LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

C. C. C. C.
Congregational church choir concert. Don't forget the concert Wednesday evening at the court house.

The price of admission to the concert Wednesday eve is fifty cents.

Mrs. Hammond of Albina is visiting relations and friends in The Dalles.

It will be a treat which nobody should fail to hear Miss Morgan at the C. C. C. C. Wednesday evening.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. desire to see all their friends at the reading room this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Lochhead desires to thank all those who kindly assisted in making the Mic-mac concert so successful.

For the benefit of those who cannot come early we have concluded to reserve seats without extra price at the C. C. C. C. Wednesday eve. For sale at Snipes & Kinerly's.

Come to the reading room this evening and enjoy the musical and literary programme, get a cup of coffee and leave your two bits with the ladies to help furnish the reading matter for the room for this year.

The Eastern Oregon pomological society will meet next Saturday at 1 o'clock p. m. at the old court house for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and transacting other important business.

The next term of circuit court in this county, will commence February 8th. Judge Bradshaw having cleared the docket at the last term, the coming one will be very short. The jurors have been drawn, and the sheriff will soon be after the lucky ones.

The case of the state vs. W. H. Spense was tried in the circuit court of Baker City last week. Spense was indicted for having employed a Dr. Meek to perform a criminal operation on a Mrs. Weaver, who used to live at Arlington and is not unknown in this city. The charge was fully proved and the jury were only out a few minutes when they agreed upon a verdict of guilty as charged.

The county court will hold an adjourned meeting this afternoon. Tonight the court will confer with as many of the taxpayers as may attend the meeting to be held in the county court room, on the question of making the county levy from the findings of the state board of equalization or from the returns of the county assessor. The county levy will be made tomorrow.

The Arlington Record is a regular visitor at this office. Typographically it is a clean, neat little paper as one would expect it to be under the supervision of Arthur Kennedy of this city, while its editorial and local columns are always full of bright, crisp, newsy items from the pen of its editor and proprietor John A. Brown. We hope it may live long and prosper.

Mr. Linus Hubbard called at the CHRONICLE office today and showed us samples of tin ore from Durango, Mexico, from the Etta mine, Harney Peak district, South Dakota, and from the San Jacinto mine, Temescal, California. All of these mines are now being worked to a greater or less extent and all have given assurances that they can be worked successfully.

The proceeds of the social at the reading room will go to purchase the magazines and papers for the room for this year.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Walker, both deaf mutes of this city, was found dead in the bed beside them yesterday morning.

NOT ALLOWED.
E D Calkins, claim for damages taken under advisement.

STATE OF OREGON, ) ss.
County of Wasco, )
I, J. B. Crossen, county clerk, hereby certify that the above and foregoing list of claims against said county, with the disposition thereof, is correct, and include all bills for which the salaries or fees are not fixed by statute.

J. B. CROSSEN, Clerk.
(seal) By G. P. MORGAN, Deputy.

"Boodle" in the Way.
Some state papers are calling attention to the large amounts received annually in fees by county clerks and sheriffs, and think they should be cut down. This is true, but it would be a difficult thing to do. Propose a bill of that sort in the legislature, and all the sheriffs and clerks of the state would at once raise a fuss and a lobby, and a majority of the legislature would be scared out of their intentions in short order. At least that is the usual history of all such attempts.—Dalles Observer.

Card of Thanks.
The Guild of St. Pauls Church extends sincere thanks to Mrs. W. H. Lochhead for the generous donations of $25.00 from the proceeds of the concert given by the Mic-Mac Glee Club, last Saturday evening.

NORTHWEST NEWS.

Eastern Oregonians of both parties expect to stand solid for the nomination of Eastern Oregon men. Ellis, on the republican side of the house, is the favorite, and will doubtless receive the nomination. The democrats are equally anxious to select a man from Eastern Oregon, and though several are mentioned as good material, no one has been considered sure of the nomination.—Heppner Gazette.

The press of this valley is directing attention to the county road question, which is neglected in all parts about alike. The county roads are owned by the public, used by it, and upon it is laid the duty of caring for them. As a rule, all over the land, the work of maintenance and repair is not done. Public money and time spent, without system or form of management is worse than wasted. The next legislature of this state could and should, deem it their duty to improve the road work system of our state.—Salem Journal.

Does Farming Pay?

Mr. Dan Cameron of Shuttler Flat called at this office last Monday, and says that his growing crop of wheat looks finer than ever before at this season. Mr. C. came here eight years ago and began work for Al Weatherford on his present home place, which was then almost entirely in a wild state. From his wages thus earned he purchased a small tract and began farming for himself in 1887. He was one of the first to have confidence in this soil and climate as a grain-producing region. From then he has to this date devoted his attention exclusively to grain raising, and this season marketed a crop of twenty-two thousand bushels. As a result of his continuous effort in farming bunch grass land Mr. C. has now nine hundred acres of deeded land all under fence and improved, with necessary farm out buildings, besides 25 head of good horses, thrasher, header, wagons and other necessary farm machinery. Add to this 400 acres of growing crop and a respectable bank account, and say whether farming pays in Gilliam county. Mr. Cameron has no land for sale.—Arlington Record.

OLIVE OIL OF TUSCANY.

Method of Securing the Best Grade of Oil That Comes from Over the Water.

"A salad must be salted by a wise man, receive vinegar from a miser and oil from a spendthrift." So says an Italian proverb, but first of all acquaint yourself with the character of the latter fluid or the consequences are more awful than human lips can describe. Those happy beings who have sojourned in Tuscany refuse oil in any country save that of its birth, and as it fell to my lot to be in that lovely province during the olive harvest, I made a point of finding out about the chief industry of the swarthy sons and daughters of Italy who make the fertile hills resound with their songs and laughter while they pluck and sort the fruit from the shapely trees.

Men and boys were perched on ladders amid the dark green leaves, and picturesque figures they made with their bright colored shirts and brilliant eyes. Each of these gatherers has strapped around his waist an odd wicker basket shaped like a crescent. This is called the "bugnolo," and receives all the perfect fruit its bearer plucks. It is about a foot deep, and admirably adapted for its special use, being light and not likely to impede the worker's movements. The fruit deposited in this is neither bruised nor crushed, one of the chief requirements for oil of the "first quality."

The work of the women and children consists of carefully picking up the olives dropped by the men from their lofty perches. This fruit, which is usually bruised in its tumble, is put aside for the "second quality."

The first olive is gold, the second silver, the third worth nothing, says the old proverb. Olives are a most delicate crop and require constant attention. The Tuscan looks down with proper contempt upon the south Italian for his carelessness and want of cleanliness in the oil preparation.

In Tuscany only the freshly picked fruit is used to make the first quality of oil. The second quality is made from the fallen berries, while the third quality, which is used only for lamps, comes from the olives blown down by the wind or knocked off by heavy rain or hail. From lying on the ground these olives acquire an earthy taste, and, as they are kept for some time before crushing, the oil has not that brilliancy of color which is so much prized.

There are countless varieties of olives. Enough fruit of the first quality having been gathered for the press, the crowd of pickers enter a huge vaulted apartment with a large stone basin in the center, in which the olives are all emptied. In this basin is a millstone about six feet in diameter, set up on end and revolving around a wooden column. An ox is harnessed to a pole projecting from the centerpiece, and as the beast paces around the basin a man follows and shovels the olives, soon reduced to greenish pulp. When sufficiently crushed two men bring in a hand barrow with long handles, on which lie the "gabbia," circular baskets with a hole through the middle of each.

These baskets look as if made of cocoa matting, but are of thick cord manufactured from rushes. As they are filled with the pulp they are carried to a press and heaped with great care one on top of the other. Many taps and pushes are given by the padrone to the pile of "gabbia," out of which great drops of yellow green oil already exude. A disk of new wood is then placed on the top of the oily mountain, and then begins the hard work.

The oil press, upon which the "gabbia" are placed, consists of an enormous beam through which goes the screw and is finished below by a square block of wood pierced with two holes supported by two massive posts. A pole is inserted into the block, and with many odd cries and exclamations the men turn the screw round and the oil comes gushing out on all sides, mixed with dirty looking water. Olives contain only one-third of oil and two of water.

The liquid runs into a conduit out around the press in the marble floor and disappears down a hole at one side covered with a wooden lid. When this is raised a small vat is exposed, and as the oil of course is floating on the top, it is delicately skimmed with a flat tin scoop hollowed in the center.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

The Cab Was Ready.

Small girl on showing younger brothers "Pilgrim's Progress" comes to a picture of Faithful at the stake, and, in the corner, chariot and horses are depicted. The little ones express their anxiety as to Faithful and the fate awaiting him. Small girl replies, "Oh, he's all right, they've sent a fly for him."—London Truth.

Sunday belongs to every one. That is, no unnecessary labor should be required on Sunday. This is pretty well understood in America and in some parts of Europe. Of late, the subject has had unusual attention in France, Germany and Spain.

A Testimonial from Sarah E. Walker.

To the Chronicle:
As my stay in the beautiful city of The Dalles was necessarily limited, I was unable to visit many of the places of interest that would have given me great pleasure to do so, but I feel it my duty to mention one special place of interest, John Booth's grocery, also to praise compressed yeast and quaker oats. Compressed yeast has been very instrumental in raising my beautiful complexion and quaker oats has developed my rich voice. If you would be "in it" take heed accordingly.

Yours for beauty and culture,
SARAH E. WALKER.

They Speak From Experience.

"We know from experience in the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that it will prevent croup," says Messrs. Gadberty & Worley, Percy, Iowa. They also add that the remedy has given great satisfaction in this vicinity, and that they believe it to be the best in the market for throat and lung diseases. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

As Staple as Coffee.

"Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is as staple as coffee in this vicinity. It has done an immense amount of good since its introduction here." A. M. NORDELL, Maple Ridge, Minn. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. daw

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

For the Children.

"In buying a cough medicine for children," says H. A. Walker, a prominent druggist of Ogden, Utah, "never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. I particularly recommend Chamberlain's because I have found it to be safe and reliable. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. dw

La Grippe!

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This Remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. daw
