MARKET REVIEW.

Thursday, March 31, 1892.

The season is so well advanced that the stagnation in business has vanished and the usual activity is noticed in all branches of trade in every direction. Large stocks of merchandise are on hand, and dealers are pleased with the inauguration of a brisk season, which is more than satisfactory, thus far. There is a realisatisfactory, thus far. There is a realization of more business than was experienced at the corresponding period of last year. The prices of merchandise is unchanged.

In groceries, sugar has not declined as In groceries, sugar has not declined as was expected, but on the contrary is firm, owing to the sale of the Sprickles sugar interests in the east to the Trusts, and consequently cheaper goods are not anticipated anyways soon. Coffee is firm at former quotations. Other lines are in good stock, and prices remain without change.

Freight rates by the D. P. and A. Nav. Co., of last falls schedule, are unchanged. Notwithstanding the reports being circulated that they were higher and that the Regulator was sold out to the U. P. railroad company, which is absolutely false in every particular, our absolutely false in every particular, our people, one and all, are unqualifiedly hearty in the support of the peoples line, and are receiving large freight shipments and have immense stock on hand.

The wool market is still slumbering and bids fair to show less activity for sometime, owing to the depressed condition of the eastern markets. A San Francisco dispatch of the 29th inst., gives no encouraging information to our wool growers as the following indicates. There is no quotation for wool, because at the time being the market has not developed and character. Some Nevada wools, shorn at and near Reno have been sold there at 14c to 141cc, which prices are so far regarded as high, though last year are so many of them that the flowering the same wools sold at the same points season extends over a long period. for more money. The latest news from Boston is not encouraging to present buying and therefore local dealers express apathy and indifference, in fact. they take no special interest in wool.

The wheat market is sluggish and is devoid of interest. The quantities in of the students as the men were leaving first hands, reported from the interior, has nearly all been sold and passed out vicinity heard a very short but animated of their hands and been shipped to points for export. Prices have gradually declined contrary to the expectations of many, and the large visible supply reported on hand in eastern grain centers, has tended to lower prices up the wrong hat and was making away considerable.

The crop reports from South Australia, New Zealand and New South Wales, speaks for itself in the following: Mail advices from Australia, says the Northwestern Miller, estimate the wheat crop in South Australia, at 7,500,000 bushels, and the surplus for export at 512,500 quarters against 1,130,000 quarters actually shipped in 1891. The Victorian crop was estimated at 13,387,-000 bushels, leaving a surplus of about 700,000 quarters, or rather less than last year's actual export. The New Zealand crop promised to be fully up to the average, but in New South Wales the yield was 3,960,000, leaving a deficiency to be imported from the other colonies of ers. This means that Australasia will not have more than half as much as she had last year to spare for Vege: able Parsaparilla is the only bowel reguexport. In the Argentine, on the other hand, the surplus is now said to be equal to last year's, for, though the yield per acre is small, there was a very largely increased area. In our own market prices are unchanged, although it is doubtful if more than 75 cents per bushel could be realized for prime milling wheat.

Hay, oats and barley remains at quite as plentiful as last week, but there is no change in prices. Eggs are a little scarce, but for all of that prices in Portland do not warrant more than 1216 to 14 cents per dozen.

A general complaint of a scarcity of mill feed is noticed, but the former quotations are maintained.

The Wedding Flower.

The flowering of the "Wedding Flower," at Kew this year, is an event of more than ordinary interest, both to botanists and horticulturists. It is the giant not only of the genus Iris, but of the whole natural order to which it belongs.

It is found wild only in a small island off the east coast of Australia, thousands of miles distant from the habitant of any other Iris. While all other Irises may be grown out of doers, or with a little protection in winter, this one is happy only when treated to subtropical conditions. Its value in horticulture is due as much to its stature and elegance of foliage as to the size and beauty of its numerous Cleaning a Marble Statue.

Commodore Perry's marble statue in Cleveland, having acquired such a heavy coating of smoke and soot as to render it unsightly, was recently scrubbed, but with the effect of making it look worse than ever. The black came off the "high lights," and the smudge is deepened in the shadows. And, though the brave old sailor never did a mean thing in his life, they now talk of giving him a coat of whitewash.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

of ten largely increases every year in England, Russia, and the principal European tea-drinking countries. But It does not grow in America. And not alone that, but thousands of Europeans who leave Europe ardent lovers of tea upon arriving in the United States gradually discontinue its use, and finally cease it altogether.

This state of things is due to the fact that the Americans think so much of business and so little of their palates that they permit China and Japan to ship them their cheapest and most worthless teas. Between the wealthy classes of China and Japan and the exacting and cultivated tea-drinkers of Europe, the finer teas find a ready market. The balance of the crop comes to America. Is there any wonder, then, that our taste for tea does not appreciate?

In view of these facts, is there not an immediate demand for the importation of a brand of tea that is guaranteed to be un-
