The Springfield sawmill will soon shut down for want of logs.

The recent high waters have damaged the new Albina bridge to the amount of $500.

A man was sandbagged and robbed in the city of La Grande last week for the small sum of $1.50.

About $20,000 of stock for the new cannery and ice factory at Corvallis has already been subscribed.

Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout, aspires to be put in charge of the Indian exhibit at the world's fair.

According to the official census returns of Lane county, the population has increased by 65 per cent. in the last ten years.

The Corvallis Foundry and Manufacturing company has just closed a contract with Slate Brothers for the manufacture of forty of their hay presses.

Malheur City, in Malheur county, supports four dry goods stores, all doing a good business and while the town is the center of an old mining district there is not a saloon in the place.

Wayman St. Clair, of Corvallis, and his entire family are just recovering from the effects of being poisoned. The cause is supposed to have been from eating cabbage sprinkled with paris green while growing.

At the Indian school at Chemawa, there are twenty-one boys and twenty-four girls on the sick list, the majority of whom suffer from la grippe. The only death during the recent spell of sickness was a Hoopa valley Indian, who died from pneumonia.

A machine has been invented and is in use in the east that cuts lumber without any waste. The new invention is called the Bradley draw cutting machine. It will cut thin boards and planks in different thicknesses, from one-thirty-second of an inch up. All kinds of wood have been cut by it with perfect success.

A convention of all democratic clubs or societies throughout the commonwealth of Oregon is announced to be held in the city of Portland on January 8th and 9th, 1892. The call for the convention is made by the Tamany society and young men's democratic league. The object of the convention is to organize the democratic party for the coming campaign.

A certificate is on file with the Portland health office that perhaps give the key to many deaths that occur in that city. John Sederquist, a Scandinavian aged 27 years, died. Dr. E. O. Svenson, who attended Sederquist, gave the cause of death as gastritis, following typhoid fever, which was contracted by drinking city water. Dr. Svenson could attribute no other cause of death, and stated the case frankly in his death certificate.

A surprise party was recently given J. R. Peterson and wife, on the Cowlitz, by a lot of his neighbors. Mrs. Oscar Oleson was one of the guests. She weighs about 330 pounds, and when she essayed a skirt dance, it truly was a surprise party. The floor was weak, Mrs. Oleson was heavy, and in the midst of a difficult figure the floor gave way and the fair dancer disappeared into the cellar along with the kitchen stove. She was quickly extracted from her perilous position by the men of the party by the aid of levers and ropes, and was found to be but little injured. The stove, fortunately, contained no fire, and did not fall upon her.

A touching instance of insect instinct, was related to us this week by one of our best friends. "I found a cockroach struggling in a bowl of water I took half a peanut shell or a boat. I put him into it, and gave him two wooden toothpicks for oars and aft him. The next morning I visited him, and he had a piece of white cotton bread on one of the toothpicks, and set the toothpick on end as a signal of distress. He had a hair on the other toothpick, and there that cockroach sat fishing. The cockroach exhausted, and fallen asleep. The sight melted me to tears. He is ever in the necessary, being thrown over him to conceal the pendant bags. The greatest care is taken of his health."

Pictureque Reformers. Butte Miner: "How to kill the lottery" is discussed learnedly and exhaustively in the New York Press, but that bright journal shoots wide of the mark. The way to kill lotteries is to stop buying tickets. Editors who write labored editorials on how to kill the lottery, while at the same time they have a ticket for the drawing in one pocket, the left hind foot of a rabbit in another and a rusty horseshoe over the door, are brilliant and picturesque reformers.

One Consolation. If it should prove true, as announced by Dr. Hamilton, the well-known Philadelphia physician, that the gripe will prevail in this country this winter in a serious and perhaps an epidemic form there is some consolation in the fact that another well-known physician, a resident of this city, announces that the best remedy for the disease is a warm bed and a hot toddy.—Louisville Times.

New York, rotten as she is, has yet among her vast population an element possessed of conscience and moral purpose which makes itself felt on occasion. Tweed died in jail, Jake Sharp was caged in a cell, and some of the aldermen whom he hoodled were sent to the penitentiary. Young Field embezzled enormous sums of money intrusted to him, and his family was able to exert sufficient influence to have him declared insane and be housed comfortably in an asylum. Yet in response to the demand of the healthy element that all thieves shall be equal before the law, this son of a multi-millionaire and nephew of a justice of the supreme court of the United States, has been indicted for his crimes, dragged out of his not dishonorable retreat, and will be tried like any other scoundrel. San Francisco takes off her hat to New York. We couldn't do such a thing as that here. The powers which rule us would not permit a gentleman of young Mr. Field's financial and social connections to come to harm, though he were to run smack on the streets with a cutlass in each hand. Boodle is king in San Francisco.—S. F. Examiner.

He Favored It. Seeker—Are you in favor of this man's suffrage movement? Sageman—Very much in favor of the movement, yes. The trouble is, however, they don't move it far enough. If they'd only settle it right where it'd fit a dot.
