STATE OFFICIALS.

Governor, S. Pennoyer; Secretary of State, G. W. McBride; Treasurer, Phillip Metcalf; Supt. of Public Instruction, E. B. McElroy; Senators, J. N. Dolph, J. H. Mitchell, R. A. Levenson, J. A. Hervey; State Printer, Frank Baker.

COUNTY OFFICIALS.

County Judge, C. N. Thornbury; Sheriff, D. I. Cates; Clerk, J. R. Crossen; Treasurer, Geo. Ruch; Commissioners, W. A. Levenson, Frank Kincaid, John E. Barnett; Assessor, John E. Barnett; Surveyor, E. F. Sharp; Superintendent of Public Schools, Troy Shelby; Coroner, William Michell.

The Chronicle is the Only Paper in The Dalles that Receives the Associated Press Dispatches.

Senator Peffer says he will introduce a bill in the coming congress directing the secretary of the treasury to go into the markets and buy at current rates, from time to time, all the gold and silver that is offered and to pay for this in treasury notes. Then taking this gold and silver as a basis he would have the secretary issue $1.50, additional for each dollar's worth of bullion bought. This would at once increase our circulating medium at least a thousand million dollars and would remedy, the senator thinks, one of the great needs of the times. Such is Mr. Peffer's scheme for increasing the circulating medium, so far as he has revealed it; but it has one sad defect which the ingenious mind of the senator may yet supply. The senator has not yet formulated a plan by which his new dollars will find their way into the lonely recesses of the poor man's pocket without the said poor man's giving an equivalent in labor or commodities to have them placed there. This is the crowning defect of every financial scheme the present writer has ever known in a life time of over half a century. To have the circulating medium increased to a thousand dollars per capita is a matter of infinitely less concern to us than it is to know how we may acquire (honestly and honorably, of course) one solitary dollar without giving for it a suitable quid pro quo. Let the currency inflationists commit themselves to the solution of this problem first and then we shall have some valuable suggestions to offer as to the kind of dollars we want to find their way into our pockets.

The editor of the Times-Mountaineer offers to stake $50 that his paper is more extensively read than any paper published in Wasco or adjoining counties. As yet no one has taken him up.

The above is clipped from the Moro Observer and the CHRONICLE has this to say about it. The phrase "more extensively read" is buncombe, because it is not capable of proof. The CHRONICLE never gambles and has not $50 to spare, but it makes the following offer: It will pay $5 each to the building funds of the Baptist and Congregational churches of this city if it cannot prove by its books that it has more bona-fide weekly subscribers in Wasco and Sherman counties than the Times-Mountaineer, and that it has two subscribers for its daily edition for every one that the Times-Mountaineer has for its daily edition. The CHRONICLE will name a person to examine the subscription lists of both papers, and the Times-Mountaineer will name another, they to name a third and the respective editors of the two papers shall swear to the bona-fide character of the lists furnished. Now put up or shut up.

It occurs to us that the two gentlemen now canvassing the state for the World's Fair are somewhat handicapped by the fact that Portland, the largest city in the state, a city, by the way, that could put up all the money needed and never feel the loss of it, has not first set the example of a liberal subscription to this very laudable purpose. The moral effect of a generous subscription by the Portland people would undoubtedly have a good effect upon the rest of the state. Outsiders have no very exalted ideas of Portland liberality and until that city sets an example no great amount of enthusiasm will be displayed by the rest of the state.

The profit of good roads is at once realized. England and Wales maintain their system of roads for $4,000,000 a year. France maintains 190,000 miles of road at $18,000,000. At the rate of expenditures for highway purposes, in a single town of Westchester county where the roads are very bad the annual cost of maintaining 130,000 miles of common dirt road would be more than $70,000,000. This indicates sufficiently the public profit from good roads, while the profit of individual property owners is almost incalculable.

A movement is on foot to reorganize the prohibition party in Oregon. John Lloyd Thomas, secretary of the national prohibition committee, will deliver a number of lectures along the line of the Southern Pacific railroad to awaken interest in the prohibition movement. Mr. Thomas will speak in Eugene Wednesday evening, November 25th. A mass state convention will be held in Portland, December 2nd.

Social Life in London in Elizabeth's Time.

W. D. Howells in Harper's. In these narrow limits it is impossible to reproduce much of Elizabethan life. Here, however, are certain details: The ordering of the household was strict. Servants and apprentices were up at six in the summer and seven in the winter. No one, under any pretence, except that of illness, was to absent himself from morning and evening prayers; there was to be no striking, no profane language. Sunday was a clean-shirt day. Dinner was at eleven, supper at six. There was no public or private office which was not provided with a bible. In the better classes there was a general enthusiasm for learning of all kinds. The ladies, imitating the example of the queen, practiced embroidery, wrote beautifully, played curious instruments, learned how to sing in parts, dressed with as much magnificence as they could afford, danced the coranto and laolais as well as the simple hey, and studied languages—Latin, Greek, and Italian.

The Empire State Flyer.

"The largest engine ever built in the Schenectady Locomotive Works was completed on Monday. Its number is 893, and it has been constructed for the purpose of hauling the fastest train in the world—the Empire State Express—across the State—New York to Buffalo at speed about one mile per minute including stops. The drivers of the big fellow are six feet and a half in diameter, the biggest ever turned out of the shop. The drivers on the ordinary locomotives average about 5 feet ten inches. The engineer and fireman will be perched upon seats in the cab eight feet and a half from the rails. The boiler is what is known as the "wagon top," of spang steel one half inch in thickness, and its diameter is 58 inches. The boiler is logged with asbestos cement instead of wood, which is generally used. The fire-box is 96 3/16 inches long, 40 7/8 inches wide and 70 1/4 inches deep in front and 58 1/4 inches in the rear. The cylinders are 19 by 24 inches. The wheels of the tender will be 36 inches in diameter, and will be the same as are used in drawing-room cars. The engine alone, it is estimated, will weigh about 125,000 pounds, or 62 1/2 tons. Master-Mechanic Buchanan, has devised an aerial plow, to be attached to the engine of the State Express for the purpose of lessening the resistance of the air. The plows are to be of steel and V-shaped. They will be put on in front, and will extend from a few inches above the tracks to the top of the smokestacks, the sharp point fronting. It is believed that this device will relieve the engine of many hundred pounds of resistance.
