The Dalles has been a very quiet place the last few days, so far as people on the streets are concerned; but the number of mail orders for goods keep pace with lively times. Farmers are altogether too busy to come to the city this fine weather, and prefer to pay express charges on the necessaries of life.

Judge Bradshaw is putting in the time quite profitably at chambers, during the recess of the circuit court, in disposing of numerous suits in equity, some of which have been upon the calendar for years. The causes are not very interesting subjects to the general reader, hence reporters do not spend any considerable time loitering about the court house.

As work progresses in the publication of the new electionlaw voters will discovef that there is something more to do in Oregon this year, about election times, than merely walk to the polls, ballot in hand, as formerly. Fishermen and fish dealers should bear in mind that the law is now in full force and effect which prohibits the catching and selling of salmon between March 1 and April 10. Last year the commissioners did not enforce the law by making arrests, but merely advised all persons found fishing to desist. This eason the law will be carried out, and any person who violates it will be punished. This law is general in its application, and includes those who purchase, sell, or transport fish, as well as those who catch. ### A Terrible Mistake.

A celebrated German physician was once called upon to treat an aristocratic lady, the sole cause of whose complaint was high living and lack of exercise. Put it would never do to tell her so, so his medical advice ran thus:

Bert McMurty, the thirteen-year-old on of George G. McMurty, of the Apollo Iron and Steel company, is probably the youngest electrician in the country. The boy has made a study of electricity, and his father's residence is lighted by ap-pliances manufactured by the lad. He as a bever is a daily visitor in the battery room in digestion. Alleghany city hall, and does not retire until the doors are closed for the night. Recently he rigged up a burglar alarm and placed wires under the matting in the hallway. Mr. McMurty returned about 10 o'clock and was startled by peculiar noises in different parts of the house. He investigated, but could not find the cause. About 1 o'clock in the morning he awakened his boy, who disclosed the plot and was permitted to return to bed.

One cold day recently young McMurty put some water in the alley backing his home on Lincoln avenue, Alleghany making a toboggan slide. An ashman soon after attempted to go up the alley with his wagon, but failed in the attempt, and threatened to tell the boy's mother. The young fellow was pre-pared for him and promptly connected wires from his battery with the side doorknob and turned on fifteen volta. The servant, who was in the boy's confidence, opened the second story window and told the man to open the door and walk in. He tried to, but suffered a severe shock. He went to the front door, but the young electrician was ready for him and turned on fifty-two volts. This had the effect of throwing the man into the gutter. He drove away holding the lines in his left hand.—Pitts-

The British Navy Growing. During the year 1891 there were launched from the shipbuilding yards in the kingdom for the navy nineteen vessels of nearly 108,000 tons, the cost when completed being £5,854,587, while the year before the vessels launched were only 64,260 tons, and worth £3,250,-

000. The principal vessels have, of course, been launched from the royal dockyards, from which eight vessels of 68,100 tons were floated, as compared with eight vessels of 22,520 tons in the previous year. The vessels launched for the navy in 1891 include three immense battle ships of 14,150 tons, having twin engines to give them a speed of 171%

They will each have four 67-ton guns, which can easily penetrate twenty-two inches of armor. These ships cost £850,-000 each. There were also three first class cruisers of about 7,500 tons, to steam about twenty knots an hour. They will each have two 22-ton guns. These cruisers will cost £370,000 each. The other vessels were small, high speed cruisers, each costing about £180,000. They will travel twenty knots an hour, and are made to keep at sea for long periods on foreign stations.—Mechanical World.
