CASCADE LOCKS, Oct. 4, 1891.—[To THE EDITOR.]—Referring to your article entitled "Management of the Portage Road," allow me to state that neither the editor of The Dalles Chronicle nor any other person has received any communication from me denying the authorship of any articles. The statements have been made in detail, and I believe every ong of them to be true. Yours respectfully, TURNER F. LEAVENS.

Personally appeared before the undersigned, a justice of the peace in and for Falls precinct, Wasco county, state of Oregon, the above, Turner F. Leavens, who is personally known to me to be the identical person whose signature is ap-pended to the above-named article, and acknowledged to me that said signature was appended to said article for the uses and purposes therein set forth.

The Chronicle never pretended it had any communication from Turner F. Leavens denying the authorship of the articles referred to. The editor of the CHRONICLE visited the Cascades after and farmer from Antelope is stopping at the first letter appeared and found Mr. Leavens "off in Washington with a sur-Superintendent Shelly returned to veying party." Persons familiar with the city last night from an official visit Mr. Leavens' writing, his father into the schools in the southern part of cluded, gave it as their opinion that he never wrote the first letter. After The first county assessment roll for Leavens returned to the Cascades, Mr. the assessment of 1891 reached the office Farley informed the editor of the of the secretary of state Wednesday it Chronicle that both Turner's being that of Crook county.
