LOCAL BREVITIES.

John Cradlebaugh of the Hood River Glacier is in the city.

John Divers a well known farmer of the Hood River valley is in the city.

Dr. W. E. Rinehart returned yesterday afternoon from a professional trip to Anacortes.

Five or six inches of snow is reported at Dufur this morning with still more in the Tygh Ridge country.

German Lutheran services will be held in their chapel next Sunday at 10:30 and 7:30 p. m. All cordially invited. A. Horn, pastor.

The ladies of this city should not forget the two grand openings of holiday goods to take place this evening at the stores of W. E. Garretson and Snipes & Kinersly.

The new store room next door to the Columbia Packing company which is soon to be occupied by Paul Kreft and company is receiving its finishing touches.

Mrs. Lena Schulze and children, who have been visiting Mrs. Schulze's cousin, Mrs. J. J. Zimmerman for the past three weeks, returned to their home in Portland this morning.

The morning service of the Baptist church will be held at the academy building to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Sunday school follows the morning service. Union services at the court house in the evening.

Report has it that all gambling places in Portland are running in full blast again. What an ignominious death was that of the movement against the gambling houses a few weeks ago!—Portland Review.

Congregational church services to-morrow at 11 a. m. as usual. Sunday school at 12:15 and Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at 5:30 p. m. Union services at 7 p. m. with preaching by Rev. O. D. Taylor, pastor of the Baptist church.

Much attention is being given to the borax beds near Ellensburg. Although their location has been known for years, nothing was done toward their development until the past season. They may before long be a great source of revenue to that city of many resources.

Mrs. Dollie Dollison's Doll exhibition, which is to be before the public next Friday, December 11th, instead of December 18th, is something entirely new to The Dalles. Besides this wonderful exhibition there will be an excellent programme, which will be printed later on. The entertainment will be held in The Dalles new opera house, next door to Dunham's drug store.

Locomotive engine 440 was run over the end of the coal switch on the north side of the company coal sheds yesterday noon. One of the coal shovelers attempted to move the engine into a more convenient position when he pulled the throttle wide open with the above result. Little damage was done but it has taken a corps of men over since to get the engine back on the track.

The Same Old Game.

On the 16th of last month the Oregon

Furniture Manufacturing company shipped to James Nelson of Fairview, near this city, five packages of goods. They were addressed and billed via The D. P. and A. N. Co. After considerable anxiety and writing back and forth to Portland Mr. Nelson found last Thursday for the first time, that the goods had been stolen by the Union Pacific and shipped on the Baker. Here is what Mr. Nelson's son, who resides in Portland, has to say about the matter:

"The Union Pacific stole the shipment from the steamer Dalles City. The drayman seems to have been in 'caboots' with the company and took the shipment to the Union Pacific and they forwarded it although it was not on their shipping receipt form or ordered to be shipped by their line. The Oregon Furniture company is very much worked up about the matter and this snide piece of business may cost the Union Pacific a pile of money, through loss of their shipments. There are lots of other sore heads here besides."

The Result of a Spree.

From Mr. A. C. Sanford who has just returned from Sherman county we learn the following particulars of a singular death that took place near Grass Valley on the first of the present month. It was that of a man a little over middle age, named George Butler who came to Eastern Oregon from California about three months ago and was stopping at the residence of Frank French. Butler had been confined to his bed about a week before the end came. Previous to that he had been in The Dalles and had got on a spree. When he returned home he took to his bed, complaining at the same time of a feeling as if his right side was paralyzed. Afterwards he fell into a sleep that lasted about three days when he passed away with scarcely a struggle. In the absence of the opinion of a physician it is generally believed that Butler owes his death to the spree he got on while in this city.

Cyrus W. Field is a man who acquired fame without making a fuss about it. And, what is better than fame he became a benefactor to mankind. There is a touching pathos in the story which comes over the wires of the old man lying on his deathbed in his desolate home, helpless, wifeless, penniless. The son upon whom he leaned as the prop of his declining days has wrecked the fortune which the father accumulated, and is now the inmate of an insane asylum. The daughter, who could have been a comfort in this hour of desolation, is herself at the point of death. The faithful wife, who stood by his side in the half-century of their married life, was carried to the grave a few days ago. Rarely does affliction in such multiplied form come to a man. It is a pathetic illustration of the uncertainties and vicissitudes of this life.—Telegram.

A petition which has already reached the respectable size of thirty pages is being circulated in North Dakota, asking that about 150,000 acres in the northern part of the state be set apart by the government for a national park. The land which it is proposed to reserve is situated next the boundary, and is said to be one of the most beautiful natural parks in the country. Besides fine forests there are many small streams and lakes which it is desirable to preserve, for it is thought if the forests are destroyed the drouth conditions will be increased in the lands lying to the south.

The new 12 o'clock closing law went into effect Saturday night, and seemed to have been strictly enforced, or rather obeyed. It is not likely that any less liquor was drunk, and it is doubtful if there was any less manifestation of drunkenness or any less disturbance, vice or crime on the streets or in places where these things abound; yet it may be a good thing to find out that the people can carry out such a law if they choose to pass one.—Portland Telegram.

The alliance people may fret and fume at their pleasure. They are not as great folks in the political world as they were. They sang "farewell, goodbye, old party, goodbye," too soon. They have had their day, and the beard of Peffer, instead of the brains of Ingalls, is the only part of their record of moment.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Death took place at the last election, and, although considerable noise is made at the meeting by the side of the corpse, it cannot delay the interment. That must come off on schedule time or the remains will become an insufferable nuisance.—Nebraska State Journal.

"We are the people and we are the peoples' party," is the exultant shout of certain ambitious back-number politicians who have been pulling the wires down at Indianapolis. "But there are only a few of us left," they should add.—Minneapolis Tribune.

THE ALLIANCE.

The alliance would have flat money, and as a result it is likely to have fragments of an alliance, as shown at Indianapolis.—St. Paul Globe.

The farmers' alliance got its sub-treasury scheme in its declaration of principles, but there is nothing in it—not even delegates' expenses.—Washington Post.

The farmers' alliance will have about as much to do with the next presidential election as a revolution in Brazil has to do with the price of boarding-house coffee.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Favorite Remedy.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite during the winter months on account of its great success in the cure of colds. There is nothing that will loosen a severe cold so quickly, or as promptly relieve the lungs. Then it counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is pleasant and safe to take, and fully worthy of its popularity. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly, The Dalles, Or. d-w

For Sale At a Bargain.

The Mission Gardens, greenhouse, stock and fixtures. I am prepared to offer a rare bargain owing to a change in residence. For terms enquire at the premises or of A. N. Varney at the land office. 15tf. J. A. VARNEY.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

There is None Better.

Dr. R. L. St. John of Howland, Putnam county, Missouri, takes especial pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, because he knows it to be reliable. He has used it in his practice for several years, and says there is none better. It is especially valuable for colds and as a preventative and cure for croup. This most excellent medicine is for sale by Snipes & Kinersly, The Dalles, Or. d-w

Are Your Children Subject to Croup?

As a preventative and cure for croup, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no rival. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon, and that is pleasant and safe to take. There is not the least danger in giving it to children, as it contains no injurious substance. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by Snipes & Kinersly, druggists. d-w.

An Old Adage.

There is an old adage: "What every body says must be true." Henry Cook, of New Knoxville, Ohio, in a recent letter says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has taken well here. Everybody likes it on account of the immediate relief it gives." There is nothing like it to loosen and relieve a severe cold. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly, druggists. d-w
