LOCAL BREVITIES.

P. Ward of Kingsley was in town yesterday. J. A. Gulliford of Dufur was seen on the street today.

George T. Prather of Hood River came up on the noon train today. Mr. H. P. Snow of Sherar's bridge has been in the city for the last couple of days.

James R. Woodcock of Wamic is in the city attending to some land office matters. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelly went down to Portland yesterday evening to take in the exposition.

Mrs. George Baxter, Mrs. William McKinzie and Mr. George McKinzie of Antelope are at the Umatilla house. Mrs. A. Heppner has let the contract for the building of a neat dwelling house on her lot at the east end of fifth street.

Attorneys George Watkins and W. H. Wilson have returned from attending court at Wasco. It is expected that the court at that place will adjourn this afternoon.

Any one wanting to see samples of a fine line of new fashionable clothing ought to take a look at H. C. Nielsen's show windows. Mr. Nielsen believes he is able to show the best stock of gents clothing ever brought to this city.

Union services in the Court house Sunday, at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Preaching in a. m. by Rev. W. C. Curtis, pastor of the Congregational church, and in the evening by Dr. Harrington of the Methodist Advocate, Portland. Sunday School at 12:15. Christian Endeavor at 5:30 p. m.

Mr. I. C. Nickelsen returned on the Regulator last night from a ten day's trip to Portland, where he has been selecting and ordering a new stock of goods which he will open out in the brick store now occupied by Mays & Crowe just as soon as these gentlemen have moved into their new building, corner of Second and Federal.

Barney O'Neil and J. Hill of Grants and A. Spangler of Moro, have each been fined at the present session of the circuit court of Sherman county, in the sum of $300 and costs for selling liquor at retail, without license. Spangler is an old offender. Some time ago he tried the original package dodge and got jerked up for it. It is rather expensive to monkey with whiskey in Sherman county.

A bad accident occurred a few days ago on the grade leading from Wamic to Tygh Valley. A Grass Valley four-horse team, heavily laden with lumber from Lake & Woodcock's mill, was coming down the hill when something occurred that caused it to fall off the grade. The wagon was smashed to pieces and one of the horses seriously injured. The wreck was strewn on the hillside when our informant passed yesterday but the name of the owner of the team was not learned.

Major Ingalls Wants More Fruit and Flowers for the Portland Exposition. The Chronicle heartily seconds the efforts of Major Ingalls in his efforts to keep up the good appearance of our exhibit at the Portland Exposition till the close, by renewals of fruit and flowers and earnestly urges those who can do so to respond to his request in the following letter which is self explanatory.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 9, 1891.

Editor Chronicle: As the 1st premium has been awarded to Wasco county for the best exhibit of fruit at the exposition, and as there are nine days yet remaining of the exposition and the number of visitors in attendance will increase from the present until the close, the exhibit from Wasco county should be kept in good condition. Much of the fruit has to be thrown away daily because of decay. Will you please urge your readers and ask the good ladies of The Dalles and vicinity, to help me keep up the good name of Wasco county by urging all who have choice fruit to send in some on Monday and Tuesday next, also to send in some choice bouquets for the Wasco county table and one for the superintendent's office. The citizens of Portland will appreciate this effort I assure you.

I have worked for the past two months as well as I knew how, to further the interests of Wasco county and especially since this exposition has opened. Please ask your good citizens to support my present and last effort to show up some of your resources. This is the best medium of advertising your section that has been offered and I hope it will be improved, I am now an Oregonian no longer a "tourist," and I hope to see the editors of all The Dalles newspapers here before the close of this best exposition ever held in Portland. I would urge a large attendance of citizens at the exposition from your city and county the coming week, and thus compliment the successful management of Portland's best exposition and Superintendent R. W. Mitchell. Wasco's true friend.

G. W. INGALLS.

Composition on Animals.

The following composition was picked up on the Bake Oven road near Salt Springs, by our friend M. Geo. A. Young and handed us for publication. Whether it is the fruit of the budding genius of some Eastern Oregon cowboy or a servile copy of the latent talent of the effete east we cannot tell but here she is:

There are a great many kinds of animals; such as the rat-terrier, and the rhinoceros, and the coon, and the orang-outang, and the opossum, and the poll-parrot and a few others.

The dog is a very useful animal. He can play tricks and howl when anybody is going to die. The pig is a very interesting animal also. He is not so nice a house-keeper as some other folks, but he is very useful in the "buckwheat cake and sausage" season.

The locust is composed principally of a voice, the rest of him is not worth noticing. A rabbit is not so big as an elephant but he can run faster.

Why is an elephant like a summer boarder? because he takes his trunk with him. I made up that conundrum to put in this composition. A porcupine is a very curious animal. Judging from his appearance, I do not believe he would make a very comfortable bed-fellow. He appears to be too proud, that is, too much stuck up. A cat is a domestic animal. Our cat once got into a pan of dough and made a mess of it, and another got after her with a stick. This is why she is called a dough-mess-stick animal.

A mosquito is not so large as a man, but if there is a difference of opinion between them, and the man wants to sleep and the mosquito don't want him to, you may be sure the mosquito will come off victorious.

The zebra is a little horse, painted with black & white stripes. He is principally useful to put in the primer to illustrate the letter "Z."

Animals are very useful to the circus 'cause the minister & his wife, & the deacon and his wife, and their grown up relations can all go to take the baby to see the animals. The cow is an animal having four legs, one on each corner of her. She also has two horns, but she cannot make as much noise with them both as a small boy can at Christmas time with only one. This is the end of my composition.

A False Report Contradicted.

The incalculable injury that an irresponsible and vicious newspaper can do to its own town is well illustrated by a letter that we saw today which was sent from a large San Francisco firm of underwriters to an agent in this city. The letter says: "We understand that a proposition to bond your city for a reasonable amount of money for the express purpose of improving your water system was voted down. The sequel is the loss of more than ten times the amount of money that the enterprising citizens asked for." So far as the people of The Dalles are concerned this statement needs no contradiction, but for outsiders it may be said that it is utterly false. The city has been bonded for $125,000 to put in a complete gravity system that will give a pressure on the mains in the business part of the city of a hundred pounds to the square inch. The work is now nearly finished and when completed, we will have as good a water system for fire protection and as good a quality of water and a supply as abundant as can be found in any city of the same size in the state of Oregon.

Preparing for Winter.

The Union Pacific company has a number of laborers employed in repairing the road between The Dalles and the Cascade Locks. Bridges are being newly braced, new timbers put in, worn rails replaced and the roadbed receiving a general overhauling. The company intends to have the road in good condition before the winter sets in, thus reducing the possibility of accident to a minimum. It will require considerable work to put the road in first-class condition, but Superintendent Baxter proposes to rush it along as speedily as possible.

S. B. Medicine and Rain-making.

Phillip Knowles, the energetic agent of the S. B. Manufacturing company is in the city. He has just returned from a four month's trip through the towns of Washington and Idaho and reports the most flattering success in the sales of the S. B. medicines. The trip through Washington was the second he has made through that state and he found his former customers perfectly enthusiastic in the praises of the medicines. In the city of Spokane he gave away 6000 sample bottles and in Boise City, Idaho, happening to be there during the time of the Forepaugh circus he distributed 5000 bottles. While at Nampa City, Idaho, Mr. Knowles saw Rain Producer Melburn carrying out a contract he had made with the citizens to produce a given number of inches of rain to extend over a territory, of sixty miles in diameter. Mr. Knowles says this effort was a complete success. It was one day about six weeks ago when Melburn arrived in Nampa City. The citizens procured a ladder which was leaned up against the city bank. Melburn climbed it and pitched a small tent on the roof. Through the roof of the tent an ordinary stove pipe was projected and this is all that the public were permitted to see of Melburn's working machinery. When all was ready some black clouds hovered over the town which indicated rain, but Melburn refused to do anything till they had rolled away. When the sky became perfectly clear Melburn's brother announced to the crowd of onlookers that he was ready to bet $800 to $100 that it would rain within a certain number of hours. Bets were made freely on both sides, but the rain came in extent and quantity as Melburn had predicted.

Unadulterated Gall. "During the past season The Dalles, by reason of the heroic treatment administered to her business men in the columns of the Times-Mountaineer for the past nine years has aroused itself to action and has placed a boat on the middle and another on the lower river." -Times-Mountaineer.

As a specimen of pure unvarnished gall nothing was ever written by human pen to equal the above. The influence that our contemporary wielded in the matter of placing boats on the river may be estimated when it is said that he has scarcely a friend in the world that ever put a dollar into the scheme.

A Railroad Over the Barlow Pass. Two parties are now in the field doing preliminary work for the Portland & Sotherland road, which was recently incorporated at Portland. It is not known what route will be selected. It is reported that it will be built across the mountains to a connection with the Union Pacific at or near Huntington. It is also hinted that the company will ultimately connect with the Nevada, California and Oregon, which wants a northern connection. It is stated that the company will build first to Marquam, in Clackamas county, a distance of about thirty-five miles. From there it will go through a pass in the Cascade mountains near Eagle creek. The road will be a standard gauge, and its estimated cost will be between $18,000 and $20,000 a mile. It will be nearly 300 miles long.
