WALL STREET METHOD

Uncle Rufus Hatch in an Unguarded Way Talks of Things.

THE SILVER BILL AND COAL TRUST.

Sage's Advice is to Sell no More Puts and Calls at Present.

PERHAPS HE WAS CAUGHT SHORT.

The Northwestern Bulls—The Banks Reserve—"Pools and Fools"—Two Chief Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Wall street has been considerably agitated for ten days past over the ups and downs of congress on the silver bill, wool act, etc., and operators are more than usually close-mouthed. Last evening, however, a conversation at the League club became quite animated, with Uncle Rufus Hatch as the central figure of a group of well known operators. Uncle Rufus was very earnest. Among other things caught by a reporter near by, were these pointed sentences. If the silver bill should pass and Harrison veto it, he will be defeated. If he did not veto it he would be beaten—so he is between heavy fires. Jim Keene says he will veto it and be nominated, but he does not say he will be elected. I received a letter from Amos J. Cummings, and he says the silver bill is all right. Of course he is in favor of it. So far as the market is concerned, there is no market except matched orders. I am told that the coal combination is very strong. As far as the coal stocks are concerned, they say they own a great deal more than there is of the Reading, and have for the past four months. Sage told a friend of his a few days since he would not sell any puts or calls, as the market was in a very dangerous position. My impressions are that Uncle Russell was caught short of Delaware and Lackawanna. Keene and Brown of Horton & Co., are bulls on Northwestern, but as far as I can see there are no orders to buy or sell. The market is in a position that you can put up as you please, then have to let go without any buyers. The banks have $16,000,000 reserved. They are very large in their loans to Wall street brokers. Business is very dull from one end of the country to the other. The product of the soil is very low. Merchants are neither expanding nor extending. The large loans are mostly owned by Wall street "pools and fools." Individually I believe that Erie and Northwestern are the two chief stocks you can make anything on. I made $2,700 on sugar, and am so fearful that I will lose it, I have not traded in it since. I repeat what I have so often said, that when the summer tourists commence going to Europe they will want the gold again. Gen. Dodge tells me that he thinks Gould has done all the business he will ever do. In other words he is very, very ill. Don't you think the Richmond Terminal reorganizers made a mistake in not making it $400,000,000 instead of $350,000,000. And don't you think the sugar trust should have increased their capital stock $40,000,000 instead of $25,000,000, thus making it an even $100,000,000?

Another Boy Killed Sparring.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., April 4.—The youth Rice, aged 18, who broke the neck of another boy Charles Lesh, in a sparring contest on Sunday the 13th, has been held for trial on a charge of murder. The two boys were about evenly matched, young and robust, and were pushed into the contest by "friends" for a purse. Lesh was instantly killed. His neck was broken. About a dozen parties to the contest, will have examinations as abettors of the murder, and it is safe to say that no more such "sport" will be witnessed in this part of the country.

Natural Gas Falling.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 4.—Reports made and circulated last week to the effect that the natural gas supply at Noblesville was giving out, seem to be confirmed. Mr. Todd, superintendent of the company's lines, is authority for the statement that each well loses on an average one pound a day in pressure, and unless new wells are drilled soon the city cannot be supplied. The company does not feel able to meet the additional expense, and besides a large portion of the land adjoining the city is leased to the Indianapolis and Standard Oil companies.

Didn't Keep the Faith.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The action of Senator Berry, of Mississippi, in breaking faith with his fellow senators and voting against the bills for the Columbia river improvement, after having the aid of the Pacific delegation to secure the appropriation for the Mississippi, is freely discussed. He will not be trusted in future where the word of a senator has to be counted upon to carry a measure of any kind. On the day in question the bills for the lump sums for the Mississippi river and the improvement of the cascades of the Columbia, and the boat railway around the dalles of the Columbia were all made a special order for one day. The Mississippi river bill, carrying an appropriation of $18,000,000, was the first on the calendar. It received the support of the senate, save a few democratic exceptions. It was observed, however, after this bill was passed and was safe, and all of the bills for the cascades and the boat railway came up that Senator Berry, voted against these bills, because they would not do his section any particular good. As the day has long since passed when sectional legislation was buried, even democrats concede that this action was unworthy of the Mississippi senator. The Columbia improvement is no longer considered a local matter, but is in every way of leading importance as a national improvement.

"Jack the Slasher."

PADUCAH, Ky., April 4.—England has its Jack the Ripper, and even Gotham has its prototype, but it was left for Kentucky to develop the exceptional case of a slasher. For a long time past there has been much complaint among the ladies of the place concerning a man whom none could fully describe, being unable to recognize him, as he always appeared in the night time. He would spit upon their clothes as they passed out of the churches or other public places, and would slash their garments badly with a very sharp instrument. The fellow would secrete himself in the dark and would commit his depredations as the ladies passed in crowds. Lately he has grown bolder, and last night was recognized by a young lady as he spat upon one passing by him, just in front of her. The young lady who had been spat upon was told of the matter and she hunted the fellow up today. She was about to cowhide him when an officer took the man in charge. The fellow is a young man known as Ben Jones, who has for years been regarded as a crank. He seems to have an antipathy to female garments, and it is said his mother has lost many garments at his hands. He would steal them, and after soiling them would cut them into shreds. Once he stole her entire wardrobe, and carrying it into the woods, cut all the garments into bits and hid them in a hollow tree. He is regarded as being dangerous and will be sent to an asylum.

Suffering William.

BERLIN, April 4.—The health of Emperor William has much improved since Thursday, when an operation was performed upon his ear. The operation was a thorough success, the emperor being free from pain and becoming stronger as soon as it was over. An operation had already been made at Kiel, while the emperor was on his trip to Norway, and this explains why he kept himself secluded on board the vessel for eight days. In the same way his strict seclusion at Chateau Hubertus can be accounted for. At one time the effusion of matter was accompanied by pain which was hardly endurable, but before it began to flow freely his suffering became so great that his mind appeared to become affected, and another operation was necessary. All this is interesting news in view of the late political crisis in Germany.

Protection Asked For.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The loan and savings associations of Indiana have formed a league, the object of which is mutual protection of the home companies against fraudulent foreign associations that are robbing the people. A mass convention was held at Indianapolis to which each association in the state sent representatives. The outcome of the meeting will be an enactment of the legislature which is to furnish the protection asked for.

Soldiers Send Keller.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 4.—Capt. Chas. H. Clark, chief of ordinance, department of the Columbia, has started a subscription for speedy relief of the famine districts of Russia. By his system of dispatch it is expected that the whole army will take part in it. He was instrumental in a move for the relief of the Yorktown sufferers, a few years since, which was most effective.

COTTON TAKES FIRE.

A New Orleans Conflagration Destroys Millions.

THE SCENE AN AWE INSPIRING ONE.

In a Second, Almost, Blocks Ablaze

Form Solid Sheets of Fire.

HOUSE AFTER HOUSE WENT DOWN.

Hundreds of People Left Homeless. Losses $2,900,000 in Cotton. Other Losses More.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—One of the most destructive cotton fires on record broke out at 10:30 this morning among some cotton on the sidewalk in front of a fire-proof cotton press on Frontstreet, where 10,000 bales of cotton were stored. The department promptly responded, but the wind was so high and the cotton so dry that it burned like tissue paper. The firemen worked like demons to arrest the progress of the flames, but their efforts were unavailing. Through the yards swept the fire carrying devastation with it. After three repeated alarms a general alarm was sent in, and all the engines in the city, with two or three exceptions, were called out. In half an hour after the flames started the fire-proof press was totally consumed. In the press were stored 50,000 bales of which the greater portion was destroyed. It required but a very short time to destroy the press. Several firemen had narrow escapes from falling walls. The sight was an awe-inspiring one. For a space of at least two blocks a sheet of flames shot upward. The smoke and sparks from the fire, blown down into the street by the wind, choked and singed the spectators. Suddenly a small flame was seen to leap skyward from a corner of the Independence press. In a second almost the entire block was ablaze, and the flames formed a solid block of fire. The people living in the neighborhood took fright and a wild scene ensued. Houses were dismantled of their contents and carried away. House after house went down and the efforts of the firemen seemed in vain to face the overwhelming odds. The flames spread in every direction owing to the varying winds, and soon four blocks were ablaze, and the wooden buildings were devoured as if they were so much chaff. Hundreds of people were left homeless by the fire. The scene presented is truly one of desolation. Nothing remains of the many handsome buildings embraced in the four blocks but the blackened ruins. The losses are estimated at $2,500,000.

Our American Monaco.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—An eastern gambling syndicate has been organized to open an establishment in this city which, in a small way, will vie with the celebrated place in Monaco. The syndicate represents millions of dollars and proposes to establish a gambling house on mammoth proportions and conduct it on the club system. A $1,500,000 bank roll will be here for those who think they can win it. The place will be exclusive, regularly chartered and incorporated, and only open to members and friends. The syndicate expect that the establishment will attract wealthy people who love the click of the ivory.

The Astoria Railroad.

ASTORIA, April 4.—Notwithstanding some of the mossback element continue to stand around this city with their hands in their pockets, squirting tobacco juice on the sidewalks, and warning the railroad contractors to look out for their pay—such action, at this late date, is entirely useless. The company is pushing the work around Smith point, and two corps of engineers are in the field, started from a common point in the Nehalem valley, between Portland and Astoria, called the summit, or divide. One party is working toward Hillsboro, and the other toward Astoria. According to the terms of the contract, the company is to expend a certain amount of money on the road every month, independent of the engineering expenses, or forfeit a stipulated sum. There are sixteen men in each of the two corps of engineers surveying the route.
