GOING BACK TO THE SEA.

During the past year more interest has been taken in the development of our ocean carrying trade than there has been for the preceeding quarter of a century. For twenty-five years the nation has been devoting her energies to internal development. Her main railroad system is now built and the first hand to system is now built and the first hand to hand struggle for possession of the wilderness is ended. There is yet vast room for capital, labor and population to utilize our agricultural resources, but to utilize our agricultural resources, but the area of rapid speculative conquest is now ended. In these past years there beck back and it is announced that the pope will shortly appoint a coadjutor. marine from the high seas, and, while of age. His episcopal jubilee was cel-ebrated June 8, 1890. one and another of these reasons may have had some justification, it is enough to recognize the one maine fact that the United States abandoned the ocean freighting business at a time when internal development offered better remuneration to capital and labor. A marked change has lately taken place and there ally Hebraic, growing more so as he are unmistakable evidences of a strong are unmistakable evidences of a strong disposition to return to the sea. The new navy, the reciprocity treaties and the postal steamship subsidy act are among the official signs. The commer-cial signs are not less significant. The recent naval maneuvers on the Atlantic coast have proved beyond question that coast have proved beyond question that we can plan and build war vessels. The newest of our cruisers and the battleships under construction are confessedly the best of their respective classes in the world, the cruisers being the fastest vessels ever designed and the battle-ships being the most powerful. Under the stimulus of the ocean mail act new lines of steamers are being projected in almost every direction. Meanwhile it is possible that the return of the United States to the ocean carrying trade may be accomplished through the rapid quantities. adoption of a wholly new model of freighting craft which, itself, is wholly who had been a resident of Baker City the product of American genius.
