LOCAL BREVITIES.

Hon. H. H. Dufur is in the city. Mike Callaghan of Dufur is in the city. G. J. Farley came up from the Cascades last evening.

The new street mains are beginning to arrive on the Regulator. Mr. James F. Thompson is about to move with his family to Colfax.

B. F. Laughlin came up from Portland on the Regulator last night. A. C. Sanford left today for a trip to Sherman county, in the interest of the Millon Brothers.

State Senator Blackman, of Morrow county, passed through the city on the noon train today. Jacob Craft has rented his ranch near Nausene and will move into town to live during the coming winter.

John Doe again tried to paint the town red last night and was in consequence landed in the skookum house. J. R. Taylor a gentleman well and favorably known in this city, now of New Whatcom, Wash., is in the city.

Mrs. A. S. Macallister and her mother Mrs. Peasley left last night to join Mr. Macallister at Portland where they intend to remain during the coming winter.

Don't forget the band boys' ball tonight. All not provided with tickets can procure them from Stacey Shown at the entrance to the ball room. Ike Perry has fitted up a nice cloak room and will attend to the checks.

Mr. O. N. Depew, formerly in the employ of McFarland & French and lately with Mr. J. C. Baldwin, left with his family this morning for Portland, where they intend to reside in the future. The Chronicle is sorry to see Mr. Depew leave The Dalles where he has many warm friends who will always be glad to hear of his welfare.

The band boys will not soon forget the generosity of Mr. Frank, the milkman, from over the river, who generously bought three tickets for the ball tonight. Mr. Frank's milk will taste all the better for it and if any body, in the future, ever hints that he extracts any of the lactical fluid from the pump he had better not do it in the presence of a Dalles band-boy.

A man named Benjamin S. Yeager, shot himself in East Portland last Wednesday night. Yeager is a German about 50 years of age. He deliberately placed the muzzle of a rusty 44-caliber British ball-dog pistol in his mouth and fired it off. He died immediately. He is said to have been at one time an extensive contractor in Austin, Texas. It is supposed that his mental depression was due to the recent death of his wife.

Joe Burger's team ran away about the noon hour today. While driving south on Washington street the reach pole of his wagon became uncoupled and the horses started on a dead run for home dragging the two front wheels after them, to the imminent peril of pedestrians and a buggy or two that were on the street. They passed the Joles residence safely and were overhauled somewhere on the bluff without any material damage to anything.

A call at The Dalles Cigar factory today found Ulrich & Sons as busy as nallers. In answer to the question, "How is business?" Mr. Ulrich said, "We have all the business we can attend to. The merchants of The Dalles patronize liberally and we have not a thing to complain of."

A Chronicle Reporter Makes a Find. The other day as a CHRONICLE reporter was going his daily rounds with his hat pulled down over his eyes, trying to think of something that would make an item that would create a sensation and furnish an interesting topic for gossipers, a little piece of paper lying in a mud puddle caught his eye, and seeing the name of one of our most estimable young ladies thereon, he rolled up his pantaloons and waded out. On picking up the aforesaid paper he found it to be a letter which read as follows:

Wash., Aug. 26, '91. Miss _____, The Dalles, Oregon: FRIEND _____: Were you ever taken for a flock of geese? I was, this morning. At daybreak I went to the river and went in swimming. A Dutchman came along with a shotgun. He saw something moving in the water. "Geese! Bang! Duck!" I was the flock of geese, and came very near having to don my angel plumage and climbing the golden stair. Take warning from me. Never go in swimming when there is a wild-eyed Dutchman around with a double-barreled shotgun.

Truly yours, _____ From the above it would seem that the fellow who wrote the letter was afraid a false report that he was killed or seriously wounded might reach the CHRONICLE through the dispatches and fearing that such might be the cause of procuring her a room in the state insane asylum, accordingly wrote her this short letter which no doubt lifted a great load off her mind.

A Miserably Bad Road.

Complaints are constantly reaching this office from farmers south of The Dalles, about the condition of the road leading to this city. As the last word of the above sentence was written our old friend Tom Ryan entered our sanctum with his face covered with blood and wounds, and swelled almost beyond recognition. He had fallen from his wagon while coming into town with a load of grain. It is the same old story. One wheel tried to explore the fathomless depths of one of the innumerable chuck holes and Tom fell off. It's a wonder the old man didn't break his neck. A short time ago Henry Simons of Eight-Mile had a load of hay capsize from the same cause. He lived to tell the CHRONICLE man but his salvation was a miracle. It appears somebody must first slaughter himself on the altar of his county before the necessary repairs will be made. Who will be the victim?

The Dog Ordinance Will Be Enforced.

The marshal will certainly enforce the dog ordinance commencing next Monday. A dog pound has been improvised in the yard of the old court house and the cur that is unfortunate enough to get into it will cost its owner $1.50 to get him out, and then the said owner will have to get a dog license to boot, or—kill the dog. It is only fair to add that the council and not the police force is responsible for the enforcement of the dog and cow ordinances. The council lately passed an ordinance whereby the city gets all fines for impoundment, and not the officers. The latter will, in the future, simply get their monthly pay, whether they take up one dog or a thousand: but look out for your dog, for neither the marshal nor his assistant would know a "sooner" dog from a thoroughbred when it comes to putting him in the pound.

Advertised Letters.

- The following is the list of letters remaining in The Dalles postoffice uncalled for Saturday, Oct. 10, 1891. Persons calling for these letters will please give the date on which they were advertised: Barber, J. Bemthal, J. Brown, Clint Burnette, Mrs. Craig, Ket Evans, Lee Galley, Geo. Hagstrom, L. Liggett, Miss Lou Lyons, Mrs. D. Manow, Mrs. Jane Mason, T. W. Morag, Mrs. M. I. McPherson, C. Petterson, C. Steinmetz, Theo. Stephens, John A. (2) Thomas, B. Wilson, C. B. M. T. NOLAN, P. M.

The Ball Tonight.

And now comes Orion Kinersly and donates to the ball a gross of program pencils, which gift, though last, is not least of the kind donations that enable the band boys to hold their ball without a dollar of expense attached to it.

Found. Only a few days ago, but evidently saved from the big fire, a lady's brown outside wrap of imitation striped Astrachan, trimmed with grey plush, and a lady's manure case in the form of a hand satchel, outside purple velvet, and lined with blue satin. They can be found at this office.

They Must Be Supported.

A writer in the Goldendale Sentinel, who signs himself "Farmer" administers a stinging rebuke to some grangers and members of the alliance of Klickitat county who last year made so much ado about the high rates charged by the Union Pacific company, "crying for boats on the river and promising they would do this and that if only boats were put on," and yet haul their grain to Grants, where it must be transferred to the company they formerly so much detested. The writer goes on to urge the farmers and merchants of Klickitat county to even sacrifice something, if necessary, so as to maintain the new line of boats, lest they should, for lack of support, be compelled to withdraw and thus leave the people again at the mercy of the railroad company. This is exactly the way to look at the matter. The boats must be supported at all costs. They were built for the peoples' benefit and the people must maintain. Every man who buys a pound of sugar or a sack of salt in The Dalles today saves money through the fact that the Regulator is in existence. In point of fact the boat is receiving very flattering encouragement. She has had more freight than could be transferred at the portage by the little government engine that the management of the portage could hardly ever get when they wanted it, and when they did have the use of it would pull next to nothing. The patrons of the new line have borne this inconvenience with considerable patience and it is hoped that all further inconvenience and delay will be ended by next Monday by the furthest.
