LOCAL BREVITIES.

Attorney E. B. Dufur returned from the consolidated city today.

Mr. Stewart, of the late firm of Abrams & Stewart, is in the city. Mr. Hugh Glenn will be taking in the metropolis tomorrow on matters of busi Allen Grant one of the leading sheep men of the Antelope country came into town today. F. H. Button and M. E. Welch of

visited the city last night as the guests of Mrs. Gilgard. Very confiderable growling is being done by taxpayers over the amount of their county taxes this year. Chas. F. Stephens is engaged today opening up and marking a new stock of dry goods at the old Solomon stand.

Mr. and Mr. William Holder of Grass valley were in the city last night and left for home today on the noon train.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Mc-Kinley club last night it was resolved to invite the other republican clubs of the county to a joint mreting to be held in this city on Saturday evening, the 12th

The Regulator last night brought up 40 passengers, about 60 tons of freight, and five head of horses. This morning she took down 250 head of sheep, ten tons of Dalles flour, a lot of miscellaneous freight, and several passengers.

The State Insurance company of Salem has forwarded to Frank Connelly, their local agent at this place, a check for $510, being the full amount of his claim, under the policy, by the late burning of Mr. Woodcock's residence at

French and company have rented the brick store room between McFarland & French and Farley & Frank's stores to Louis Rorden & Co. It is now being fitted up with new front, skylight and other improvements and is expected to be ready for occupancy in about six veeks. The hills surrounding this city begin to look very inviting-to sheep and other kine which love the grass to graze. To us of The Dalles it is becoming monotonous. "Fine day this," has been the salutation all winter, and now that spring is here, without the semblance of lingering in the lap of winter, the greeting continues with dull uniformity.

The fog factory, just above Crate's point, was in full force today, at an early hour, and sent out a bank of the Columbia to the summit of the Klickitat hills, in one continuous sheet; but by 7:30 a. m., old Sol had so warmed the works that the factory suddenly shut down, and the product vanished into the

"An ass in corsets," is what the Seattle Post-Intelligencer coarsely calls Miss Francis Willard. This is brutal and beneath the dignity of a great paper like the Post-Intelligencer. As the Astorian says, Miss Willard is one of America's noblest women, with a great brain and a loving heart, and because she allows her heart to rule her brain, and lets zeal outweigh judgment, she should not be subjected to such merciless criticism. Besides its an even bet that she doesn't wear corsets. Come now.

How to Set Out Strowberry Plants. March 2, 1892.

Editor Chronicle:

As it is the time of year that many. people set out new strawberry buds, a few words concerning the modus operandi may not be altogether out of place.

First as to the implement doing the work. Take an old ax and put a ten or twelve inch handle into it from the reverse side and you are ready. Now having reached the end of the row and gotten down on one knee, you strike the old ax into the ground at about the spot where you should wish your first Times. plant to take up its future residence. Now pick up your plant by the top, something after the manner in which you might lift a young rabbit by the ears, slip the roots through the other hand so as to leave them spread out fanshaped, remove your ax and you have a cut just the right shape and size to receive the roots, drop them in and a second cut with the ax, near the first one presses the dirt tight to the roots all the way down, and another slight lick with the ax fills the second cut and the work is done. The plants should be kept wet in order that the roots may spread out nicely and remain so, when you strip them through your hand, and they should be dropped ahead of the one that is setting them. I can set more plants per day by this method and do it better than in any other way I have ever tried Nebulous.

CONVERSATION A LOST ART.

People Nowadays Appear to Meet to Do Almost Everything but Talk.

When any number of persons wish to combine for social purposes nowadays they form a club. The club, however, is by no means a social organization. The pretext is some sort of mind culture. an arena for the discussion of some subject. Shakespeare's plays, Browning. Dante, the stage, indicate the simpler range of topics. Or if nothing better offers, the members set up a man of straw and have shies at him, a sort of intellectual game of Aunt Sallie.

The town is honeycombed with such clubs. They are superseding dancing and the natural diversions of the young and conversation and cards of the more mature. The common pleasure in meeting one another in good clothes and off duty no longer exists. Nor have the so-cial affiliations that used to be found in the church and in the mission school

It is a curious development, and is naturally in a more vigorous state among people from other parts of the country who have come here to live, and must find excuses for social organization outside those that exist in older and allied communities of people. An inherent craving to know and to commune about Plato or Renaissance art will furnish a pretext for social advances that no one can possibly mistake for bumptiousness or any undue social aspiration. When a sufficient number of persons with a kindred thirst is discovered its satisfaction takes place at intervals in one another's drawing rooms. This climbing of staircases, ascent of elevators, familiarity with one another's surroundings and subsequent wafers and cups of tea after the main business is concluded. furnish as solid and as quickly riveted bonds as are welded by society in any of its older forms.

The regret is that conversation the politest, the most spiritual, evanescent, the most agreeable of all arts, has no greater chance in the mind culture clubs than elsewhere. Where discussion and information flourish the flame of conversation flickers and goes out. Perhaps the speaker must rise to speak, or there is a moderator or president who clings to the main issue, or with great indiscretion allows each person three minutes, watch in hand, perhaps, to say nothing. Or there may be a thirty minute paper on "The influence of Russian Thought on the Accumulations of Wealth," which settles down over the assembled intellects like a pall and calls for maids with tea to the rescue.

Conversation has long since been driven from more fashionable gayeties where wit. wisdom and repartee are cut off at some vital, blood letting point by the hostess' signal to listen to the song or story of the professional entertainer. and where the guests think themselves happy if they are not forced into serried ranks of camp chairs. Conversation is no longer permitted except at the dinner table, and then the amateur or profes sional story teller is apt to have the first fork, and seems only to precede the jester yet to be found behind his mis tress' chair

Regret, however, is only a faint sigh for the snows of last year. The wise person does not quarrel with what is but accepts it as the outcome of circumstances, or the result of tendencies too wide reaching or too deep for us to grasp If we are all under the pressure of mind culture it is doubtless for some good end, and if everywhere the more familiar wagging of our tongues is checked there are passages of scripture that will arise in explanation and consolation to the silent member. - New York Evening Sun. Gifts of Very Poor Children.

The children in the free kindergarten in West Fifty-fourth street received an fieecy whiteness stretching across the object lesson in charity on Thanksgiving day. Most of these children are of poor parentage, some of them even destitute. A day or two before Thanksgiving day their teachers talked to them in a kindly way about the real purpose and spirit of the day. They had nurtured the idea that it was a feast day, and that they ought to have a nice dinner in the school. The teachers told them that they could best manifest their thankfulness for the blessings they enjoyed by contributing some little gift to make others, poorer than themselves, happy.
There was no urging that the children should give, but merely the suggestion.
On Thanksgiving day an autumn festival was held at the free kindergarten, and one of its most interesting and beautiful features was the offering of gifts for the poor by these poor children. They marched in procession around a large table and deposited their little

One very small boy brought a big red apple, another a small paper of candy, still another a much worn picture book, and a fourth laid a set of jackstones on the table. But it was the offering of a poorly clad and pale faced little girl that touched the hearts of the observers most keenly. She modestly placed upon the table a single sprig of geranium, which had doubtless been plucked from a carefully nurtured home plant. There were other more pretentions and valuable gifts, and all were gathered up and distributed among the poor patients in the various city hospitals.-New York

The Alligator Played 'Possum. An alligator that played 'possum came near doing damage to some young men near Millen Monday. Van Tyler, of this place, together with Messrs. Apple-white and DeLoach, of Millen, had been out to the river hunting. They had killed a 'gator about seven feet long, and him to the town. Van, who was sitting near the middle of the wagon, began to triumph over his fallen enemy by contemptuously kicking him in the side. Then a thing happened that was done so quick the boys can't explain it. There was a rush, a snap, a yell, and Van went out the wagon head foremost, and leaving as a souvenir a part of his pants hanging on the 'gator's teeth. The other boys woke up to the importance of hasty action, but DeLoach took a little too much time in getting ready for an old fashioned head foremost dive into a sand bed, hence he struck the ground minus a shoe heel, which his 'gatorship gratefully swal-lowed and slyly 'wunk' his eye as if he enjoyed a lively time himself. The boys rallied from their stampede, and advancing with guns put an end to their foe. - Waynesboro (Ga.) True Citi-

Seal and Carp. A 700 pound seal was captured alive off Fort Point the other day, and was purchased by the Spring Valley Water company and placed in their Lake Mer-ced reservoir. The company already have thirteen seals that are useful in destroying the carp that abound there in such numbers as frequently to fill the outlet pipe. The big seal will be a great help in reducing the number of fish in the reservoir.-San Francisco Call.

A tobacco dealer in New Haven, whose trade in the main is with the Yale boys, says that the sale of cigarettes is falling off. Three years ago he sold 860,000 packages of one brand; last year he sold 200,000 packages of all brands. He now sells fifty pipes where he formerly sold Neuralgia Cured in 15 Minutes. Mr. J. S. Sturtevant, editor of the Waupaca (Wis.) Post, says: "Last night Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured my wife of neuralgia of the face and tooth in fifteen minutes. We would not be without it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Messrs. Cage and Sherman, of Alexander, Texas, write us regarding a re-markable cure of rheumatism there as follows: "The wife of Mr. Wm. Pruitt, the Postmaster here had been bed-ridden with rheumatism for several years. She could get nothing to do her any good, We sold her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and she was completely cured by its use. We refer any one to her to vertify this statement." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.

" I have just recovered from a second "I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equaly as bad as the first have been equaly as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being struck with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting down."
