The silver men have eight or ten petitions in circulation on the democratic side of the house urging that the silver bill be made a special continuing order, and they have secured about 100 signers. There are doubts entertained as to the unpleasant for intruders. - Chicago Tribexpediency of the * movement, *but the silver men mostly believe it may advance the consideration of the bill, and are doing what they can do to bring the matter to an issue early in the session. The anti-silver men are urging delay, shot out, but the dog dodged it and made and working to that end in the hope that there may be developements which will aid their cause and enable them to find some way out of the difficulty. The free-coinage men are in favor of speedy action, and say that on political grounds alone, aside from monetary principles, the sooner the issue is met the better. The rules committee has not yet taken in the temporary triumph of the dog. up the subject. The people's party in the house have joined with the free- dog catcher came back from ignomisicoinage people in demanding prompt ous flight a few minutes later, however, consideration of the Bland bill.

The democratic members of the ways and means committee held another conference vesterday on the Springer wool bill, but, like the previous conference ended without an agreement being reached. Members of the committee and away they took up a subscription, now in the city are nearly evenly disorded on the question as to whether or mal and provided him with a home. nor there should be a further reduction made in the duties than that proposed by the special committee. The arrival of Shively, of Indiana, is awaited. Members of the committee believe then a conclusion will be speedily arrived at, as the views of Whiting, the only other absent member, are known.

The Portland Telegram, commenting upon the statement that a portage road at The Dalles, on the Oregon side, "would benefit the town of The Dalles very significantly inquires: "Why would not a road on the Oregon side serve the country above, as well as on the Washington side? It is immaterial to the people above or below, which side of the river the road is built have finished dinner. on, but we do know that in all probability the state will have to do the work, salt.' and it can make no appropriation for work in Washington."

Following the announcements of Blaine and Stanford that that they will not be candidates for the presidency comes John Sherman who says "I have been bought and sold in convention til and I," when you say correctly "Sha I am sick of it. Senator Sherman's wrote to me."—City and Country. name has therefore been marked off the. list of presidential candidates. Next!

During a recent drouth in Maine there was such a scarcity of water, it is said, that one farmer was obliged to give his cattle cider to drink ... Guess they must keep a supply on hand larger than they have in Oregon, where a good, pure glass of cider is a luxury seldom found.

The Dispatch says we shall be "in it" next year. Farmers from all sections report the fall-sown grain and the grass in good condition. There are no signs of any being winter-killed, and the prospect for good crops will never be

An Old Fort Abandoned Fort Marcy, established at Santa Fe, N. M., when that territory came to the United States by conquest in 1846, has been abandoned. The fort marks a place where soldiers have been stationed, more or less continuously, for more than 300 years. Near to the fort is a cemetery, in which lie the bodies of more than 500 soldiers, some of whom fell in battle or yielded to disease or hardship. —Philadelphia Ledger.

The principal causes of death in one year in New York city were: Pneumonia, 5,817; consumption, 5,160; diarrhozal diseases, 3,585; Bright's disease, 2,503; heart disease, 2,387; violence, 1,957; bronchitis, 1,834; diphtheria, 1,863; scarlet fever, 1,221; influenza, 838.

During the Eighteenth century, to satisfy the demands of enthusiastic amateurs, a large business of counterfeiting antique intaglios and cameos was de-veloped. This was assisted by forging the signatures of classic artists.

The remarkable statement is made that there are 10,000 suicides a year in the Austrian army. Either the emperor's soldiers hold their lives very cheap or there are two ciphers too many in these figures.

There's an unrivaled exhibition of canine equestrianism to be seen on the streets of Chicago almost any day, which has fully as much or even more real merit about it than one will see in real merit about it than one will see in similar displays that are made in any of the "greatest shows on earth." The performer is an exceptionally intelligent water spaniel, and he is a rider of skill. His act consists, in a word, of riding a delivery wagon horse whose driver usually enforces a pell mell gait. The spaniel sits his mount with his hind feet on the horse's collectors. hind feet on the horse's collar, 'or where the collar would come, and his front feet, one ahead of the other, on the narrow ridge of the horse's neck, his claws clutched in the mane. The faster the horse goes the better the dog seems to like it, judging from his many barks and lively way in which he wags his tail. The sudden rounding of a corner never catches the plucky little animal off his guard, but at such times he will "curve in" with apparently the intelligence of the most accomplished circus rider, and so never loses his balance. He has fallen but once in the two years that his owner says he has been riding, and that was when the horse came near being killed by a cable car.

The horse never goes so well as when carrying the dog, and that of course means that horse and dog are warm friends. Woe to the person or animal who bothers either of them when the other is around, for between the kicking of the horse and the biting of the dog the two old chums make it exceedingly

The Clever Dog.

A large, healthy bulldog was sitting to-tally unaware of the dog catcher's wagon, which came rattling down the street at that moment. Suddenly the fatal lariat a bee line for the man who handled it. Then ensued an exciting chase, which was much enjoyed by the populace in the vicinity.

The dog catcher is never very popular with people in general. In this instance he succeeded in clambering into his wagon minus his coattails.

A skirmish then ensued, which ended who retired to repose on his laurels. The and human ingenuity soon triumphed over brute courage. The dog was lassoed and taken to the pound with other un-

But here the innate sense of justice in man steps in to even up things. Several admiring citizens had viewed the actions of the dog, and when he was cart-

Willing to Stop. Matron-Mr. Nicefello, I dislike to scold, but I really must. You ought to know better than to keep my daughter standing in that cold front hall half an hour, saying good night to her, as you did last night, and as you do every time you come. This morning she had a terrible cold, and her lungs are not strong.

Mr. Nicefello-My goodness! Is she

Matron-No, but she's had a narrow escape. Now these long drawn out good nights have got to stop.

Mr. Nicefello—Indeed they must, my dear madam. I'll go right out for a clergyman.—New York Weekly.

There is a great deal of truth in the remark made by the dean of St. Paul's in the Morley hall, Hackney, while dis-tributing prizes to students of Lady Holles' middle class school, that "education in these days is, to a great extent, superficial, a considerable portion of it being required merely for show and immediate appearances rather than for use-fulness in life." But, after all, this wail is nothing new. Did not the Earl of Chesterfield advise his son to devote himself to the acquisition of literary scrape which he could quote in company, and thus acquire the reputation of a well read man at a small expenditure of the midnight oil? And did not the late Lord Neaves express the spirit of the time in the query, "What's the use of knowing, unless others know you know it?"—Lon-don Telegraph.
