A session of the circuit court was held this afternoon for the purpose of hearing arguments and motions on some unimportant cases still remaining on the docket.

Colonel Sinnot received today from Washington, by the frank of Senator Dolph, Uncle Jerry Rusk's treatise on the diseases of the horse. The joke of it is, the colonel never owned a horse in his life and never expects to own one.

The entertainment announced in these columns a few days ago to take place at the Fairfield school house on next Tuesday evening has been postponed to Thursday evening the 17th inst., as the business council of the patrons of husbandry will be in session in the neighborhood at the former date.

The new grange store, corner of Federal and Fourth streets is doing a fine trade. The manager E. N. Chandler informed a CHRONICLE representative today that the business during the past week was the best the store has known since it moved into its new quarters and he thought equal to the best week's trade the store has ever known.

Night watchman Con Howe arrested a tin horn last night—a stranger, whom he found prowling around the city seeking whom he might fecce. He has given his solemn promise to leave for Prineville in the morning. True enough, we have a number of tin-horns in The Dalles, but they are required to keep within bounds, and the climate is very unhealthy for outsiders.

A Free Ride on the Baker With Meals Thrown In.

Last week a gentleman of The Dalles who is employed at the Cascade Locks sent up word to his wife and two children in this city to join him at the locks on a trip to Portland. For economy's sake, it is to be presumed, the lady and her little family shipped on the Baker last Monday morning. When the boat came in sight on the state portage incline she was duly flagged but for some reason, unknown to our informant, she refused to land on the Oregon side. When the Baker arrived at her own wharf they offered to take the lady and her children across in a skiff but the lady promptly refused and demanded to be landed or have her fare returned, provided with dinner for three and be carried back to The Dalles. Dinner was duly served and when the boat started on her return trip they offered to land her on the Oregon side but it was now her turn to refuse as her husband was not in waiting on the wharf. So the lady was paid back her money, had a square meal for herself and children and a round trip ticket all for nothing; but she vows she will never sail on the Baker again.

* Served Him Exceedingly Right.

The same merchant whose store front was labeled last Sunday morning with the legend "This man ships his goods by the Baker" had a little experience since which if it did not teach a wholesome lesson, made him use some vigorous cuss words. He ordered from below ten sacks of sugar, to be shipped by the Baker, but it came by the cave. So instead of paying $1.50 the freight cost him $3.75. Served him exceedingly right. Now right here the CHRONICLE may just as well be plain as not. There is no remedy left for the people—nothing that can do, save let severely alone every merchant who turns traitor to the best interests of the people. When the merchants of this city are standing shoulder to shoulder loyally, as one man, with only one exception, in the support of the Regulator the CHRONICLE does not propose to be silent and allow that man or any other man to reap an advantage over the rest. If a merchant becomes a traitor to the people for the sake of saving 15 cents on a sack of sugar, let him keep his sugar. The people in that case ought not to buy it and we greatly mistake their temper if they will.

The Sheep Industry.

Everywhere the wool growers seem to be triumphant, and the desire to quit cattle and begin with sheep is becoming almost a craze. With the decline of cattle values in 1886 began an upward tendency in mutton and wool, which has resulted in a most wonderful prosperity among sheep owners. And this prosperity seems to be still on, says the Live Stock Journal.

As a result, thousands of farmers and ranchmen are converting their cattle holdings into cash with a view of embarking in sheep husbandry. Sheep raisers have made money all the time since the advance above named, but feeders have been compelled to work on a pretty close margin during the past year. The demand for feeders has been so strong that they sold very close to their ripened value.

The signs of the hour point to a change of position in the two callings within the next few years. With everybody running to sheep, the probability of a heavy surplus production in the near future is almost a certainty. A surplus means a decline, just as resulted from the overproduction of cattle.

Secretary Rusk does some plain talking in his annual report about the placing of hides on the free list by the McKinley tariff law. He says: "The large quantities of hides which are being shipped to the United States from foreign countries, and are admitted free of duty, have caused a great depreciation in the prices realized for hides of domestic production. This has had a very marked tendency toward keeping down the price of cattle, and has, consequently added to the burdens of our agricultural population." The secretary recommends that the president take advantage of the reciprocity clause of the McKinley law, which authorizes him to restore the old duty upon hides shipped from any country which shall not by the first of January, 1892, have granted equal concessions by the free admission of the agricultural products of the United States, to put the duty back upon hides shipped from those countries which have not entered into reciprocal agreements with us.

Portland's gross assessment this year rises to $65,000,000. That the enormity of Portland's wealth may be understood, let us figure. Portland has 68,000 people and according to the last assessment this amount divided among her population would give to each $1,000. Divided among the 60,000,000 people of the United States, each person would have one dollar. When it is considered that the average wealth of each person in this country is but eight dollars, it may readily be seen that Portland is a very great city in a point of wealth.—Welcome.

Teacher—If your mother had twenty-five yards of stuff, and made a dress requiring but eighteen yards, how much would she have left? Little Girl—Mamma can't make her own dresses. She has tried often, and they are always either too—Teacher—suppose she sent it to a dressmaker how much would the dressmaker send back? Little Girl—Depends on which dressmaker she sends it to. Some wouldn't send back any. Teacher (impatiently)—Suppose she sent it to an honest one? Little Girl—Some of the honestest ones cut things to waste, so that there is never anything left, no matter how much you send 'em.—Good News.

Why He Was Turned Out of Church.

A Georgia editor caused a sensation in church while they were singing a well-known hymn by bawling out in a spirit of absent-mindedness:
Let every kindred, every tribe,
On this terrestrial ball

And we'll receipt for all.

A Preventive for Croup.

We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. Even after a rough cough has appeared the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. It has never been known to fail. 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Snipes & Kinerly, druggists. daw
