A Sample of "Responsible" Journalism. The Wasco Sun of January 6, under the heading "An Unauthorized Statement," says:

An item is going the rounds of the press, originating in an irresponsible paper of this city that The Dalles board of trade is about to issue a circular letter urging the congressional delegation of Oregon, Washington and Idaho to procure an appropriation for the construction of a portage railway between this city and Celilo.

This is not a new "break" of the Sun. It is an incident in one continuous break that has been going on ever since the present editor took charge of that paper. What the editor expects to gain by such a course is beyond our ken.

The Board of Trade Letter.

Editor Chronicle:

My attention has been called to an item in the Wasco Sun under the heading "An Unauthorized Statement," relative to the issuing by the Board of Trade of a circular letter relative to congressional aid for the construction of a portage railroad from The Dalles to Celilo.

As to the statement that there is no such organization as The Dalles Board of Trade, I have to say that I have never heard that the Board had ceased to exist. It is not true that the portage question was ever settled by the Board of Trade, either for or against.

Old Comrades Meet After Separation of Twenty-one Years.

During Captain Lewis' late trip to Washington, finding himself delayed at Chicago, he bethought himself of visiting Libby prison, which, as the reader is doubtless aware, has been transported bodily, and placed on exhibition in that city.

A noble cattleman who lay dying lately in Shasta county called his many sons around his bed, and his last words were: "Keep yer eyes on the mavericks."

Charley Parrish met with an accident Christmas morning. While demurely performing the function of milkmaid on a milking stool it suddenly occurred to him that he had been struck by a freight train.

"How came I behind the bars?" he again asked. "The cow kicked you there, dear, but you don't know how to milk. Get up and hire a red-haired milkmaid!"

NORTHWEST NEWS.

The Prineville News assures its readers that the outlook for the early completion of the Oregon Pacific railway is now more hopeful than it has been in a long time.

The board of capital commissioners met at Salem on the 5th to open bids and consider plans for alterations in the assembly chamber so as to improve its acoustic properties.

As with One Voice.

"And now, children," remarked the Sunday school superintendent, as he brought his review of the lesson to a close, "if the boy who honors his father and his mother is to dwell long in the land, what may we conclude as to the boy who does not?"

In appearance the ordinary truffle is about the size of a walnut, with a rough, brown, warty surface, closely akin to the potato, which it likewise resembles in consistency, though not in color.

They Speak From Experience. "We know from experience in the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that it will prevent croup," says Messrs. Gaddy & Worley, Percy, Iowa.

Our readers will notice the advertisements in these columns for Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, Iowa. From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our children and we are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost and are recommending it every day.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The Old and the New.

"Of course it hurts but you must grin and bear it," is the old time consolation given to persons troubled with rheumatism. "If you will take the trouble to dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bine it on over the seat of pain your rheumatism will disappear," is the modern and much more satisfactory advice.

A Preventive for Croup.

We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start.
