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The republican state convention of Massachusetts have nominated for governor Charles H. Allen; for lieutenant governor, William H. Hale; for secretary of state, William Olin; for treasurer, George A. Mardin; for attorney-general, Albert E. Pillsbury; and for auditor, John W. Kimball. At the opening of the convention Chairman Henry Cabot Lodge, reviewing the history and traditions of the republican party, said in part:

The republican party stands as a bulwark against the movement for free coinage of silver without previous international agreement. Every man who believes in honest money and who is opposed to inflated currency must vote the republican ticket. If he does not he is giving direct support for principles which he abhors, and for business perils which he dreads. The republican party has kept its pledge about the tariff.

The speaker then referred to reciprocity and protection, coupled with the subsidies to American steamships, and in this he declared the party had kept its promise to develop commerce. Touching upon the expenditures of the last congress, he said: "If the democratic party is opposed to an increase in the expenditures for the efficiency and extension of the postal service, a great government service, which touches the commerce, happiness, business and homes of the people, let them say so." Reviewing the administration of President Harrison, the speaker drew a favorable comparison between its work and that of the one preceding it. He spoke of the work of the state department under Blaine in glowing terms. Continuing, he said:

We welcome honest immigrants, but the time has come to exclude the vicious and ignorant. To that work, now rising to the first place among the public questions, the republican party addresses itself. As a national party we present to the voters our works of the last two years as a pledge for the work we will do in the coming time, and on this ground we ask support.

DENIED BY POLK.

The Farmers' Alliance President's Action During the War.

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 16.—Col. L. Polk, president of the national farmers' alliance, makes a point in his address of denying the stories of his inhumanity to Union soldiers, and denies he never held rank above third lieutenant, and could therefore, never have been in authority at any post. Mr. McAllister, a veteran of that city, who was in Salisbury prison, N. C., when Polk was governor, holds a sick parole signed by L. L. Polk, brigadier-general commanding the post and gives the alliance leader the blackest reputation for his conduct to Union prisoners. A score or so of old soldiers got together today and perfected plans for applying tar and feathers to Polk before he should leave town tonight, but someone who had the news of the intention leaked out and the police took steps to prevent the projected assault.

He Cuts the Throat of his Paramour and Then Kills Himself.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—When Eugene Shire, who was incarcerated yesterday, for making a murderous assault upon his paramour, Maggie Dolan, secured his liberty, he went to 71 Morgan street, where he found the woman. Throwing his arm around her he pinned her to the wall, and whipping out a knife, he slashed her throat from ear to ear. Believing that he had killed her, he cut his own throat. The couple were removed to the hospital. Little hope is entertained of their recovery.

Oregon Pacific Matters.

CORVALLIS, Or., Sept. 16.—In the matter of the payment of the Oregon Pacific employees, Judge Pipes last evening made an order giving the receiver until October 20th to appear and show cause why he should not be removed from the office. The earnings in the meantime are to be applied to the operating expenses.

No More Continued.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Secretary Foster issued a circular this afternoon giving notice that no more bonds of the 4 1/2 per cent. loan would be received for continuance at two per cent. after the 30th. Bonds which have not been continued will be redeemed on presentation.

Brought to the Penitentiary.

SALEM, Sept. 16.—W. H. Hull was brought to the penitentiary today from Morrow county. He is to serve a term of ten years for manslaughter.

GENERAL PERSONAL MENTION.

W. W. Astor's income has been estimated at $23,000 daily.

Count Camilla Peat, of Rome, who is now staying in New York, is a nephew of Pope Leo.

Captain Hawley Smart, the English novelist, is an old soldier, and fought in the Crimea.

Dr. W. J. Rolfe, the authority on Shakespeare and Shakespearians, is making his ninth trip abroad.

Herbert Spencer, considerably improved in health, is once more hard at work on his philosophy in a little house in the edge of Sovereign forest.

Mr. Blaine's favorite light literature is said to be the novels of William Black and Clark Russell. Stevenson he finds to grotesque and Howells and James too uninteresting.

Bishop Leonard has so far modified his sentence against the Rev. Howard McQuary as to annul the clause ordering his deposition from the pulpit in case he does not retract the declarations which were found objectionable by the ecclesiastical court.

J. C. Heywood, a Harvard graduate of the degree of A. M., A. B. and LL.B., of the class of 1855, has been appointed by the pope one of his private chamberlains. Such an officer has an extensive power. He has charge of the papal revenues. Mr. Heywood has practiced law, and is a poet of merit.

A queer sight to be seen almost any day upon the streets of Danville, Ind., is that of Johnny Craig, the largest man in the world, wheeling along his six-months-old baby in an ordinary baby carriage. Craig now weighs 823 pounds, while young master Craig is not above the average six-months-old child.

The report that the Cranby Croft will again be crowded with the fashionable guests of the Wilson family is not at all surprising to people who know enough of England to understand that its location makes it a most desirable house to be invited to during the Doncaster week, when the St. Leger is to be run.

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Theodore Koerner, the German poet, will be celebrated on Sept. 23, and preparations are being made on a great scale. Few men did more than Koerner to advance the cause of German independence. He died the death of a hero on the field of battle when only 22 years old. His famous song, "Du Schwert an Meiner Lunken," remains one of the most popular compositions in German literature. Its lines have inspired many a young officer to deeds of glory.

The new French minister at Washington, M. Jules Patenotre, after having served three years in Sweden in a like capacity, was sent as minister to China and negotiated the treaty of peace signed at Tein Tsin June 9, 1885, which put an end to the Tonquin complication. When M. Constans succeeded him in 1887, M. Patenotre was sent to Morocco to represent France.

A Terrible Sentence.

From Pall Mall Gazette.

Little boys who are foolish enough to steal pears that are unripe, will do well to avoid orchards that are under the magisterial jurisdiction of the West London police court. Probably by this time George Webbing and John Sullivan have rubbed the day when they trespassed on the grounds of Mr. Richard Hyde, a Hammersmith solicitor, for the purpose of robbing the proprietor of his immature fruit; for instead of ordering them to be whipped, Mr. Partridge inflicted upon them the severe punishment of requiring each of the juvenile offenders to eat that which he had plucked. "I hope they will make your stomach ache," observed the magistrate, whereupon the boys demolished the stolen pears with a self-abnegation that was positively heroic. Whether the result justified the experiment time alone can show. Meanwhile the lads have been remanded to the workhouse.

It Didn't Work.

Dublin Times.

"Brown do you know why you are like a donkey?"
"Like a donkey?" echoed Brown, opening wide his eyes. "No I don't."
"Do you give it up?"
"I do."
"Because your better half is stubbornness itself."
"That's not bad. Ha! ha! I'll give that to my wife when I get home."
"Mrs. Brown," he asked, as he sat down to supper, "do you know why I am so much like a donkey?"
He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up.
She looked at him somewhat commiseratingly as she answered:
"I suppose because you were born so."
