LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

C. P. Balch the popular Dufur druggist is in the city.

Sheriff Leslie of Sherman county, is at the Umatilla house.

The wife and children of Mr. N. B. Whyers left yesterday evening for a trip to California.

John Filloon & company have just received a car load of plows from the factory in Wisconsin.

School Superintendent Troy Shelley left today on a business trip to Hood River and the Cascade Locks.

Auctioneer Crossen will sell a fine lot of bar-room fixtures tomorrow. See the advertisement in another column.

The pleasant face of Dr. Siddal is again to be seen on our streets. The Doctor returned from a trip to Portland last night.

J. B. Ashby of Antelope, went down this morning on the Regulator with a number of fine horses which he will offer for sale in Portland.

James Stewart, of Monkland, Frank Brown, of Grants, C. C. Brophy, of Antelope and John Bolton, of Dufur, are registered at the Umatilla house.

Do not forget the free lecture at the Court house tonight, at 8 o'clock. The World's W. C. T. U. Convention, by State President Mrs. Annie G. Riggs.

The regular meeting of The Dalles Young Men's McKinley Club, will be held in the hall over THE CHRONICLE building, tomorrow evening at the usual hour.

John R. Markley of Corvallis, and R. R. Hayes, chief clerk of the house of representatives of the Oregon legislature of 1891, gave THE CHRONICLE a pleasant call today.

A correspondent of the Goldendale Sentinel, writing from Blockhouse, thus describes the effect of the late earthquake shock at that place: "The whole community was awakened by the rocking of Mother Earth, at 3 o'clock a. m., on the 29th inst. Some twenty minutes afterward there was a rumbling noise, but not so severe as the first. Jack jumped up and shouted 'Who's there!' thinking someone was overturning his scales and the bottles on the shelves. The sensation in the sleeping department of Kayser's was like the rolling of a boat."

The advertisement of Young & Kuss, blacksmiths has been moved to a new column and placed next to the heading "professional." You see a baby-girl was born to the senior head of the firm this morning.

Peter Staak, well known among everybody as a barber and among the upper ten as a tonsorial artist, has rented the barber shop in the Skibbe hotel and will turn it into a tonsorial parlor in about ten days.

From Mr. F. C. Sexton of Dufur, who is one of the committee of five, appointed by the late mass meeting held at Wamie, to locate the new grade up Tygh hill, we learn that the committee have agreed upon what is known as the "Kelly route." We understand that the first half mile of this grade is eighteen inches to the rod and the remainder is seventeen inches. So far as the CHRONICLE is concerned it has no pet scheme in relation to this matter. All it desires is a route that will be satisfactory to the people most directly interested.

BORN.

In this city, March 4, 1892 to the wife of Mr. William Young, a daughter.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.

"I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.' 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Breakfast Should Be Hearty Meal.

Our food is taken at the wrong time and too hastily. The morning is the time for our principal meal, not the evening. Some years ago, during the session of our annual conference, I was the guest of a physician. He one day remarked to me, "You will live to be 100 years old if no accident befalls you." "Why do you think so?" I asked. "Because I notice that your principal meal is your breakfast." This is true. I rise from my night's repose hungry, and it is the only time in the day when I have that sensation. "But," the reader will say, "I have no appetite in the morning." I will tell you why.

You rise in the morning, quickly dress yourself, drop down at the table, swallow in haste a cup of coffee, hurriedly eat a hot roll, seize your hat and rush to the cars or your place of business, drive through your morning work, run into a restaurant, swallow something that an alligator would find it difficult to digest, go back to your study, counting room or mart of trade, where you are driven by the press and perplexities of business or study until 5 o'clock, when you hasten home faint and exhausted and sit down to your 6 o'clock dinner.

The same habit of hurry clings to you at the meal, and you bolt a mass of hot meats and the usual eat ceteras and go to bed and toss and turn and wrestle with horrid shapes. Your digestive organs are in no condition to receive that mass of matter, the business, the planning, the brain work of the day has driven the blood to the brain and lungs, thus checking the flow of the gastric dissolves, and now all night, instead of quiet rest, nature has been at work to remove that half digested mass of material from the stomach. Do you wonder that you have no appetite in the morning? Now, the stomach, as well as other organs, calls for seasons of rest and recuperation or it will fail in its functional duties. Would you have length of days? Change all this.—Christian Advocate.

Misunderstood.

Shortly after the attempt to blow up Russell Sage, a well dressed man, with his hat tilted back on his ruffled hair and an excited look in his eyes, entered a New York art store and stalked up to the counter, behind which several clerks were standing. The man slapped his hand imperatively on the counter. "I want a quarter 'v' a million," he cried, "and I want it quick!" The clerks turned pale and stared at the stranger. A porter slid quietly to the door to get a policeman. The well dressed but excited stranger stared at the clerks in astonishment. "What the dickens is the matter with you fellows, anyhow?" he cried. "Can't I get a quarter 'v' a million without all of you having fits?" "Pray, sir, don't get excited," said a clerk, patting the man on the arm. "the porter has just gone after it. We can't get so much money in a second, you know."

The stranger looked thoughtful a moment, then laughed, and the laugh gave the clerks another unpleasant shock. "Ha! ha!" said the stranger; "I see, I see. Don't get alarmed. I merely want paint—paint, not cash. A quart of vermilion paint." The clerks recovered their self possession. "I beg your pardon," said one, "but you talked so fast that it sounded as if you had demanded a quarter of a million. We thought you meant dollars."—New York Sun.

To Prevent Counterfeiting.

It is curious to observe at this day the complicated geometrical patterns in which some of the ancient Roman seals are designed, unmistakably for the purpose of defeating the ingenious counterfeiter, as the engravers at the bureau of engraving and printing try by similar means to multiply the forger's difficulties. The usefulness of this art is shown by the fact that the coins of the civilized world are cameos multiplied to any extent by dies.—Jewelers' Weekly.
