LOCAL BREVITIES.

J. O. Mack left last night for a trip to Portland.

A skein of black yarn, lost on the street, awaits the loser at the CHRONICLE office.

The People's party of Marion county will nominate a full county ticket tomorrow at Salem.

A pamphlet containing the new Australian ballot law adopted by this state is for sale at the CHRONICLE office at ten cents a copy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Borders, who have been visiting friends in the city for the last few days, returned today to their home in Le Grande.

Scientists have discovered that the human mouth is slowly, but surely, getting wider all the time. Now we know what the matter is with some editors that we wot of.

Miss Gertrude Myers, a teacher in our city schools has resigned the position and accepted a like one in the Portland public schools and taken her departure this morning. We are sorry to lose this accomplished lady, but it is Portland's gain.

M. Quad, the irrepressible editor of the Arizona Kicker, took passage on the outgoing Prineville stage today. It was said at the office, in the Umatilla house, that he was looking for a new location, had heard of Prineville, and wanted to see the town. He was some time since invited to visit Oregon, by a progressive society of the state, but pleaded lack of time. He is now traveling incognito.

This is a bad year for campaign banners. The other day the banner of the Young Men's McKinley club met with an accident and had to be taken down for repairs. Yesterday an attempt was made to hang a democratic banner, in the form of a shield, suspended from a wire stretched from the Grant building, corner of First and Washington, to the old Waldron drug store, but the "taxed" wire, it is presumed, indignantly resisted the idea of holding up a free trade banner, and let it fall on the street with a thud that smashed the frame work into kindling wood. It too, had to be taken to the hospital, and now democratic and republican honors are even. Speaking of ominous things, what means it that the democratic banner is an exact fac-simile of the Union Pacific shield, and is, or rather is to be stretched across the railroad track?

Hon. Chas. Hilton left today for a visit to Gilliam county.

Mr. Chas. Stubling left yesterday for a short trip to Minnesota.

H. C. Rooper, of Bake Oven, and J. C. Murphy, of Antelope, are at the Umatilla House.

It is reported that the D. S. Baker is to be tied up, and all hands retired, except the watchman.

The Wasco Warehouse is receiving and shipping large quantities of freight, daily for the interior.

Thirty-four head of horses were brought in last night from Crook county to be shipped to California.

Mays & Crowe have commenced to receive their new stock of farming implements, wagons, buggies and carriage and wagon material.

The Regulator will bring up in tow tonight, from Crates' Point, the Union Pacific wharf boat, Wasco, and the barge Huntress.

Editor Cradlebaugh, of the Glacier, and Capt. H. Coe, of Hood River, passed through the city today on the way to Wasco, to attend the Knights of Pythias inauguration tonight.

Some who have not kept posted, will inquire what is all this Majestic-Drayton-Burrowe fuss about; simply a woman; Mrs. Drayton, daughter of Wm. Astor; who is a bigger fool than the Jersey Lilly. This and nothing more.

The following Knights of Pythias of this city, left today on the noon passenger for Wasco, to inaugurate a lodge of Knights at that place: Sam Campbell, Louis Korden, Frank Meneefe, W. H. Wilson, J. C. Crowe, Thos. A. Hudson and John Michell.

Up in Linn county pheasants have commenced nesting. A farmer near Albany recently plowed up a nest that contained several eggs. The early spring will probably be the means of making the splendid game birds plentiful, as each bird will raise several broods.

Revival meetings are now in progress at one of the Baker City churches, and from the way the Democrat speaks of some of the attendants it is evident a work of grace is much needed over that way. Says the Democrat: A few old sinners whose characters are as black as the inside lining of sheol are among the number who pretend to take a great interest in these meetings, and it is to be hoped that they are sincere, and judging from their base conduct after they leave the temple of worship, we are led to believe that sin is so deeply imbedded in their carcasses that it would require a baptism of carboric acid or a strong solution of concentrated lye to make an impression on the sins of these old hypocrites.

Charley Bascome, one of the oldtime residents of The Dalles, left the city last night for New Jersey, where he goes to spend the evening of his days with a brother. Many an oldtime friend will drop a kindly tear or speak a kindly word over his departure. Generous to a fault, Charley saw many a less noble competitor outstrip him in the race after wealth and when paralysis laid its cruel hand upon him about six months ago, it left him poor in everything except in the riches which wealth cannot confer, a contented disposition. Although almost helpless he nobly refused to become a public charge and uncomplainingly and cheerfully did whatever odd jobs of work he was capable of or could find to do in his line as a painter. One couple of days ago he painted a fence for a neighbor who would willingly have contributed the wages earned as a gift. On the way to his new home Charley will call and visit his aged father in New York City.

The Dalles must take some lengthy strides in the way of improvements in the near future, of which our own citizens seem scarcely to realize the prospect. When the time arrives for modern light draft vessels to penetrate the interior through the canal and locks at the cascades, the lordly Columbia will assert her prerogative as a transportation route and there will be many a floating cargo taken on at docks here for distant ports of the world, more readily than they are now received at ports nearer to the sea. All this may be accomplished, and The Dalles become a busy mart from shipping alone, to which may be added the fertile resources of the surrounding country, from grain, wool, mutton, beef and horses, for which the Inland Empire is now famous. The mines of precious ores and coal, which abound within a radius of from one hundred to three hundred miles of The Dalles, will cause the erection of stamp mills, smelters, reduction works, etc., and the hills will resound with the tumult of business, while thousands of busy people will take the place of our present hundreds, and our capital be counted by millions. This is no fancy picture of what The Dalles may become within the next decade, because we have here the hidden treasures and the undeveloped resources that may be counted upon to enrich the world, by the bare possibility of cheapened power, and many other contributing forces, brought about by scientific developments in electricity and other modern appliances, now so abundantly used for supplying the daily necessities of humanity—none of which are exempt from successful application here.

Something new—Pabsts Bohemian Milwaukee Beer only one bit a bottle. Hot clam broth after 5 p. m. at J. O. Mack's. Call and try them. 2-23tf

The Medal Contest.

A very good house greeted the Democrat contest last night and everything indicates that these trials of declamatory skill will become quite popular.

The contestants did their work nobly and each gave evidence of careful training. The contestants were Bertha Wilbertson, Harry Fredden, Archy Barnett, May Barnett, Pearl Butler and Johnny Barnett. The judges were Dr. Eshelman, A. R. Thompson and B. S. Huntington. The medal was awarded to Miss Pearl Butler. The music by a choir, consisting of Professor Smith, J. Frank Haworth, Mrs. Condon and Miss Crebill and a vocal solo by Mrs. B. S. Huntington deserve special mention as contributing highly to make a delightfully pleasing entertainment. Nor must the two songs "A neat little clock" and "Roll your hands," by the primary class of the public schools be forgotten. The little people acquitted themselves splendidly. The ladies' committee of the W. C. T. U. desire through the CHRONICLE to thank the many friends who aided to make the contest a complete success, financially and otherwise.

From the Agricultural College.
CORVALLIS, OR., March 23, 1892.

Editor Chronicle:
We are still having nice weather here. It rained pretty hard on Sunday the 13th inst.

A car load of hickory arrived at the Corvallis carriage factory a few days since.

Mr. C. H. Everett, a former resident of Eastern Oregon, expects to be among friends at Dufur in a few days.

As this is the close of the winter term at the college, the professors are conducting examinations.

The M. E. church is holding a protracted meeting.

The "Old College" now stands deserted. The South Methodists held a school in it till sometime last winter.

Yesterday evening the writer armed himself with a bucket full of whitewash, and a brush, and then climbed up in an old apple tree and proceeded to business. While I was thus engaged a Corvallis business man stopped to say, "you are doing it up 'brown.'" When I was at work fifteen or twenty feet from the ground, Prof. Horner asked if I thought it would kill the tree, I said, "don't know, guess not", and he said, "I guess it will kill the fern anyway. Won't it?"
BUNCHGRASS.

Wamic Items.
WAMIC, Feb. 1, 1891.

Editor Chronicle:
Rev. Lee Holgate was in Wamic Sunday March 20th, and preached in the evening to an attentive congregation—he brought with him Miss Rose Holgate and Miss Anna Heisler of Dufur.

As our crop season is quite through with, we can occasionally pick up a few leisure moments in which we can again give you a few of the passing incidents that take place in our part of nature's habitation.

We were visited by quite a lively hail and rain storm last Friday evening which proved beneficial to growing crops and ground that is yet to be plowed. The winter grain looks quite favorable for a good crop with most any kind of a season.

We would like to tell Jimmy Jones through your columns, that the people respectfully invite him to keep his cricket tribe on the south side of the river, as we have no use for them in Wamic, but if he does not, we shall cut all the trees and bridges that span the river, so that they cannot cross.

Saturday the 19th, was a lively time in Wamic. The Barlow State Grange and the republican primary. Both meetings the same afternoon was the cause of quite a crowd assembling in the city. Grange business and electioneering were the topic of the afternoon, which made the meeting quite enthusiastic.

Born. To the wife of John Eubank, March 15th 1892, a son. Mother and child doing well. John is the happiest man on Juniper flat. He thinks that if the crickets do not eat him out, he will have a good crop, and a boy that will help him to gather it.
UNCLE TOBY.

The Sum of Appropriations.
WASHINGTON, March 24.—The sundry civil appropriation bill amounts to little more than $25,000,000, about $13,000,000 less than the similar act of last congress. The largest cut made is in the items for public buildings. There is also a saving of over $300,000 on account of military posts.

Should Have Taken S. E. Medicine.
NEW YORK, March 23.—George Shepard Page, one of the most conspicuous figures on Wall street, and famous as a millionaire chemist, has been committed to an asylum for the insane. His mind was broken down by worry superinduced by a severe attack of grip.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.
"I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'" 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.
Messrs. Cage and Sherman, of Alexander, Texas, write us regarding a remarkable cure of rheumatism there as follows: "The wife of Mr. Wm. Pruitt, the Postmaster here had been bed-ridden with rheumatism for several years. She could get nothing to do her any good. We sold her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and she was completely cured by its use. We refer any one to her to verify this statement." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
