LOCAL BREVITIES.

D. D. Bolton of Boyd is in the city.
Patrick Dorris of Kingsley is in the city.
Dr. D. Siddall returned from Portland today.
Col. Houghton came up from Portland last night.
Agent J. C. Lucky of the Warm Spring reservation is in the city.
Mr. F. Faulkner was a passenger for The Dalles from Portland last night.
Mr. and Mrs. M. K. McLeod of Kingsley are registered at the Umatilla house.
The recorder has furnished his office at his own expense with a splendid new desk.
Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Farley came up on the noon passenger today from the Cascade Locks.
Masters Willie Crossen and Willie and Sherman Frank came up from Portland last night.
N. Harris commenced the auction sale of his entire stock of dry goods, clothing and etc., this morning at ten o'clock.
The steamer Baker landed for the first time, last Saturday at the portage incline, with one passenger. Up till then she used to land in the mud a little above.
Mr. W. E. Sylvester and daughter, Miss Annie, came up from Portland last night where they had been to attend the funeral of Mr. Sylvester's father, Mr. O. Sylvester.
We call the attention of our readers of the new ad. of the old firm of J. T. Peters & Co. This firm is prepared to meet any fair and honorable competition. Their office is on the north side of the railroad track corner of First and Jefferson.
Six young ninnards went down the river yesterday duck hunting but we are of the opinion that the ducks must have flown high or else the powder became wet and the guns wouldn't go off as they did not come back with a boat load. The boys, however, say they mortally wounded several mud-hens.
The handsomest and finest stock of dry goods in this city, by long odds, is that of H. Herbrings'. As everything is new and fresh and the most fashionable in the market, ladies wanting goods of this class will find it to their interest to call on him. He will meet any honorable competition in the matter of prices.
McFarland & French have filled their show window with sample lots of their goods marked down below any prices that ever prevailed in this city. Men's overalls are marked at 50 cents, Shaker socks $1.40 a dozen, all wool socks $1.25 a dozen, seamless cotton socks at 90 cents a dozen. There is a large heap of children's shoes, all sizes, at $1.25 a pair, ladies' scarlet underwear at 95 cents and ladies' fine gray wool underwear at 90 cents each.
"Facts are Chieftains That Winna Ding"
The wheat situation on the Washington side of the river is intensely interesting and exciting. Geo. Smith had the market all to himself till the general freight agent of the Union Pacific company came up to The Dalles and spent two days here closeted a good deal of the time with the Moody's. Then the order previously given to tie up the Baker was countermanded and any one with half sense knew something was going to happen. Then an effort was made to buy Smith's wheat at two or three cents a bushel more than he could get for it by shipping at the lower rates of the Regulator, not say by the Union Pacific. Smith refused to sell the wheat unless it should be shipped by the Regulator. The man who made the offer, J. H. Larsen says he was buying it for his brother, and Mr. Larsen is an honorable man, but the wheat was not taken on this condition notwithstanding that the rates of the Regulator are between four and five cents a bushel lower than the Union Pacific. Whether it was Mr. Larsen buying for himself or his brother in Portland or as many believe, and with good reason, Mr. Larsen was buying for Moody, it is all the same. The party at the back of the scheme was the Union Pacific and the intention was and is to cripple the Regulator. When Smith refused to sell the wheat unless it should be shipped by the Regulator, M. A. Moody immediately placed a pair of scales at the Washington side of the Rockland ferry, and there today he is buying wheat in opposition to George Smith and paying eighty-five cents a bushel for it. The price of such wheat in Portland is eighty-seven cents. It costs ten and two-fifths cents to ship it to Portland by the Union Pacific, who foots the bill? The Union Pacific, without a shadow of a doubt, and Moody is, as he has always been, the obsequious tool of the company. The only way Smith could bid, as he did today, eighty-four and one-fourth cents, is by an agreement with the Regulator company to carry the wheat for nothing. We have no authority for saying this; but anyone not a positive idiot must infer as much. Smith has no money to lose and Moody has none either. It is the interest of the Union Pacific to run the Regulator off the river. They are willing to lose money to do it and Moody is also willing to sell himself to the company for a little coin against the best interests of the city where he makes his bread and against the best interests of the country where he and his family made every dollar they own. This is the charge we make. Not that Mr. Moody, father or son, has not a right ordinarily to buy wheat anywhere or in competition with anybody, but the man who is so low down as to compete under the present circumstances—as the tool of the Union Pacific—is low enough for anything.

A Gobbler Sits On a Melon.
Mr. James Grier, who lives about five miles east of Dawson, has a turkey gobbler that is a curiosity. Mr. Grier's turkeys consisted of two hens and the gobbler. The hens made nests about seventy-five yards apart in Mr. Grier's melon patch, laid their nests full of eggs and went to setting. The gobbler got lonesome and concluded that the proper thing for him to do was to set also. He got an equal distance between the two turkey hens, squatted over a genuine watermelon and set six weeks before he was discovered. Mr. Grier thought his gobbler had been stolen, and was utterly astonished when he found him in the patch trying to hatch out young watermelons.—Enquirer-Sun.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

A Card.
We have heard some questions raised as to genuineness of our advertised sale. We have not been given to false representations in the past nor do we intend to commence now. We have decided to withdraw from business, and while regretting the necessity of throwing such a large amount of goods on the market, yet this was the only means we had of disposing of our stock. We can assure all our friends that this is a genuine clearance sale, and a call at our store with a careful examination of our prices will convince the most skeptical. 10-17-2f
