LOCAL BREVITIES.

Walter H. Moore of Moro is in the city.
Dr. Hugh Logan returned today from Portland.
Perry Snodgrass of Wapinitia Flat is in the city.
Mr. Durphy, formerly of the North Dalles shoe factory, is in the city.
See E. Jacobsen & C.'s 'ad' in regard to a free dressing case and shaving set.
Wasco is going to have a hardware store—a long felt want in that thriving burg.
C. H. Cummins of Eight Mile gave the CHRONICLE office a pleasant call today.
A. F. Russel a former resident of The Dalles now of Tekoa, Washington is in the city.
The wife of H. Simons of Eight Mile presented him with a 10½ pound boy last week.
A. S. McAlister came up from Portland last night on a short visit to his old home.
The daily CHRONICLE will be delivered at your door for 12½ cents a week or 50 cents a month.
W. R. Menefee of Dufur came into town this morning to attend to business in the land office.
Isaac and George Joles returned home Saturday night from a two days hunt in Sherman county bringing with them 51 wild geese.
Mr. Richardson, water mason at the Cascades government works, passed through the city today on his way to his home in Utah Territory.
E. Husbands of Mosier, G. H. Trana of Cascade Locks, W. H. Pool of Wasco and John Malone of Antelope are registered at the Umatilla house.
Telephone connection is soon to be made between Wasco and Moro. The post holes are already dug for the poles which will be set as soon as they arrive.
Prosecuting Attorney W. H. Wilson went up to Rufus today on the noon passenger, and expects to return tonight. He got back at 4:30 this morning from Walla Walla whither he had gone last Saturday.
Leslie Butler calls attention to his new and complete line of crockery, glassware, lamps and lanterns of all kinds, silver plated knives, forks and spoons and many articles in this and other lines suitable for Christmas presents. Give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.
We are pleased to hear that the children of Hon. D. J. Cooper—seven of them—who have been ill with the measles are all in a fair way of getting well. The youngest, a child of eighteen months, was very ill on Saturday and Sunday but is much better this morning.
E. Jacobsen and company have on exhibition in one of their show windows an elegant gent's shaving set complete, in a scarlet silk plush case with adjustable french plate mirror on top and a magnificent and costly lady's complete dressing case with manicure set. It is the purpose of the firm to make an absolute present of these to their customers, on Christmas eve. Tickets for each will be given free to every lady and gentleman who may call for them.

We clip the following from the North Idaho Star of December 4: "Judge Jolly wedded the hearts and hands of two popular young people last Saturday. They were James Gollaty of this city and Miss Josie McCully, of Portland. They will reside in Moscow in the future, a fact the Star is pleased to note."

A party of prominent officials of the Union Pacific railroad stopped over about two hours yesterday in this city on their way to Portland. The party comprised General Superintendent McNeil, Assistant General Manager E. Dickerson, Superintendent Baxter, General Master Mechanic Joseph McConnell, Superintendent N. J. O'Brien and others.

B. F. Durfy, of the late Boston Shoe and Leather company of North Dalles, came up today armed with the authority of the law, as he alleges, to remove the machinery from the shoe factory and take it to Portland. As we write at 3 p. m. a dray and five or six men are on the other side of the river. The men, under Durfy's command have obtained entrance to the building and are boxing up the machinery previous to its removal to the Oregon side.

Honors to a Dalles Boy.

We clip the following from the Catholic Sentinel. It is the address of welcome delivered recently on the occasion of the visit of Archbishop Riordan, of San Francisco, to the Notre Dame, Indiana, University. Mr. N. J. Sinnott, son of Col. Sinnott, of this city had the honor of being selected from among between six hundred and seven hundred students to deliver the address:

Most Rev. ARCHBISHOP: This age is somewhat hypocritical, and it often happens that honeyed words, welcoming the coming and speeding the parting, are only on the lips and do not come from the true sentiments of an affectionate heart. Yes, 'tis true that the warm grasp of the hand and expressions of welcome are frequently mere formalities demanded by custom or conventional decorum. But it is needless for me to assure you, with all candor, that the warm greeting extended to you by the students of Notre Dame is by no means a mere perfunctory duty. A glance around you suffices to dispel any impression of that character. The countenances of all betoken the esteem, reverence and affection we have for him who but a few short years ago went forth from these walls blessed with Notre Dame's choicest gift, and who now returns clad in the purest insignia of a heavenly trust. It is but natural that we feel a just pride in Notre Dame's worthy son, the illustrious prelate destined to guide "westward the course of empire" of God's church to the very Golden Gate of the Pacific.

Most Reverend Archbishop, though two years have passed since you were among us, yet the remembrance of that visit remains indelibly fixed in our hearts; it is one of the sweet recollections associated with the pleasant memories of the past. Your advice and benedictions were replete with wisdom. Your kind and eloquent words gave us encouragement to overcome the ever-occurring obstacles of our university life. They aroused our ambition; they incited us to put forth our best endeavors to reach that goal which you have obtained—to be true Christian men and scholars, for we know that your career has been an unmistakable beacon for all. As a pastor you have well guarded the flock entrusted to your care. As a patriot you are ever solicitous for the principles of freedom.

But, perchance, these outspoken words, which have their source in deep esteem, already offend good taste, for to patient merit a recital of this nature is oftentimes displeasing. Therefore, Most Reverend Archbishop, mindful of your interest in our welfare and progress, mindful of your former words of encouragement, the students of your Alma Mater, with one accord, bid you a most sincere welcome, and beg leave to assure your grace that, though duty may call you far from us to your western home, and though we may be busied with the cares of our collegiate life, yet we shall ever treasure in our hearts the memory of your visits to Notre Dame, repeating the words of the immortal Virgil: "Hec olim meminisse juvabit."

BORN.

In this city, Sunday, December 13, 1891, to the wife of Mr. Will Johnston a twelve-pound boy.

A Preventive for Croup.
We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. Even after a rough cough has appeared the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. It has never been known to fail. 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Snipes & Kinerly, druggists. daw
