The CHRONICLE has received a letter from Kingsley containing a small sum of money, but without the writer's name. Will the writer please forward his name that we may know what disposition to make of the cash.

Dr. Parkhurst, a Presbyterian divine, lately arose to glorify Jay Gould who donated $10,000 to the Doctors' church, says the Klamath Star. The holy man is now sitting down wofully smeared by the sarcasm of the press, while Jay looks several glitters less glorious than he did before. Such is life in this wicked world! Glory flickers around and will not be thrown upon everybody like a flowery vest, but smear goes straight to the mark, and sticks where it hite!

Mr. H. P. Ernst who has resided in The Dalles for the past two years left yesterday morning for his old home in Mendon, Mich. On Monday evening the Congregational choir (of which Mr. Ernst was the basso profoundo) met at the residence of J. M. Patterson to have a parting song. About 9 o'clock, to the surprise of the basso, about 20 of his friends filed in to take a hand in the parting. After speding a very pleasant evening and presenting Mr. E. with a The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Nav. Co. beatuful oil painting of "Cape Horn on the Columbia," in appreciation of his choir services, the company dispersed feeling that they had performed a very pleasant duty.

To Lovely for Anything.

Much of the beauty, if not the chivalry, of The Dalles was gathered at the fashionable milinery store of Mrs. C. L. Phillips last night to view the fine display of new spring styles just received at that popular ladies resort. The reporter was too bashful to obtrude where there was not a single person of the male persuasion to lend variety to that part of the scene, but he was permitted to peep through the half open dooronly that and nothing more-as his bet-Departs 4:30 A. Wall, proprietor of the Eight friend of Mrs. Stevens is in the employ of Nelson in Cheyenne, and suggested to him one evening that he knew of a woman who would make him an excellent wife. Nelson agreed, if the fair creature should prove acceptable and could be won, to marry her. He imme-diately wrote to Mrs. Stevens, setting forth that he was the owner of a large and paying ranch, was well off in the world and wanted some one to share his lot and help eat his potatoes. The lady was not averse to embarking in the > character she would accept. She was fully satisfied on these points and they immediately considered themselves engaged. Business interests pre-vented Nelson leaving home long enough to come to Lincoln and he did not wish to be so ungallant as to compel his be-trothed to go to him, so they compro-mised and agreed to meet at Grand Island. Mrs. Stevens left for Grand Island, where the couple met for the first time. Both considered that they had secured a bargain and were made one at once. Collecting Back Dues.

The charming blond who presides at the registered letter window of the post office threw up her dainty hands with surprise a few days ago when a gentle-man walked up to the window, and upturning a big grip dumped its contents before her. There were 470 letters to be registered. Such a task had never before fallen to her lot. Her appeal for help brought the chief of the division, berlain's Pain Balm and she was complete the chief of three shape of three states and the same of three states are the same and the same of three states are used by its use. We refer any assistants for her, and the pile was soon disposed of. The man stood by until the receipts were given him.

"The fact is," he explained, "I am sec-retary of a fashionable club, and it's the most difficult matter in the world to make them pay up. 1 send hundreds of bills, and when 1 speak to members about it it's always the same story: 'I never got the bill, old fel; certainly I'll pay up. Just send me a bill and I'll see that you get it.' There are 470 delinquents in the club and I'll be sure they

From the Atlantic and Pacific railroad it is not hard to reach one of the greatest of natural curiosities-the petrified forest of Arizona. Much the neares point is the little station of Billings, but there are the scantiest accommodations for the traveler. Only a mile south of the track at that point one may see a low, dark ridge, marked by a single cottonwood tree. Walking thither, over a valley so alive with jack rabbits that there is some excuse for the cowboy declaration "that can walk clear across on their backs," one soon reaches the northern goods store. edge of the forest, which covers hundreds of square miles. Unless you are more hardened to wonderful sights than I am you will almost fancy yourself in some enchanted spot.
