KERKHAM.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

Hon. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, was in town today.

C. E. Jones, of Moro, is at the Umatilla House.

The Regulator brought up seventy-five tons of general freight last night.

J. H. Menefee, proprietor of the Dufur meat market, was in town today.

Chas. Levin a prominent sheep man from the Antelope country, is in the city.

County Commissioner Frank Kincaid came into town, to attend county court, last evening.

George Krouse has let the contract for a new dwelling to be built on the old brewery site corner of Court and Fifth streets.

Mr. P. Fagan, sole agent for Wannaker & Brown, today addresses himself to gentlemen. Call and see his stock of samples.

The Cascade Locks has a very rous and earnest republican club of nearly fifty members. Dr. J. H. Leavens our esteemed county commissioner is president.

Mrs. A. Jones, of The Dalles Restaurant, Union street, is suffering from an attack of la grippe. Mr. Jones, who has business interests on Puget Sound, is present in the city during the illness of his wife.

A meeting of The Dalles branch of the Carpenter's Union is called for Saturday evening next at 8 o'clock. All charter members are requested to attend. The meeting will be held in the hall over A. A. Brown's grocery store, on Second street.

Mr. Charles Palmer and Jacob Wise-carver, capitalists of McMinnville, arrived by last night's train, and intend to remain in the city several days. Both are invalids, and seek The Dalles' pure climate as an aid to the recovery of their health.

"The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone; the constant gnaw of Tow masticates the toughest bone; the constant wooing of a lover carries off the blushing maid, and the constant advertiser is the one who gets the trade."

Publication of the Australian ballot law in THE CHRONICLE was completed yesterday. On Saturday we shall commence the publication of the Primary law, which is just, at this time, of more importance than the ballot law to the voting population. Preserve both of them, you will want them for future reference.

Photographer Hunt has some splendid pictures of the Regulator and the scenery around the cascades taken from negatives obtained on the excursion to the Locks last Sunday.

Judge Thornbury reports that Schenck & Bell intend to place a handsome upholstered divan under their new awning on second street near the CHRONICLE office. How nice that will be for Dr. Logan.

John Booth has just received something entirely new in the line of fine candies. They are not imported from France, but from Omaha, and are therefore a native product. They are labeled "Butter Cups", "Boston Drops", "Dew Drops", "Quintessence Drops", "Sun Drops", and "Boston Wafers". For quality and flavor they are believed to exceed anything produced on the American continent.

From the Agricultural College.

CORVALLIS, OR., March 8, 1892.

Editor Dalles Chronicle:

We are enjoying just lovely weather. The Benton county hill are looking quite green and Lina county peach trees are blooming.

The Y. M. C. A. of the O. A. C. is now a well organized society; the members of which conduct a prayer meeting every evening half past six, and have a weekly meeting for Bible study.

In giving the number of delegates from each college who attended the Salem convention I didn't mention the fact that the Agricultural college sent twenty-two.

The Monmouth Brass Band gave us a pleasant entertainment a few evenings since.

Since the boys from the state normal went home, our boys have been working with a will; fixing up the ball ground and getting the Athletic association more thoroughly organized.

Capt. Warren intends to make this the best military school in the state. He enforces obedience and compels observance of the College rules.

The Y. M. C. A. boys talk of making use of the river by organizing a rowing club.

The Christian church is making preparations to erect a building in the spring that will cost $2,500.

This evening I had the pleasure of seeing the editor the School Journal, with his coat off, and a carpenter's apron on, (which contained two pockets, each of nail) with a hatchet that has seen better days, trying to repair an old yard fence, which was grown up with trees and briars.

Danger in Decayed Teeth.

If the teeth are allowed to decay until the attention required will permit of no further delay, and it is then desired to preserve them for further usefulness, much that could have been avoided by early care must now be submitted to, the time occupied in the dental chair is greatly lengthened, more of the natural tooth is sacrificed (to be replaced by artificial material) and increased pain and discomfort usually attend the operation, while not the least weighty among other considerations is the additional expense incurred.

Neglected teeth are not only unsightly and offensive to others, but frequently occasion painful nerve complications, distressing neuralgias, secondarily injure the eyesight, induce deafness, while cases of resulting insanity are well authenticated. Then the effluvia arising from decaying teeth is not only unendurable, but the air taken into the delicate lung structure (over 20,000 respirations each twenty-four hours) is affected by it, and in time surely has a deleterious effect on health.

Arguments for and Against Suffrage.

Once a year in Massachusetts women have the opportunity to take part in a very limited way in the ordering of public affairs by voting, if they choose to do so, for members of the school committee in their respective towns or cities. Once a year, with equal regularity, the legislature is asked to extend this privilege by giving women the right either to vote for all elective local or municipal officers or to take part in general elections with the same powers as men.

The extent to which the women avail themselves of the limited privilege which they now have is often made the basis of argument for or against an extension of the suffrage; while, on the other hand, the advocates of full suffrage for women claim it as a right founded on the broadest principles of natural justice and not to be impaired by any considerations of our artificial society.

The Australian Ballot Law.

FAIRVIEW, OR., March 9, 1892.

Editor Chronicle: You will do a favor for the writer, and a great many others, if you will, through the columns of your paper, answer the following questions in reference to section 31 of the Australian ballot law: The writer, and many others, claim that it is a bold and treacherous step, closely allied with disfranchisement, by prohibiting any organization or political party from nominating and electing the men of their choice, unless they had polled three per cent. of the whole vote cast at the last state election.

It seems as though the bosses would like to compel, by law, the honest tollers and tax payers of this state to march up and swallow the dose, and thank the gods it was no more. No sir.

Mr. D. and R., we are our own physicians, prescribe our own medicines, compound our pellets and fire the same with our own guns, and deem section 31 unconstitutional; and, if so, it were better that the framers had a mill-stone around their necks and cast themselves in the sea. Please answer the writers questions and oblige. Yours, R. F. W.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of R. F. Gibbons in The Dalles, until noon of Monday next, March 14th, 1892, for the construction of a foundation and chimney of the new Congregational church, to be built in this city, according to the plans and specifications to be seen at the office of Crandall & Burget, 165 Second street. Right to reject any or all bids reserved.

Dated March 8th, 1892.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Messrs. Cage and Sherman, of Alexander, Texas, write us regarding a remarkable cure of rheumatism there as follows: "The wife of Mr. Wm. Pruitt, the Postmaster here had been bed-ridden for rheumatism for several years. She could get nothing to do her any good. We sold her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain
