HERMANN ENDORSED.

The CHRONICLE heartily believes that it would be nothing less than a calamity and loss to the whole state of Oregon it the office seekers and their strikers should be successful, and Binger Hermann should not be re-elected to the position he has so long filled, with honor to himself and advantage to the whole state. No candidate has been yet named way to be compared with him. We therefore most sincerely endorse the following extract, from a strictly private letter, written to a gentleman of this city, by one who has the best possible opportunities of knowing the work and worth of our representative at the National capitol. While we, east of the mountains, have no longer any direct voice in the election of a representative have an abiding interest in the election of any officer who may represent the state at the National capitol, and our only regret is that we are deprived of an opportunity of showing, by our votes, how, sincerely we appreciate the services of one who has served us in the past so faithfully and well.

you upon this subject, at less or greater river country. length, heretofore, but the time appears propitious to a re-assertion of a few ideas entertained by your humble servant upon one phase of congressional representation. It is the right of many and the duty of but few to seek distinction in candidacy for public place. As a rule the office should seek the man although we must not be too severe upon any ary of the states, which makes one tier from the people when nominating conventions are doling out the honors.

In certain persons are found faculties desirable in an executive, others are endowed with qualification for administramind." legal Occasionally worse The translation of representative Mc Kenna, of California, to the ranks of the judiciary leaves Mr. Hermann, in length of service (in the house), senior member from the Pacific coast states. That distinction is not to be under valued, or regarded as unimportant. His position in this congress, as fixed but the prestige of five consecutive re-elections, will endow him with greater potency for the benefit of our state hereafter. In the ...$6 00 organization of the fifty-third congress our present representative, if returned, will have gained a position of great advantage. Two years ago an Astoria paper published-the following, or a similar, sentence : "Hermann can get anything he wants in Washington." When the record of this session of congress is completed you need not be surprised to learn that this same man has secured Oregon's fair proportion of appropriations, even under the niggardly conditions of Holman's drastic application of economics. Yours truly,

The cheapest tax dodge scheme on record is that of a churchman in Lincoln county, Maine, who has organized a bogus religious and charitable society, has made himself treasurer, and has turned all his personal property over to the treasury of this non taxable corporation. He defies the assessors and they don't see how they can get at him.

The friends of W. R. Ellis, says the Heppner Gazette, consider his chances for nomination much brighter now than ever before. There is one thing sure, he to succeed Mr. Hermann who is in any is the choice of the Eastern Oregon republicans, if the majority may be allowed to select. The western part of the district will, without doubt, endorse the selection of Eastern Oregon.

Arlington will shortly invite members of town councils, boards of trade, etc., from the counties of Merrow, Sherman, Klickitat and Gilman to confer with them to organize a district board of from the first congressional district we trade for the purpose of inducing immigration and to bring about, as soon as possible, an "open river."

one appears equipped with all the essentials of a legislator.

Of the numbers who seek and gain congressional honors comparatively few are entitled to be rated successful, men of mark; for there is, perhaps, no such place as a legislative body to test a man's capacity and ability. The number of short lived (one term) representatives and senators is legion, and this not only because the people refuse to return them; but, in very many instances, the once coveted distinction has proved a sad disappointment. Behind the glamour of the honors there is a world of constant care, anxiety and unrequited toil. It seems to me that the fortunate representative of the people, like the poet, is born, not made.

I have no time to rehearse, in detail, what I deem necessary qualifications for a member of congress, but it is my belief that Binger Hermann is gifted with many of them. During the years he has served his district; bounded only by the limits of the state; he has proved a taithful, fearless representative of the welfare of Oregon. "Nor have his serservices been wanting in the advancehis consideration and treatment of national questions has also been marked by broad and liberal views." He is a fluent speaker and, whenever he desires, can command the respectful attention of the house. He is, however, not frequently conspicuous upon the floor, but in committee is an acknowledged power, because of his vigorous and untiring industry.

Originally possessed of many qualifications essential to a successful career at Washington, years of education and experience have developed those natural abilities and he has become thoroughly versed in all honorable methods of dealing with public men and measures.

The people of his district cannot do better, by themselves, than return him as his own successor. It would be a serious mistake on the part of his constituency should they consent to relegate him to private life, or impair his usefulness, by preferring him to any other place of honor, so long as he consents to represent them at the National capitol. Change may be useful or unavoidable; but, in itself, or of itself, it simply results in a change which may be for the
