The sheriff has borrowed a couple of voting booths and intends setting them up in the county court room where an opportunity will be given to voters to learn how to vote under the new law.

Deputy Sheriff Phirman says the democrats intend to practice on the new voting machine till they are able to knock out the republicans on the first round.

As to the so called "booths" they are about as shabby looking things as one can well imagine, but they'll do.

They have discovered a ghost over in Tacoma that washes the dishes. Now there is some style about a ghost like that.

Hon. F. P. Mays came up on the noon passenger today.

Mrs. Judge Watkins left yesterday morning for a visit to her parents at High Prairie, Klickitat county.

See the new ad today of C. F. Stephens, who has recently opened a fine stock of goods, at the old stand of MacEachern & McLeod.

The Chronicle was pleased to see again on the streets today, and looking as well as could be expected, Mr. Groat, who lost his right hand last Sunday by the accidental discharge of a gun.

A banner was stretched across the street today from the Chronicle building to the A. M. Williams building bearing the legend, "Headquarters of the Young Men's McKinley Club."

Wm. Butler & Co., have just received a large shipment of burned lime. Parties who are about to build should call upon this firm as they deal in all kinds of builder's material. See ad today.

Coroner Michell received today a telegram from a U. P. official at Cascade Locks stating that a man had been severely injured at the 55 mile post and requesting the county authorities to attend to his wants on his arrival by the mid-day passenger.

When the man arrived he was conveyed to a room in the Umatilla house where his injuries were attended to by Drs. Hugh Logan and O. D. Doane. From the best information that could be obtained the man's name is James Woods, by occupation a laborer aged about 35 years.

He was run into this morning by the west bound passenger, at a place about two miles east of the Cascade Locks. After the injury he was picked up and taken to the Cascades and then sent here on the next passenger. The injuries appear to be chiefly about the head. He has the use of his legs and arms but, whether internally, it is impossible to tell at this writing.

DIED. In this city this morning, after an illness of several weeks, F. Dehm aged about 57 years. The funeral will take place from the residence of the deceased on Monday next at 2 p. m.

Eating Manners in 1350. In a description of a dinner in 1350 there is no mention of the fork, and it is not certain that there was a knife for each person.

The guests were placed in couples as far as possible, on the ground of their being mutually agreeable, which was the more necessary, as in certain cases the porringer—a bowl with ears for the soup—had to serve two persons.

If a person preferred not to use his spoon, or if one had not been supplied him, he drank his soup from the porringer held by one of the ears. Those present at the table put their hands into the common dish to take such pieces of meat as they preferred, though it was not expected they would explore the mass too thoroughly.

This will pass for a description of the way a meal was eaten in an aristocratic family in Europe 150 years before America was discovered by Columbus.

This elegance of appointment and manners was not found lower down in the social scale. In families of less wealth hands were not always washed before eating, napkins were not supplied, and not only were meats taken with the fingers from the common dish, but the soup was placed upon the table in a large vessel into which every one dipped his spoon and conveyed the liquid to his mouth.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Venom of the Cobra. A vivid notion of the intensity of a cobra's venom is given by the experience of Dr. Francis T. Buckland. He put a rat into a cage with a snake of that species, and it was killed after a plucky fight.

Upon examining the skin of the dead rat immediately afterward he found two very minute punctures, like small needle holes, where the fangs of the cobra had entered. The flesh seemed already to have actually mortified in the neighborhood of the wound.

Anxious to find out if the skin was affected, Dr. Buckland scraped away the hair from it with his finger nail.

Then he threw the rat away and started homeward. He had not walked 100 yards before, all of a sudden, he felt as if somebody had come behind him and struck him a severe blow on the head and neck.

At the same time he experienced a most acute pain and sense of oppression about the chest. He knew instantly that he was poisoned, and so lost no time in seeking an apothecary shop, where he was doctored with brandy and ammonia. He came very near dying. Undoubtedly a small quantity of venom had made its way into his system through a little cut beneath his nail, where it had been separated slightly from the flesh in the process of cleaning the nail with a penknife a little time before.—Washington Post.

How a Morocco Town Received Its Name. One of the best known towns in Morocco derives its name from a curious circumstance. The place is Tetuan, which has about 20,000 inhabitants, and is noted for its manufacture of a large variety of Moroccan wares.

Centuries ago the inhabitants were in deadly fear of the wild Berber tribes, who inhabited the Er Rif mountains. They kept a watchman upon a lofty minaret, and whenever he saw indications of approaching danger he cried at the top of his voice, to arouse all the inhabitants, "Tee-Tagnet-Tet-Taguen!"

(Open your eyes! Open your eyes!) In course of time the settlement was renamed, and it derived its new appellation from this warning cry.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

An Irrevocable Oath. When a new member was initiated into the Westphalian vehmgericht and swore to keep the secrets of the society from wife and child, father and mother, sister and brother, from fire and sword, from the things warmed by the sun or nourished by the rain, he did so with the thumb and two fingers of his right hand upon the cross hilt of a sword.

An oath so taken was held to be irrevocable and not to be annulled by even the pope himself.—Chambers' Journal.

Interested in Natural History. Little Dot—My kitty is real mean. I gave her some of my medicine and she wouldn't touch it.

Mamma—Why did you wish her to take it?

Little Dot—I wanted to see how a cat looked when she made a face.—Good News.

La Grippe Successfully Treated. "I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being struck with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting down." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Fifth Street Grade. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE Common Council of Dalles City is about to proceed to establish by Ordinance the grade upon the following named street in said Dalles City, to-wit: On Fifth street from the west side of Union street to the east side of Washington st. The grade of said street will be fixed with reference to the supposed stage of low water in the Columbia river, which is fixed at a point 22.31 feet below the top of the hydrant at the southwest corner of First and Washington streets, in said Dalles City, which point upon the Columbia river is designated as the initial point from which the elevations hereinafter stated are made. The squares made by the crossing of streets with said street, shall be of the following elevations above the datum plane, or low water level of the Columbia river, hereinafter fixed. At the intersection of Fifth and Union streets, 78 feet. At the intersection of Fifth and Court streets 73.5 feet. At the intersection of Fifth and Washington streets 78 feet. The grades of the aforesaid street from square to square shall be uniform and equal. By order of the Common Council. FRANK McNEEVE, Recorder of Dalles City. Dated this 4th day of March, 1892. 2-24-114
